"When a Girl Marries"

By ANN LESLIE

A New, Romantic Serial Dealing With the Absorbing Problems of a Girl Wife

CHAPTER XXIX (Copyright, 1918, by KING Features Syndicate, Inc.) "What's that husband of yours been doing?" demanded a voice from the doorway. I looked up from the eggs I was trying to fry...

By now we had progressed to a corner of the refectory table, and Neal was revelling in raspberries and eggs and toast and cream flavored with coffee—all of which he insisted on with royal disdain of the proper order of procedure.

Insists That Frail, Nervous Women Can Speedily Become Strong and Vigorous

A Vigorous Healthy Body, Sparkling Eyes and Health-Colored Cheeks Come in Two Weeks, Says Discoverer of Bio-feren.

World's Greatest Health Builder Costs Nothing Unless It Gives to Women the Buoyant Health They Long for.

It is safe to say that right here in this big city are tens of thousands of weak, nervous, and depressed women who in two weeks' time could make themselves so healthy, so attractive and so keen-minded that they would compel the admiration of all their friends.

The vital health building elements that these despondent women lack are all plentifully supplied in Bio-feren. If you are ambitious, crave success in life, want to have a healthy, vigorous body, clear skin and eyes that show no dullness, make up your mind to get a package of Bio-feren right away.

It costs but little and you can get an original package at any drugist anywhere. Take two tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—seven a day for seven days—then one after meals till all are gone. Then if you don't feel twice as good, look twice as attractive and feel twice as strong as before you started, your money is waiting for you. It belongs to you, for the discoverer of Bio-feren doesn't want one penny of it unless it fulfills all claims.

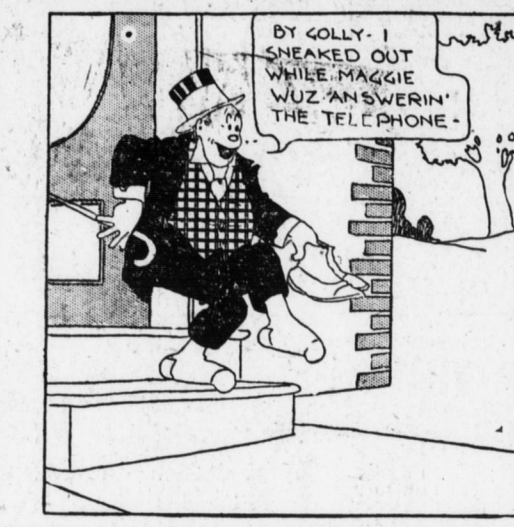

Note to Physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin, Calcium Glycero-phosphate, Iron, Pantoic, Manganese, Pantoic, Ext. Yucca, Manganese, Gentian, Phenolphthalein, Oleoresin Capsicum, Kolo.

Bringing Up Father

anything you don't want me to know. You shall stay as long as you like and I'll let you pay me ten dollars a week—but I'm not going to tell my husband I'm taking pay from you.

Neal began to bluster: "You want me to let that husband of yours think I'm sponging on him, do you? That's not fair—I can't be put in such a position."

Neal's eyes met mine challengingly. Our glances clashed for a moment and then he looked away. "All right," he said at last. "This is the safest place for me. I'll do what you say, Babbie. Now, why don't you call up that little Mason girl and invite her over for lunch? Work begins to-morrow and a fellow might as well enjoy life while he can."

There was something in my young brother's voice that worried me. (To Be Continued)

Advice to the Lovelorn

ACQUAINTANCE WITHOUT INTRODUCTION DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: A girl friend has asked me to write you and inquire whether it would be wrong for her to accept an invitation from a soldier whom she knows only by sight. She lives near a camp and has to pass it every time she goes to business. This soldier is always outside waving his hand to her and she waves back. The other day he called her over and asked if she would care to go out with him some night. She said she would let him know in a few days.

HE IS SARCASTIC DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been going about with a young man for some months, but lately he acts queerly, at other times he can never do enough to please me. How can I find out whether he really cares?

DOWN-HEARTED Nothing could be a greater mistake for a girl than to view a man to set the pace for all the moods and then become wretched or joyous accordingly. Have a little independence of character and what he acts cool and indifferent, if he should be you are incapable of being cool and sarcastic yourself. I am afraid you have shown too plainly that he is indispensable and he is accordingly putting a value on something of which he is sure.

"UNCERTAIN, COY AND HARD TO PLEASE" DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a young man and dearly love a young girl working in the same concern I do. The young woman in question is a problem I find impossible to solve. I have asked her out numerous times, but she always refuses. If I pay attention to any other girl she says I am forsaking her. Naturally I stop talking to the others and go back to her, but the same indifference starts all over again. What do you think I should do?

A CONSTANT READER I think you are entirely too conciliatory to many friends and last night's impression on so capricious a girl as the one you describe, I should not only advise you to stop talking to her, but I should advise you to tell her that you sense I think I would try to find another girl less "coy and uncertain."

CONSIDERING HIS OWN HAPPINESS DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: A has been married to B for a number of years, they have had two children whom A loves dearly. Recently a woman came into the man's life whom he loves much more than he ever loved his wife. He feels that he cannot live without the other woman, and yet if he leaves his wife, he fears he would ruin the lives of his children. What should he do, sacrifice his own happiness or that of his children?

AN INTERESTED FRIEND The man you describe seems to be entirely wrapped up in his own selfish ideas of happiness, and to be shirking the promises he made in marriage entirely. In breaking up his home he would certainly be ruining the lives of his children and it is doubtful if he would get any real happiness out of marrying the second woman. This has been tried a dozen times and invariably has proved to be a failure. These grand passions have a way of wearing thin. It is a doubtful world. He might be happy for a little while, but the one home built on the wreck of another seldom offers any real happiness to anyone concerned.

QUESTION OF ALLOTMENT DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: About five years ago, my husband deserted me, and I never heard from him during that time, but when the draft was called I wrote to the War Department. In Washington, asking if my husband had been drafted and they wrote by return mail that he had and was in France with his regiment. Now, Miss Fairfax, don't you think I, as his wife, am entitled to his allotment? Kindly advise. READER It would seem if you have never been divorced that you are entitled to an allotment, but I do not know what the rule is in the case of separations. Write to the War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

Church Suppers

Church suppers can be very good things. Perhaps the least waste of food is accomplished by the cafeteria system where each helps himself to the food which he desires. By this time most people are pretty well trained not to take things which they will not eat. These menus come from the United States food administration, and may be helpful: Baked beans and brown bread, stewed potatoes, oatmeal, barley or oatmeal muffins, cabbage salad, apple sauce, ice cream, (other sweeteners than sugar), cake, (victoria flour). Sliced cold meat creamed potatoes, cornmeal spoon bread, buttered carrots, string bean pickles, floating land custard. Potato and meat pie, green peas or baked tomatoes, victory bread and butter, cabbage and pepper salad, baked pears, oatmeal cookies.

Advice to the Lovelorn

SHALL SHE MARRY AGAIN? DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: It seems almost the young that ask me to advise whether they should spare a few minutes for one that has passed her youth. I am an American woman, some years at this side of the half-century mark. I have been twice widowed, have children grown and doing side by side with me. I am a selfish if I married again? No. I have anyone in mind, but I ask the question because I love my home. Love to do for someone near to me, and as the children grew up, they left, and I am unable to do anything.

Enthusiastic Reception to Loan Party at Millerstown

Millerstown, Pa., Oct. 5.—When the special train carrying Dr. Bagnell and party, of Fourth Liberty, Loan, arrived in Millerstown Wednesday noon they were given a rousing reception by a great crowd of people and the blowing of the factory whistles. The band heading the procession marched to the pavilion in East Park, where singing, music, introductions of soldiers who had seen service in France and other exercises were carried out. Dr. Bagnell gave a spirited talk on the great war and of the great necessity of buying bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Community services will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church to-morrow morning at 10.30. In the evening district superintendent, Dr. George W. Bickley, of Philadelphia, will preach. After the preaching services the third quarterly conference will be held—Miss Fay Long has gone to Philadelphia, where she will train for a nurse in the Methodist Episcopal Hospital.—Lieutenant Brown Bradenbaugh, of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army, with headquarters at Norfolk, Va., was home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Bradenbaugh, this week. Lieutenant Brown returned from a trip overseas several weeks ago.

Improves on Nature

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Am 17 years of age and a young man has asked me to marry him. My mother deserted me when I was 12 years old and two years ago I heard she died a widow. My friend says my mother was heartless and he tells me she was a good woman. I would need no one's consent to marry. Do you think this young man has a right to tell me what to do? I use paint and powder, lipstick, cold cream and shave my hair cut on the side. And I shave my eyebrows to make them arch. My friend says youth is beautiful and he tells me nothing to improve it. I told him other girls do these things and if I can't do it I wish, go to the hairdresser and he tells me he does this for my good, as I have no mother.

Insists Too Much on Rights

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Mr. A and Miss B are engaged. A has an appointment to call on B at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and B is aware of A's coming. Shortly before that time B is requested by a married sister to accompany her in her automobile visit a cousin. There is no reason at all for going just at that particular moment, as no previous appointment was made by either B or her sister. B is persuaded to go and leaves with her sister in the automobile. A arrives at B's house promptly at 2 o'clock. He is informed by B's father that she left at 2 o'clock and he meets her at her cousin's. B's father also states that if A wants to, he can go and meet B, but if he prefers, he can wait until B returns. A decides to wait until she comes and he waits for her.
