Influenza on Wane at Waynesboro, but Disease Makes Progress in Country

Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 29.—The health board of this city reported yesterday that the influenza epidemic is on the wane, as only seventy new cases were reported and these were in the most part, from the outlying districts. In the country districts, it is still raging. The admissions to the two emergency hospitals is dwindling and only a few persons are being taken there now. This condition is most gratifying to officials in charge of the hospital, and will eventually remove a state of affairs which has been most annoying to everyone caring for the sick. From the day the two hospitals were established there has been such a local demand for admission that it has seemed impossible to take in those from the outlying districts who were also in need of attention. As fast as a cot could be erected or one emptied, another patient was ready to fill its place. Joseph Rankin, in charge of outside nursing, and those who have been her assistants, have done all in their power to alleviate suffering in the country districts, however. Food has been taken out daily from the kitchen at the Y. M. C. A. and whenever possible nurses have been sent to the homes because of the number of cases it has not always been possible to allow nurses to remain indefinitely, but such a distribution of the nurses made as would work to the best interests of all.
