VOTES FOR WOMEN

PRESIDENT WILSON reflects the thought of a vast number of voters when he appeals to Congress for the passage of the resolution to amend the federal constitution by the addition of a universal suffrage clause.

We fought the Revolutionary War and proclaimed this a land of freedom and independence. Yet we permitted black men and women to be bought and sold like so many cattle.

We are again waging a war for liberty and equal privilege, and to the winning of that war we have called the women of America to take the places of men who have gone into the army.

We are fighting to make the world safe for democracy, but there is no true democracy where there is not equal rights and opportunity for all.

On this issue the expressions of President Wilson and Senator Sproul, the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, are singularly similar.

Our boys are doing more in France than was expected of them; let us at home buy more Liberty Bonds than is expected of us.

WHY THIS SILENCE?

THE approach of the Thanksgiving season gives rise to the thought that in years past the Kaiser has been prompted to announce some months in advance the city in which he intends to eat his Thanksgiving Day dinner.

GOOD NEWS

THE war news is good—tremendously, overpoweringly good. Bulgaria is out of the war, Turkey is wobbling, Austria is seeing the ghost of ruin stalking through the haze of military defeat.

The news from Europe is good—tremendously good, as we look away across the Atlantic and study through the eyes of the newspapers the great work the allied armies are doing.

The men "over there" are giving good accounts of themselves. But what of ourselves over here? The best news we receive from them is that they are winning battles.

What is the news we are going to send to France? Our men "over there" are doing twice as well as we expected them to do.

Our men "over there" are doing twice as well as we expected them to do. Are you going to give them the same kind of good cheer they are giving us by subscribing for twice as many Liberty Bonds as we did last campaign?

You just bet your last big, round silver dollar we are!

IN THE EAST

WITH Bulgaria out of the war and her railroads in the hands of the Allies, Turkey may well turn her thoughts toward separate peace, regardless of the wishes of her imperial master.

But even with only Bulgaria beaten and the allied armies occupying the country, the arch of German supremacy from Berlin to India is broken.

POLITICS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Members of the Democratic State Executive Committee will be called together within the next week to fill more vacancies in congressional and legislative tickets.

The committee met in Philadelphia about a week ago and approved several substitutions for men who had withdrawn and since that time there have been other candidates retiring.

The withdrawal yesterday of H. H. Mercer, the Mechanicsburg attorney, as Democratic candidate for Governor in this district, caused considerable surprise.

—William E. Crow, of Uniontown, chairman of the Republican State Committee, yesterday conferred with Senator Sproul, Republican nominee for Governor in Philadelphia.

Senator Sproul has turned his entire attention to the Liberty Bond sale. The state committee will arrange an itinerary which will take him through the entire state.

—W. Storm Miller, one of the best-known figures in Reading Republican politics for many years, although he never held a salaried office, died after a short illness of pneumonia, aged 63 years.

—Senator Sproul is spending several days in and about Philadelphia making Liberty Loan speeches.

—Thomas Z. Minehart, one of the Democratic candidates for the House in Franklin county, has withdrawn his name from the race.

—Mayor Thomas E. Smith, of Philadelphia, upon whom a warrant for violation of city ordinances was served yesterday, may start to "get even" with the men who attack him.

—According to the Philadelphia Inquirer Dr. Charles E. Penrose, chairman of the State Game Commission, will be named to succeed the late Dr. Samuel G. Dixon.

—The question of the moment does not concern the ultimate fate of Bulgaria; it asks what the next development in the Balkans will be.

The manner in which young men are getting before the sun these days to get cracks at the wild ducks that are to be seen in the Susquehanna anywhere between Dauphin and York counties.

The six-cent fare which goes into effect on Harrisburg trolley lines today reminds before the war began of the six-cent fares and the horse cars.

It has been estimated that by reason of their neglect to chew their food sufficiently the people of the United States waste food to supply all France and Belgium.

Business during the war and after the war, can best be insured and safeguarded through advertising. The great problem of business today is the problem of markets.

Advertising has the power to create markets and maintain them, for markets are in human minds. Advertising points out those things desirable to have.

Advertising, creator of markets, is therefore, the safeguard to business. That is the gist of a great war message which has been issued by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.
