BENEFITED IN HEALTH THROUGH TONALL.

Samuel Swab, of New Oxford, Pa., now residing at Hershey, Pa., makes this statement regarding the merits of Tonall and how he was benefited. "I was janitor at the schools at New Oxford, Pa., and suffered a general breakdown in my health. I began to use Tonall, buying it at Auker's Drug store, and at once began to improve in my health. Tonall has benefited me wonderfully. I am now working and living at Hershey, Pa. Because of the Roots, Herbs and Barks Tonall has a decided merit over any other medicine I ever heard of."

Every one who uses Tonall speaks in the highest terms of its health-giving qualities.

This testimonial was given June 2, 1918.

Tonall is sold at Gorgas' Drug Store, Harrisburg; Hershey's, at Hershey, and Martz', at Steelton.

State Armory Board Anxious to Complete Buildings as Money-Saving Measure

Problems attending the proposition of the State Armory Board for construction of four armory buildings are to be placed before the War Industries Board at Washington in the hope that the national authorities will grant the structural material needed. The armories are in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Reading and Scranton. All have parts of buildings in service.

It is stated that the Armory addition is being paid for temporary buildings and where government truck trains are being housed and to maintain interest in Reserve Militia organizations in that city as well as other places.

Funds for the construction were voted by the late Legislature, largely on a plea by the late Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart.

Mr. Swope Honored.—Charles P. Swope, for several years chief clerk in the bureau of engineering of the Public Service Commission, was given a dinner by the heads of bureaus and staff of the Commission at the Engineers club in honor of his departure for Washington where he becomes secretary to Senator Penrose.

Mr. Swope was tendered the best wishes of his friends in the Commission and Commissioners sent their appreciation of his services. He is well known to many Harrisburgers, who wish him well at the Capitol.

Bill at Schools.—Courses in military training have been established in three of the state's normal schools, Indiana, Millersville and West Chester, and the young men have been enrolled for special instruction in tactics, drill, war aims, French and English. The work has started with hundreds of drillings.

Dr. Kaibfus' View.—The fact that the national government provides for an open session for woodcock in this state other than that provided for by our state law will change or alter the season in this state as fixed by state law.

Dr. Joseph Kaibfus, State Game Commission Secretary, in a letter to an Erie man who asked about the situation caused by a Federal woodcock season starting October 1, while the Pennsylvania game code specifies October 20 as the first day for starting woodcock. "You have no authority to shoot any game in this state except as provided for by the state law," continued the doctor. "In my opinion the United States authorities have no right to open the game season in any state at a period prior to the period fixed by the state laws for that subject."

To Meet Thursday.—The special committee of the State Board of Education named to draft the bill providing for an increase of twenty per cent. in teachers' salaries and for a state appropriation to cover that advance will meet in Philadelphia Thursday. The idea is to submit the bill early in the coming season.

Roads Take Money.—Indications are that the $249,711.85 of the motor vehicle license fund remaining in the State Treasury at the close of September will be exhausted before very long owing to the heavy demands for repair of state highways, notably the Lincoln Highway which is used for motor trucks. In the last month over $700,000 has been drawn from this fund to meet repair and maintenance bills.

Attended Meeting.—Commissioner of Health Royer was in Philadelphia yesterday attending the meeting of the advisory board on the influenza situation.

Four Examined.—The state police department to-day had an examination for vacancies, which are now greater than ever known. John H. Meyers, one of the members of the office force, left yesterday for the Dickinson College training camp.

In Washington.—Adjutant General Frank D. Beary was in Washington to-day on militia matters. Arrangements were made yesterday between the State Prison Labor Commission and the United States Army whereby prisoners in the Eastern penitentiary will help make rifle parts for the government. Attorney General Brown was consulted and stated that the state laws would permit such work especially in war-time.

Little Change.—One of the things commented upon about the Capitol to-day was that the balance of the state treasury had not changed much in the last three months. It has been between the $9,000,000 and $9,400,000 marks for three months. Yesterday the balance aggregated $9,152,248.87 or $48,000 less than on August 31.

Important Meeting.—The State Compensation Board to-day had a meeting in Pittsburgh to-day, the first of a series of important sessions at which matters in regard to injured men will be discussed and the relation of municipalities plant employees to various claims will be considered.

Recalls How Trotzk Tried to Seize Church

Newark, N. J.—The Rev. Alexander John Chechilla, pastor of St. Michael's Russian orthodox Church at Van Buren and Oliver streets, recalled yesterday a day some nineteen months ago when Leon Trotzky, under whose dictation the "Records of Russia" have been published and persecuting the Church of Russia, first showed his teeth at that church.

The portentous episode took place late one Thursday afternoon in February, 1917. Father Chechilla at that time was superintendent of St. Vladimir's home, a kind of parish house for the church of that name, at 231 East Seventeenth street. Attendants informed Father Chechilla that a stranger of dubious aspect had been using the hours of the home, and he proceeded to the office floor to investigate.

There the lights had not yet been turned on, and in the darkness he blundered full into a man of surprisingly short stature who evidently had just found his way inside and was groping about. Without apology or preamble the intruder announced: "I'm Trotsky; I've come to talk things over."

Wanted Keys to Bank.—Some one turned on the lights and Father Chechilla got his first glimpse of his abductor. He appeared to be less than five feet tall and was emaciated and nervous, though the weather was cold, he was clad in a summer suit of many seasons, whose sleeves and fringed hems proclaimed its faithful service. The coat gaped at the neck, exposing an undergarment of a dirty shirt. A ready-tied bow of brilliant red drooped from a gray collar, entirely falling in its button. A triangular, lynx-like face was tufted with a black mustache and a tiny goatee.

"You know," declared the vision of untidiness, "we have chased the Czar out of Russia and all property now belongs to the people. That means not only land but churches. I am a member of the people's party and I want you to hand over the keys to this building including those to the bank on the ground floor; also the combination of the safe in that bank."

Utter amazement held Father Chechilla silent until his caller had finished. Then, convinced that he was dealing with a madman, he seized Leon Trotzky "of the people's party" by the ear, wed him to the front door and kicked him down the steep stairs to the street.

Visitor Threats Revenge.—Trotzky picked himself up, snarling like a vicious cat. His teeth gleamed in the light of a street lamp. "I will be the ruler of Russia soon," he said, "and I can wait for my revenge." and I can wait for my revenge." He departed, his head turned to maintain a fixed gaze at the priest in the portal, and his teeth showing.

Today Doutrichs Means More Than Ever to Harrisburg

The place that Doutrichs occupies in Harrisburg has grown more important in these times than ever before—Every advantage and benefit of big buying power and vast resources have been mobilized to lighten the burdens of war-time conditions and to continue a clothes service that has set new records of efficiency and value-giving.

In purchasing all of our fall and winter stock of clothing, hats, shirts or furnishings, we bought up-to-quality standards — We believed that our customers would feel the same way about their purchases — That they would sooner pay a little more and be sure of getting quality, service and value, than experiment with merchandise of doubtful quality—The fact that we are selling more merchandise of better quality has shown that we are right.

In the purchase of this characteristic Doutrich policy, we are glad to say that we have the close co-operation of such famous clothes makers — This is the Harrisburg home of
