

No Change of Session When School Opens

In reply to many inquiries and incessant questioning over the telephone, Prof. Severance announces that with the reopening of school students will report at the same time they did prior to the influenza ep-demic. There will be no change of sessions. ALEXANDER C. GRAHAM DIES Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 8.—City Commissioner Alexander C. Graham died suddenly of heart failure here today aged 88 years. He was a prominent manufacturer and real estate dealer and a trustee of St. Luke's Hospital.

'GET BEHIND THE BOYS,' ADVISES MR. MORGENTHAU

Former Ambassador Makes Touching Plea For Nation's Fighting Men

America must play the part of a big brother to the exhausted warring nations after the great conflict is ended. This was the statement made by Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey addressing a rousing meeting held in the interest of the United War Work Drive in Chestnut Street Auditorium last night. Brimful of praise for the American and Allied troops who are fighting against the forces of autocratic nations, the ambassador's address was a brief outline of the causes that led up to the war and the reasons why America and Americans must get behind the 'lads on the fighting line through the cooperating agencies in the United War Work campaign. Opening his address with a sketch of the way in which Germany paved the way for her plan for world domination by the occupation without right of Schleswig-Holstein, the speaker described the causes leading up to the present war. 'Go back to 1864,' he advised, 'It was then Prussia under Bismarck's leadership determined to be a great military power. Snatching the provinces of Schleswig and Holstein from Denmark, she then occupied Alsace-Lorraine and gradually absorbed the colonies which later made up the German Empire. Tells of Changes The German people of 1870 were very different from those of today declared the ambassador giving evidence to show that the change from a peace-loving citizen to a power-mad mass coincident with the growth of the German Empire. 'The German people of 1870 were peace-loving, fond of nature, loved songs, were domesticated and were not ambitious. They were gradually taught to revere their reveries more than their God. They were told the world was divided into two classes: The governing and the governed.' The German people were instructed that they were the governing power to rule the rest of the world, Mr. Morgenthau explained. 'They realized they could not dominate the world without absolute control of all countries. Therefore in 1870 they started to prepare what the speaker described as the "most stupendous military machine in all history" to accomplish their aim. "But they made a terrible mistake," the speaker continued. "They didn't figure on the spirit and patriotism of their enemies. That is why they failed."

Here With Message From Belgian Ruler

REV. PIERRE BLOMMAERT

The Rev. Pierre Blommaert, chaplain in chief of the Protestant chaplains of the Belgian army, has just arrived in this country with a message to the American people from King Albert, whom he saw a short time ago at the front. While in America he will be the guest of the Federated Council of the Churches of Christ. The Rev. Blommaert was introduced to the audience which filled comfortably the large hall, by Rabbi Louis J. Haas of Olive Sholem Temple, following a prayer by Bishop Philip R. McLevitt. After the address a rising vote of thanks was given the speaker. The Municipal Band played "America" while the audience sang. The Rev. H. W. A. Hanson, pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church pronounced the benediction. Many prominent Harrisburgers and Pennsylvanians were in the audience and on the platform. They included Red Cross and church officials as well as those high in the councils of the state, county and city. Officials of the United War Work Drive were also present. As an evidence of the interdenominational character of the meeting, Jewish rabbis, Protestant clergymen, Catholics and an Episcopal Bishop were among those on the platform.

Elliott-Fisher Adopts Two Belgian War Orphans

Employees of the Elliott-Fisher factory and general offices have undertaken to adopt two Belgian orphans, and for this reason a contribution of $152.10 has just been mailed by the company to the Belgian Relief Committee of Pennsylvania. The factory employees contributed $92.10 to the fund, while $60 was raised at the general office. Estimating that it costs about $60 to provide for one Belgian orphan for one year, the Elliott-Fisher fund will provide a home for two orphans for a period of fifteen months. Besides a home, this will furnish clothing and companionship for the orphans. Prior to the recent Allied advances in Belgium, the Belgian relief committee was unable to get permission from the Germans, who occupied the devastated country, of holding correspondence between the adopted orphans and their American "guardians." But it is expected that such conditions will soon change. For the present the generous donors will be supplied only with the names and ages of the children whom they adopt.

Balkan Problem Is Hard-One to Solve

Washington, Nov. 8.—The Balkan problem, according to Entente diplomats here, promises to present serious difficulties at the coming peace conference. The capitulation of Austria-Hungary has not simplified the problem, but on the contrary threatens to upset the careful calculations of Serbia, in the first instance, and also those of some of the other Allied powers. This arises from the fact that the so-called Jugoslavia, as advocated by Serbia and by certain eminent South Slav leaders, and as described in the Declaration of Corfu, appears not to reflect the wishes of the Jugoslavs themselves. The action of the Croatian Diet a few days ago by which the Croats expressed their desire to remain within Austria was unexpected. It had been thought, as a result of the efficient work and propaganda carried on by the Jugoslav committee in London that the Croats and Slovenes, as well as the Serbs of Austria-Hungary, aspired to a union with the Kingdom of Serbia, thus creating a greater state with the title of Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.

Next Sunday—November 10th The Philadelphia Record will present to its readers the latest and most authentic portrait of England's great Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig

The portraits in "The Record's" gallery of war heroes are reproduced from the favorite photographs of each. They are beautifully reproduced in photogravure sepia tints on fine paper and are of a size that permits economical framing.
