GIFTED YOUNG SINGER PLEASURES IN RECITAL

MISS IRMA GALLENKAMP

Miss Irma Gallenkamp, of Scranton, gave an informal concert last night at the home of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Plack, 2244 North Third street. It is unfortunate that the opportunity was not afforded all of Harrisburg's music lovers to hear this talented young singer's remarkable performance. Miss Gallenkamp, who was ably accompanied by Miss Alice Decevee of this city, although but seventeen years of age, possesses a voice of rare beauty and unusual volume. She surprised her hearers by her masterly rendition of French and Spanish, as well as English selections. Miss Gallenkamp is a linguist of ability, having perfect command of six languages. She sang "Chanson Provinciale" by Evie Dell Acquin, in the purest of French, and "La Partida," by Alvarez in Spanish. Her interpretation of "Mighty Lak a Rose," by Nevin, sung to her own accompaniment was charming, while her rendition of the original arrangement of "Comin' Through the Rye" in Scotch dialect, was pleasing to the extreme. She sang the old favorite, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," giving a repetition in triple pianissimo, and finally ended with the appealing little patriotic song, "Laddie in Khaki," by Novello. Miss Gallenkamp's voice is truly remarkable. Critics everywhere have been unanimous in pronouncing it so. She is also an accomplished pianist, as she fully demonstrated last night when she played "A La Bien Aimee," by Edouard Schmitt, "Second Valse," by Durand and "Military Polonaise in A Major," by Chopin. Those privileged to hear this promising young musician were Mrs. T. F. Townsen, the Misses Marian and Ruth Townsen, Mrs. John Staff, Miss Gertrude Staff, Mrs. Hugh Wells, Miss Ruth Wells, Miss Katherine Evelar, Miss Lillian Decevee, of New York; Miss Adeline Paul, Mr. and Mrs. William Plack. Miss Gallenkamp, accompanied by her mother, will leave shortly on an extended musical tour of the East.
