MAYOR CALLS ON CITY BOYS TO AID STRICKEN

Asks That Sections Where People Suffer Be Kept Quiet as Possible

Quiet as Possible

Mayor Keister this afternoon decided to call upon every Harrisburg boy to act as a guardian against noise during the epidemic of influenza, now prevalent in the city. "So many complaints have come to my office concerning the noises that annoy and distress the people who are ill, said the mayor at noon, "that I feel it is necessary that each Harrisburg boy constitute himself an officer to insure quiet in the communities where our people are sick. I know how badly people who are down with pneumonia feel. In my own vicinity I have drafted the boys into service. Now, I want to summon every lad in the city to similar service so that the sick may not be disturbed unnecessarily. I believe if we all cooperate we can make the situation better for those who suffer. Let's have as little noise as possible."
