Yankee Tanks in Action. Keeping step with the American operations east of the Argonne, the French are advancing west of the forest. West of Grand Pre General Gouraud has moved north of the Aisne and taken the towns of Olizy and Termes straightening out a Bulge in the Allied line.

Between the Argonne and the Meuse the Americans are battling forward to-day through the German wire entanglements. Tanks have been brought up especially in the region west of Romagne. As on Monday, the Germans are resisting stubbornly, but satisfactorily progress is being made.

SAVAGELY attacking the German lines in Belgium, British, French and Belgian forces have captured Roulers and carried their lines far toward Courtrai and Thourout. There are implications that the German lines have been pierced and that the enemy is retreating rapidly.

PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA ARE CALLED UPON TO BUY MORE BONDS AS PUBLIC DUTY

Under date of October twelfth the Secretary of the Treasury has wired me to make additional proclamation urging all our people in Pennsylvania to subscribe or to increase their subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan.

our people and let all citizens, unsolicited and un urged, repeat at once to the banks nearest their homes and enter subscriptions in large sums. Let this loan be more than fully subscribed in Pennsylvania.

I call upon the poor to buy more bonds. It will prove to them to be a larger blessing than they now realize. I call upon the wealthy in their corporate relations and in their individual names to borrow and buy to the limit. There is no virtue and no patriotism in the man today who is making large sums on war contracts and giving off small sums for bonds. Let there be no mitee in charge so to such and tell them frankly what their duty is if in any case such he voluntarily sense the gravity of the situation and the obligation that is theirs.

If we unite to join in a strong push together, we can easily over-subscribe this loan. Let there be no laggards, no evaders, no slack-shiners. The issue is world-wide in meaning. The purchasers of these bonds have the confidence of the nation and they are laying their money and their pledges solemnly, sacrificially and speedily upon the altar of liberty. It is our supreme hour of sacrifice. Let us not falter and not fail. The Government needs this money. It is our present duty to give it gladly.

HER MITE GOES TO HELP NATION

In the photograph Mrs. Simpson is shown with her baby, Alfred David Simpson. When Alfred David Simpson was born his daddy was in Camp Hancock, learning how to beat the Huns.

"I decided that while Charley was serving his country I, too, had a place to fill in this war. So I decided that while my husband was in France—fighting to keep this country safe for democracy, and for Albert David, and for myself, that I would save money and buy Liberty Bonds. All the income I have is the Government allotment, but I have saved $50 and I have my bond. Perhaps the money I loaned the Government the other day will repay the person who bought the $50 bond which is paying some of the money that is helping my husband get well."

"What do you think of folks who aren't buying bonds?" Mrs. Simpson was asked. "Read this," she said. "This proved to be a much-worn and tattered newspaper clipping, and it bore the following: In Flanders' fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row, That mark our place; and in the sky The larks, still bravely singing, Scarce heard amidst the guns below. We are the dead. Short days ago we lived, felt dawn, Saw sunset glow. Loved and were loved; and now we lie In Flanders' fields. Take up our quarrel with the foe. To you, with falling hands, we throw The torch; be yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die We shall not sleep, though poppies grow In Flanders' fields."

"When I heard that my husband was in the hospital," said Mrs. Simpson, "I used to think all the time of that line—'If ye break faith with us who die we shall not sleep.' I think that if we buy Liberty Bonds we are keeping the faith, and fighting a good fight."

And that is all there is to the story of Mrs. Charles J. Simpson, 1409 Liberty street, who saves money and buys a bond.

NATION MUST NOT RELAX IN DRIVE; WILSON EXHORTS

Relaxation or Hesitation Must Not Defeat Success of the $6,000,000 Loan

Washington, Oct. 15.—The declaration of President Wilson that "relaxation now, hesitation now, would mean defeat when victory seems to be in sight," and the reply of the President to the peace proposals of Germany were expected to act as spur to workers in the campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan. Nearly half the loan's $6,000,000,000 total remained to-day to be subscribed and five days of the campaign remained. Officials emphasized that success can only be achieved by the most strenuous efforts.

Subscriptions to the loan as reported by the twelve reserve banks last night totalled $2,798,410,950. Unreported subscriptions to the close of business last night were estimated as swelling the total to, approximately $3,000,000,000. With such a showing bond sales for the next five days must be at a rate of nearly a billion dollars a day.

While the St. Louis district was leading in percentage of quota, raised with 78 per cent, reports from the Minneapolis district early to-day indicated that district had subscribed its allotment and would be the first to be reported officially over the top. The Atlanta and Philadelphia districts to-day were the low districts, each with 55 per cent of its quota raised.

Two Opinions Handed Down by County Court

Judge S. J. M. McCarroll, in an opinion handed down to-day in the suit of George H. Albright and Anna B. Albright vs. Harrisburg Railways Company, refused a motion to show why he should not reconsider his action in overruling a previous petition for a new trial. He also vacated his order opening the judgment against the company, directing the jury verdict to be entered in an accident.

The Workmen's Compensation Board it was contended the board could not award compensation, as the parents over the trial reinstated after it had been overruled, by claiming that the chief witness for the prosecution testified falsely on the stand.

President Judge George Kunkel yesterday handed down an opinion in a trial brought by the parents of Gusipbert Herr, dismissing the action and advising that the claim for compensation because of the youth's death by accident should have been made before the Workmen's Compensation Board.

It was contended the board could not award compensation, as the parents over the trial reinstated after it had been overruled, by claiming that the chief witness for the prosecution testified falsely on the stand.
