This sensational development opens up a new phase of the war. If Bulgaria makes peace with the Allies

Rumania Ready For War Again

Thus the iron ring about Austria-Hungary will be reconstituted. Rumania seething with revolt against the German conqueror, seems also most ready to begin warfare once.

I spent Thursday morning upon Dead Man's Hill, near Verdun. Our soldiers had just passed down its southern slopes, and from the distance, in the Bois des Forges, came a ripple of machine guns and the droning drum noise of the barrage curtain ahead of the Americans. Stumbling from one enormous abeliable into another, I had reached the edge of the famous mound, 285 meters above sea level, just as the sun burst out of the fog that filled the valley.

A Splendid Cyclorama of War Spread cut around was a gorgeous cyclorama, while overhead a world of aerial combats was in progress. Inside the craters of shell holes were patches of grass, grown since the Crown Prince sought to cut off Verdun in the first year of the war and launch his soldiers upon a march to Paris. There were flowers, toothe last offering of summer.

Projectiles were flying from con-

Whole United States Represented I met men from every part of the United States upon Dead Man's Hill. They swarm over it like bees. Sergeant James Walker, of Hastings, Neb.; Private Wilfred Caldwell, of Richmond, Va.; Captain C. F. Hogan, of Portiand, Ore.; Sergeant Clarence Henning and Private Bernard Snyder, of Chicago—all were imbued with the same indomitable spirit of the American Army. Imagine Americans upon Dead Man's Hill, there to wipe out the blood stain of Verdun and doing it! A pale-faced lad from Pittsburgh, clipped upon the shoulder by a machine gun bullet, said:

"Ain't this a great day?"

But to the American soldiers it is a sort of picnic ground, where they may foregather after the stress of battle; a bald, barren, treeless high place, from which to view the surrounding country and prophesy "Christmas dinner in Berlin."

"Christmas dinner in Berlin."

The question, it is stated, is one of the conclusion of such a military agreement as would prevent any further danger from the Bulgarian side to the operations of the Allies in the Balkans.

Bulgaria virtually has sued for peace following the utter defeat of her armies in Macedonia. Pennsylvania Glory Centered at Varennes

The glory for Pennsylvania centers around the capture of Varennes, one of the dozen or more French towns returned to France on Thursday by the American forces. In the same general attack, with troops from Kansas, Missouri and other states, the Keystone soldiers, proved heroes north of Chateau Thierry, and the fledging arrivals have written their names officially on the pages of the American Army.

Projectiles were flying from concealed positions away in the rear and the roar of the mighty cannon was frightful. By opening one's mouth and standing upon tiptoes, one kept one's hearing.
