

WADDOO SHARPLY CRITICISED FOR RAILWAY ORDER

Indiana Congressman Points to Acceptance of Political Place by Baker in Ohio

Washington, Sept. 26.—Representative Wood, of Indiana, speaking in the House yesterday, said representatives of the four railway brotherhoods have filed a protest with Director General McAdoo against the order prohibiting railroad employees from participating in politics. This order, Mr. Wood maintained is in violation of the rights of employees as citizens, and in contrast to the political activities of the leaders of the administration.

He criticised another ruling of the railroad administration, which, he said, prohibits railroad men from having an interest in co-operative stores. Discussing the railway wage adjustment board, he declared it has no representative of the employees and in effect takes away the right of collective bargaining.

"The railroad men are unable to understand," Mr. Wood said in discussing the brotherhood's protest, "why they should be prohibited from accepting designations as party organization officials, especially when the Secretary of War, with all of his great responsibilities, seeks and accepts election as a member of the Democratic State Committee in Ohio, and when no less than four members of the present cabinet have written campaign letters endorsing the Tammany candidate for Governor of New York."

Declaring that he had seen no mention in the newspapers concerning the brotherhood's protest, Mr. Wood said:

"Is it not remarkably strange that a matter of this importance has not reached the public? Is this a sample of the pitiless publicity to be expected under the new freedom?"

"Another thing which seems to have escaped the press, is the decision of Federal Judge Evans, at Louisville, rendered a few days ago, in which it is held that the Secretary of the Treasury is acting in usurpation of authority in taking over the railroads, because the law authorizes the Secretary of War only to do this thing, purely as a war measure."

Harrisburg Lad Held in Prison Camp, He Writes His Mother

According to a letter from Earnest A. Rouch, of this city, now in the army, to his mother, Mrs. Mary L. Rouch, of 1128 North Sixth street, he is a prisoner of war in Germany. The letter contains the following:

"I have a bit of hard luck which is in the fact that I was wounded and started to go back to our lines but I struck the German lines before I reached my own I was nearly exhausted when I reached the place where I was captured."

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. William F. Gotwalt, 201 Muench street, Warren P. Gotwalt describes how he was gassed. It is dated August 25.

After going over the top and beginning to charge the Hun through wheat and oat fields, Gotwalt says: "It was a great marathon and endurance test. Every now and then we had it hand to hand and from time to time they fired all kinds of shells back at us from rifle to rifle. I broke a couple of Boche's heads in hand-to-hand fighting." The writer says the war game is rougher than football and "doggone more exciting."

Good news has been received by Mrs. John Hubley, of 1231 Bailey street, from her son, Corporal John F. Hubley, Jr., to the effect that the latter is out of a French hospital where he was taken after being gassed. Corporal Hubley, who was in Company D, Seventh Regiment, has been transferred to the Twentieth Company, prisoner of war establisment, A. E. F.
