LIEUT. LEADS THE ROMAN RATTTLERS

Greencastle Officer Wounded When Company Charges With "Old Rebel Yell"
Greencastle, Pa., Nov. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Funk Martin have received word from their son, Lieutenant Henry Fletcher Martin, that he has been wounded in the right arm and is in a base hospital in France. He was hit by a shrapnel ball which left two holes in the upper part of his arm. Invitations have been sent to the Chambersburg Chamber of Commerce of Harrisburg and other cities in the immediate vicinity to send delegates. Lieutenant Martin, who is a member of the Greencastle High School, was killed in action on May 24. Until wounded, he had been almost continuously at the front, and went over the top at least four times. He was captured in the big German offensive of July 15, when he was out four days and nights, losing the major portion of his command. In August his company was ordered to the front and upon a German machine gun nest in which the captain was seriously wounded and two lieutenants were killed. Lieutenant Martin assumed command and, although badly gassed, continued the engagement. As a reward his company was highly commended for bravery and Lieutenant Martin was awarded promotion to a captain. In September he again led his "Roman Rattlers," as he proudly called his men, over the top, where they were met by a hail of bullets which so terrified the Hunners. They bagged two hundred prisoners and fifteen officers. Further details of his last venture, the enemy lines are anxiously waiting which doubt will make interesting reading. The Forty-seventh is a Regular Army regiment and belongs to the Fourth Division, which has taken such active part in the fighting on the western front.
