WEDNESDAY EVENING, BOOYING TO SERVE THE NATION, HE DOES HIS BIT BY SERVING THE SOLDIERS

They were standing in front of a billboard uptown.

Bright colored posters of khaki-clad soldiers, graphic scenes of "overthere" and the grim pictures representing the Hun and his work covered the billboard.

They stood very still and looked. The older boy—he was about seven—held tight to the hand of the little fellow by his side. They didn't talk, they just looked and looked.

The older boy gave a quick jerk to the blue cap and pulled it farther down over his eyes. Bright red hair, cut close, shined at one side. "The little fellow gave up at the other boy, bumped his heels together, and pulled away his hand. The older boy thrust both hands far down in his pocket.

Then the gaze at the posters continued. "Gee, ain't it great!"—this from the older boy.

And the little fellow violently nodded his head in answer.

"Y'n he'd I'd run a Tank or be a Marine or somethin' like that, 'M-m-m," came the answer from the smaller one.

"I'm going to be a boy scout pretty soon, all right."

No answer. "Maybe I'm going to do somethin' soon—maybe."

One more long look at the poster and the older lad grabbed the hand of the small fellow and walked on, not very fast, until they turned a corner.

How it happened, officials at campaign headquarters in the Gilbert store room are not able to tell exactly, but it did happen some how, and no more than a week later.

Down in the long storeroom a little boy is on hand early every morning, and all day long runs posters and emblems to the businessmen and householders who want to display them in the interests of the war fund campaign. He runs hard. He only rests once in a while, and occasionally gives a jerk to a blue cap, and bright red hair, cut short, shows at one side. High up on a counter sits a tiny boy, swinging his chubby legs back and forth.

SCENE FROM "CHEATING CHEATERS," ONE OF THE PLAYS PRESENTED BY MYRKLE-HARDER CO.

The Myrkle-Harder Company open their five days' engagement at the Orpheum to-night, presenting Maude Fulton's successful play, "The Brat." To-morrow, afternoon and night, "Here Comes the Bride," a Cohan and Harris success, will be offered for the first time, and on Thursday, matinee and night, "Cheating Cheaters," a play that concerns two sets of "crooks," who, in the guise of respectability, put their wits against each other. It is a play full of laughs, thrills, dramatic situations, and a love story that makes you sit in your seat after the final curtain, wishing for more.

BILL, THE SODA JERKER, HAS A VERY BUSY TIME

Gosh but the Lemon Phosphates Taste Good After the Long Dry Spell Caused by the Flu Ban

"Lemme have some 'coke'?" "Please let me have some Moxie?" "Chocolate malted milk for mine!"

These were some of the questions put by eager purchasers who confronted the clerks in soda fountains throughout the city immediately after the clock struck 12 o'clock. The influenza ban was officially lifted at noon and the sound of sizzling soda water mingled pleasantly with that of corks popping off bottles.

"I haven't had anything to drink for five weeks. This sure tastes good," and he hurried his face in a lemon phosphate.

Every soda fountain which opened for business was immediately the mecca for the thirsty crowd. Milk shake fiends, lovers of Coca Cola and Moxie, and those who are old-fashioned enough to prefer simple ice cream, thronged the confectionery store. "Never had a rush like this in all my life," said "Bill," the famous "soda-jerker" as he hustled energetically to make a maple nut sundae for an anxious customer.

"They say the Kaiser invented this influenza. Ding the Kaiser!"

"Heavenly, it's so good," said a beary-eyed subject of King Alcohol as he watched the thirsty mobs drinking sodas. "Just wait 'till 12 o'clock to-night. The saloons'll be open and life'll be sweet!"

ENEMY UNABLE TO STAND BEFORE FRESH ASSAULTS

lines against the French.

It appears that the familiar "pincers" method which Marshal Foch began using on the Soissons-Rheims sector in July now is in full operation once more and each day seems to bring new peril to the enemy legions caught within the slowly closing jaws.

Since Saturday noon these jaws have approached each other an aggregate of eleven miles.

The lower jaw now rests at Beaumont just west of the Meuse. The other is close to the eastern edge of the great Mormal forest, west of Mauberge. The advance against Ghent is another development of the same movement and still further imperils the only avenue of retreat remaining to the Teutonic armies.

The whole front from the Dutch border to far below the Oise river was flaming all day yesterday. Then came a number of sectors which were relatively quiet, but far to the east of the French, with the Americans to their right were rapidly moving toward Sedan. Resistance along this last front has been somewhat more stubborn than it was on Saturday afternoon and Sunday but the speed of the Allied advance seems to indicate the Germans have not as yet reached a line where they will turn definitely at bay.

Austria is at the feet of the Allies. Her army must be disbanded and all its munitions placed at the disposal of the Allies. The same is virtually true of her navy. Austria also has agreed to permit the Allies to occupy any of her strategic strongholds at any time. The troops of the dual monarchy must retire back of a line which roughly corresponds with the limits of Italia Irredenta, which was claimed by Italy and which led that country to enter the war.

What appears to be a serious situation may be developing in western Russia. Ruthenian Ukrainian troops have clashed with the Poles and have taken Lemberg, the capital of Galicia and Przemysl, the fortress in Galicia which was the scene of repeated sanguinary conflicts during the first three-years of the war.

Czech and Austro-German troops are marching against each other in Bohemia and a battle is imminent.

Prince Max Predicts Peace and Democracy

Amsterdam, Nov. 5.—Prince Maximilian, of Baden, German Chancellor, discussing German reforms in an interview, is quoted by the Voelische Zeitung, of Berlin, as saying:

"God be praised for a real, peaceful revolution. I am firmly convinced that a new German democracy soon will be living at peace with our present opponents in order to be able to complete the task of remodeling Germany."

The Chancellor declared also that if in the future the Reichstag should pass a vote of want of confidence in him he would be obliged to resign.

With reform in the Federal states, he said, it was unthinkable the Federal Council should ever receive instructions which would bring it into conflict with decisions by the Reichstag.

Bright Skies Over Country as Ballots Fall in Big Elections

Washington, Nov. 5.—Generally fair weather prevailed throughout the country to-day for election. There was light rain in Southern New England and along the New York coast, showers in North Dakota and light snow in the mountain regions of Wyoming and Montana, but elsewhere there were bright skies.

EGGS NEAR DOLLAR A DOZEN Lancaster, Nov. 5.—A sensational advance in the egg market yesterday afternoon, from 75 cents to 90 cents a dozen, fell only a few cents short of bringing to materialization recent predictions that dollar eggs would be quoted here before snow falls.

No explanation from either farmer or dealer was obtainable, and dealers reported that eggs in limited quantities could be bought on nearby farms.

LIGHT VOTE IN BALTIMORE Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Early reports of the Congressional election in Baltimore showed a light vote was being cast.

HUNS VOTE FOR WAR TO GO ON

London, Nov. 5.—A demonstration was held before the Bismarck monument in Berlin on Sunday in favor of continuing the war, and a resolution was passed protesting against the acceptance of a humiliated peace according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company quoting the Tageblatt of Berlin.

any questions that may be puzzling today. An added attraction on the bill to-day and to-morrow is a spectacular vaudeville offering, entitled, "Son of Old Emperors." The comedy, which is told in symbolic form, is full of romance and passion, and is, in reality, a dramatic presentation of Wilson's plea that the world be as safe for the small nations as for the great. It is the type of play that will appeal to all lovers of freedom.

Captain Jack Barnett and Son, two clever illustrators, are offering an early hit, to be a big laugh from start to finish. Barker and Wynne, popular duo, in a bright, snappy, patter skit, and one other attraction, round out the bill.

The Colonial opens a four-day engagement of the great screen classic, "To Hell With the Kaiser." If any thing With the Kaiser" at citizen of this great Republic the public of our time has the Colonial than they do right this minute, it is this picture of the expose of the desecration of the Kaiser's name. The principals, headed by Lawrence Grant, as the Kaiser; Olive Tell, as the American girl; and Betty Howe, as the pathetic victim of the lust of the Crown Prince, aids in portraying scenes that are of national realization and will beat Saturday only, Norma Talmadge will be seen in a return engagement in "De Luxe Annie."

AMUSEMENTS

ORPHEUM All this week, starting to-day, with daily matinees—The Myrkle-Harder Co. to-night, "The Brat" to-morrow, matinee and night, "Here Comes the Bride" next Monday, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" next Tuesday and Wednesday—Robert Downey.

MAJESTIC High-class vaudeville.

COLONIAL To-day, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—"To Hell With the Kaiser."

REGENT To-day and to-morrow—Sessue Hayakawa in "His Birthright." Thursday, Friday and Saturday—"For Husbands Only."

VICTORIA To-day and to-morrow—Theda Bara in "A Fool There Was." Tuesday—"The Last Raid of the Zepplin, L-27." Friday and Saturday—"Tom Mix, in 'Fame and Fortune.'"

"The Brat" is the play selected for the opening of the Orpheum to-day by the Myrkle-Harder Company, a stock organization that has always been popular with local playgoers.

"The Brat" is a sweet, whimsical sort of a play, not a melodrama but the kind that brings the tears of laughter. It is a comedy, with a touch of the tragic in its moments of delicious humor. It is the story of how "Henry" mixes, in a worst condition, is taken in by a well-known author as a type. Miss Myrkle-Harder will handle the play, which is supported by an admirable cast.

The scenic production and stage direction of this play has seldom been equalled in this city except in higher priced shows. "Here Comes the Bride," farce comedy, will be seen to-morrow afternoon and evening. As a blue dispenser, this production is even funnier than "A Pair of Sixes."

"Here Comes the Bride" was played in Broadway all last season, produced by Cohan and Harris.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" which has been playing to crowded houses at the Fourteenth Street Theater, New York, will be played at the Orpheum, where it will open for three days' engagement beginning next Monday, with matinees on Tuesday and Wednesday.

This play is said to be the greatest argument for prohibition ever presented, and is, therefore, particularly appropriate at this time. A capable cast, including Robert L. Downing, the evangelist, who will play Joe Morgan, the drunkard, will be seen.

Clayton, the Master Mind of Mystery, will be the popular attraction at the Colonial this week. It is also the most unnecessary to do anything as to what Clayton will do, but for the benefit of those who did not see him on his previous visit to Harrisburg, it might be well to state that he will tell your name, both Christian and given, even the name of your mother, your parents' given names, and even go so far as to tell the name of your great-great-grandfather or mother, if you know it yourself. On Friday, a matinee will be given for women only, at which time Clayton will answer
