

HUNS GIVE UP LAON AND ST. GOBAN TO POILUS

The Allies on each side, they went with such speed that the change in the battle line in that section of the front during a few hours was astonishing...

Allied Advance Slows Down

With the exception of the area north of Douai, there appears to have been a slowing down of the Allied advance during the past two days.

This may indicate the Germans have reached what is known as the Hunding or Brunhild line. This position, while apparently much less formidable than the Hindenburg system, still is strong enough to retard pursuit by the Allies and perhaps hold them up for some time.

The Hunding line runs from Antwerp to Ghent and thence to Tournai, Condé, Valenciennes, Solesmes, Guise, Rethel, Vouziers, Dun-sur-Meuse, and then down the base of the St. Mihiel salient to the Moselle, where it joins the old front running through Lorraine and the Vosges to the Swiss frontier.

British Units Reach Solesmes

French and the British forces virtually have reached this line east of Cambrai and St. Quentin. British units are reported at Solesmes, while the French, farther south, are within four miles of Guise.

On the Champagne front General Berthelot is less than five miles from Rethel, while farther east, General Gouraud has taken Vouziers, but has not penetrated much north of that place.

Huns Avert Disaster

Study of the tactics followed by the Germans during the past week has shown that they are following the methods of retreat used in the Marne and Somme salients in July and August.

British Reach Douai

In the region of Douai, British troops are fighting their way forward against desperate resistance and in spite of numerous waterways which serve to hold up their advance.

The Oise river has been crossed by the French at Origny, northeast of La Fere, and they have advanced close to the river to the north.

In Albania, the Italians have captured Kavaya, twelve miles southeast of Durazzo.

France Breaks With Finland

Paris, Oct. 14.—France has broken off the semiofficial diplomatic relations which have existed with Finland it is officially announced. This action was taken because the Finnish diet, having by a coup d'etat substituted a monarchy for a republic, and called a German prince to the throne.

Major Joseph Thompson and Captain Crowe Are Cited in War in France

Dispatches from France state that Captain Ralph C. Crowe and Major Joseph H. Thompson have distinguished themselves in action on the western front. Captain Crowe is a resident of Lemoyne. He was a member of the old Eighth Regiment staff at the time the Pennsylvania Guard was called to the Mexican border and a clerk in the State Highway Department.

When the guard was reorganized prior to going to Camp Hancock, Crowe organized the Machine Gun Company of the Eighth Infantry. This was one of the seven guard companies that left the city when America entered the war and was made up almost exclusively of men from this city.

Major Joseph H. Thompson, also cited for bravery, commands the first battalion of the One Hundred and Tenth Regiment. His home is in Beaver Falls, where in civil life he is a lawyer. Graduating from Geneva College, where he was a star football player and later coach, he entered the University of Pittsburgh, graduating from the law school. He was a member of the Pittsburgh football eleven and was coach for three years. In 1912 he was elected to the State Senate from the Beaver-Lawrence district.

Twelve years ago Thompson enlisted in the old Sixteenth Regiment of the National Guard and later was commissioned captain of B Company, Tenth Regiment, New Brighton. He was commissioned major in 1915.

The two following Pennsylvanians were given honorable citations and awarded the distinguished service cross by the commander-in-chief:
Sergeant Natez Kocak, U. S. M. C.
For extraordinary heroism in action in the Villers-Cotterets forest, south of Soissons, France, July 18, 1918. He advanced ahead of the American lines and captured a machine gun and its crew. Later the same day, he took command of several squads of Allied troops and led them forward in the advance. Born in Hungary, 1882. No next of kin and no address. Enlisted at Pittsburgh, Pa., October, 1907.
Past Assistant Surgeon Joe F. F. Boons, U. S. M. C.
For extraordinary heroism in action in the Bois de Belleau, France, June 9, 10, 1918. On two successive days the regimental aid station in which Surgeon Boons was working was struck by heavy shells and in each case demolished. Ten men were killed and a number of wounded were badly hurt by falling timbers and stones. Under these harassing conditions this officer continued without cessation his treatment of the wounded, supporting their evacuation, and setting an inspiring example of heroism to the officers and men serving under him. On June 25, 1918 Surgeon Boons followed the attack by one battalion against enemy machine gun positions the Bois de Belleau, establishing advanced dressing stations under continuous shell fire. Seventy-two are Pennsylvanians, three of whom reside in this vicinity. They are: Orville L. Baublitz, Red Lion, York county, assigned to coast defense of Chesapeake Bay, Fort Monroe, Va.; John H. Sunday, Newport, York county, assigned to coast defense of southern New York, Fort Hamilton, N. Y.; Deimer E. Wasson, R. R. No. 5, Tyrone, assigned to coast defense of Portland, Fort Williams, Me.

Arrests Decrease When Saloons Are Closed

Fourteen arrests was the total for last week, with the saloons closed, according to the records of Earl M. White, secretary to the chief of police. Only three were for drunkenness. Nine were violators of the traffic ordinance. The week before there were 38 arrests. It is not uncommon for the arrests to reach 100 in a week, and single days on which 64 arrests were made, are on record. Saturday nights usually bring the largest quotas of arrests, but only one man was arrested over the last weekend.

NATION AROUSED IN LOAN

Washington, Oct. 14.—German peace talk and Spanish influenza, the two great obstacles encountered in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, will not be permitted to defeat plans for obtaining more than the six billion dollars, although half of that amount must be raised in the next six days. Reports from all parts of the country last night indicated that the American people were fully aroused to the danger of failure through belief that Germany's offer to agree to President Wilson's peace terms meant an early end of the war.
