FOUR NEW CASES AT CAMP COLT

Gettysburg Board of Health Working Hard to Overcome Spanish Influenza Epidemic

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—The local board of health is taking rigid steps to prevent, if possible, any spread of Spanish influenza throughout the town. While the conditions in the town are not yet alarming, all steps are being taken that would help to stay the disease in its course. Although almost two hundred cases are known to exist in town, only three deaths have as yet been reported. The disease has spread much more rapidly in some of the rural districts of the county than it has in town and this, together with the conditions at Camp Colt during the past two weeks, during which time one hundred and twenty-four of the boys died, has made the citizens use every precaution to prevent contagion.

The disease at the camp is apparently abating, seemingly to have run its course, and few new cases are being reported.

The Methodist Church has been offered the board of health to be used as a hospital, the board accepted the offer in case it becomes necessary. At the meeting of the board held last night, a plan was adopted which was presented Dr. Phillips, of the Department of Health, this action was taken.

To recall Miss Kate Briel, the civic nurse, from Xavier Hall Hospital, where she was allowed to go during the height of the epidemic at Camp Colt, the board of health is taking steps to prevent her return.

To call for volunteers, either practical nurses or others who are willing to help out in an emergency, to be instructed by the board of health in the use of the hospital.

To hold the Methodist Church in readiness for an emergency hospital where many of the patients could be taken and cared for.

To supply needed articles for sick in the homes, and to help furnish the emergency hospital, if needed.

To deal with the situation the State Department of Health has provided the Commonwealth with nineteen districts, each under supervising medical and nursing officers reported by the health commissioner and with the help of other agencies of the Adjutant General of the Commonwealth and the use of all state police and health forces.

To assist in establishing a district emergency hospital in those districts most affected. The department also enlisted the active cooperation of the Red Cross and the Council of National Defense and Committee of Public Safety and all other relief organizations, but the demand for workers is being increased the supply. One-fourth of Pennsylvania's doctors and one-third of her nurses are serving under the colors, the first aid help from the New England states further diminished the supply and similar conditions in neighboring states render it impossible for them to give us help.

Notwithstanding all efforts which have been made the sick in some places may lie for days without a physician's attention. This is a most distressing lack of nursing help for tending the sick at their own homes and the same conditions prevail practically all over the state, those long established and those hastily improvised for the emergency. Even the dead in the populous centers lie too long unburied and the receiving vaults and morgues are more crowded than the hospitals.

Citizens of Pennsylvania, the call for immediate personal service is imperative. The only solution of the problem is by free community service, tending the sick, feeding the hungry and bearing the burdens of the weak.

Both men and women are needed and should report for duty to their local health authorities or Red Cross chapter.

Disaster to the essential war industries of the nation and calamity to the hearts and minds of our people the gravity and necessity of this appeal.

The signers are Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of Pennsylvania; B. Franklin Royer, Acting Commissioner of Health; Charles Scott, Jr., division manager, Pennsylvania Delaware division, the American Red Cross; George Wharton Pepper, chairman, Pennsylvania Council of National Defense and Committee of Public Safety.

Old Carlisle Industry Goes Out of Business

Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 14.—Because of the scarcity of labor, trouble in securing material and other war time problems, the stockholders of the E. J. Gardner Axle and Machine Company, one of the oldest local industries, decided to discontinue the plant and steps were taken to-day to put the plant in force.

The plant was founded in 1883 by the late Franklin Gardner and several changes in ownership have since taken place. The plant has produced all different axles and other steel products and had a considerable trade. At one time employing upwards of 100 men, the force in the past few months has been 40 and all of these will be taken care of at local industries on war work.

By a peculiar provision in the deed for the land on which the plant is located it must be used for manufacturing purposes and the plant will probably be leased.

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—In the presence of the immediate relatives, the marriage of Miss Ora M. Harnish, daughter of A. Ferguson officiated, using the impressive wedding ceremony. As Mrs. Clair Harnish played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" the wedding party entered the church, the bride with her father, who gave her away. The best man was Frank Steele, of Mechanicsburg. After congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Guinivan left on a honeymoon trip for two weeks.

Misled on U-Boat War, Bernhard Now Says

Copenhagen.—George Bernhard, writing in the Berlin Vossische Zeitung, says that the submarine warfare would never have been proclaimed had the German people had not been deceived and misled. Discussing the peace steps taken at Washington in 1916 and 1917, the writer says:

"If had known that President Wilson had been continually requested to act as peace mediator and even that specified conditions had been submitted, our action would have been different. Had we known that at the moment unrestricted submarine warfare was declared President Wilson had agreed to accept the role of mediator, the German people, in the great majority, would never have tolerated a policy which brought upon them the reputation of being double-tongued."

All this explains, he concludes, "Ambassador Gerard's unmeasured speech, when one recalls that the German Government permitted him to make a friendly address in the presence of high officials at the very moment when the submarine campaign was already decided upon."

GOVERNOR ASKS ALL TO ASSIST

Appeal Issued to Help Fight Influenza, Which Is Gaining Ground in State

A joint appeal signed by the Governor and other officers active in the state's campaign against influenza and calling upon everyone to give free service to the sufferers is issued last night from the Capitol. It sets forth the situation as it existed at that time and to-day officials said that they saw no change.

The epidemic of influenza now sweeping through Pennsylvania has reached such alarming proportions and is increasing so rapidly that we feel it our duty to call public attention to the danger which threatens the entire Commonwealth, and to urge every citizen, both men and women.

Up to the present time approximately two hundred and seventy-five thousand persons have reported from each day records a higher number of new cases than the day before.

In Massachusetts where the epidemic first broke out here, save per cent. of the whole population have been affected and a death rate of five per cent. of the cases has become a fact.

The Commissioner of Health of that Commonwealth advises us that except in Boston and vicinity where the disease first broke out, the number of new cases continues to equal the high water mark.

We have no grounds to expect an early abatement of the epidemic; on the other hand all reports from afflicted districts indicate that conditions will become worse before they become better.

The great epidemic and bituminous coal fields, the populous industrial and shipbuilding centers, seem as never before with thousands of workers are alike crippled in their output and the gravity of the menace to our continued output of munitions and other war necessities is being felt by Pennsylvania's citizens. We must win the war.

To deal with the situation the State Department of Health has provided the Commonwealth with nineteen districts, each under supervising medical and nursing officers reported by the health commissioner and with the help of other agencies of the Adjutant General of the Commonwealth and the use of all state police and health forces.

To assist in establishing a district emergency hospital in those districts most affected. The department also enlisted the active cooperation of the Red Cross and the Council of National Defense and Committee of Public Safety and all other relief organizations, but the demand for workers is being increased the supply. One-fourth of Pennsylvania's doctors and one-third of her nurses are serving under the colors, the first aid help from the New England states further diminished the supply and similar conditions in neighboring states render it impossible for them to give us help.
