THREE PARADES IN MECHANICSBURG

Continuous All-Day Celebration Indulged in by Patriotic Borough

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—An all-day celebration, which began at 3.30 o'clock yesterday morning and included three parades with a clamor of bells, whistles and automobile horns throughout that time, was the way Mechanicsburg gave vent to her enthusiasm in the signing of the armistice.

Many people were awakened first by the Harrisburg whistles, which were distinctly heard here, then the five bells commenced ringing and people hurriedly donned their clothing and joined the ever-increasing number in the street.

About sunrise an impromptu parade, headed by the "Singer" band, started the parade. From that time on the place took on a holiday air and everybody celebrated.

At 10 o'clock the second parade took place. This included the "Singer" band, Washington Fire Company, Citizens Fire Company, Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, Irving College students, public school children and automobiles.

The Cumberland and Union Fire Companies of Carlisle, with their apparatus came to Mechanicsburg and took part in the parade. In a blaze of red lights and illuminated business houses and homes, the evening parade was held at 7.30 o'clock. Special features in it were the Irving College girls, all in white uniforms following heralds and a large float in white with a group in the same spotless color, typifying Peace and Liberty.

The girls presented a most attractive spectacle and marched full of the vigor and buoyancy which characterizes all of the affairs in which they take part. The Girls Military Corps also was an interesting feature. Probably the one bringing the greatest applause was the band of S. Harper Meyer in which reposed an offer of the Kaiser in a cobbler. The Eastern Supply Company had a novel part. Others included the Red Cross in uniform.

Service flag division, fire companies with apparatus, organizations, public school pupils, decorated trucks and automobiles. Mechanicsburg's patriotic citizens went "over the top" in the manner of demonstration yesterday just as they did in all the War drives.

MARIETTA'S UPROAR Marietta, Pa., Nov. 12.—Marietta was practically in an uproar all day Monday on receiving the news that the war is ended. From early there was a parade after parade. Industries or factories closed down in the morning until late at night.

The parade moved promptly at 2 o'clock. It was over a mile long and exceeded any patriotic pageant ever seen in Marietta. The labor unions turned out to a man, which means all of those thousands of workers in the local factories. The floats and banners and the thousands of flags and other patriotic trappings made a spectacle never to be forgotten.

LIVERPOOL TURNS OUT Liverpool, Nov. 12.—All Liverpool turned out yesterday with red, white and blue and unlimited enthusiasm to celebrate peace and victory. A parade was quickly organized and a patriotic rally was held in the square where addresses were made by the clergymen of town.

15,000 PARADE AT CARLISLE

Greatest Celebration in History of Patriotic Old Cumberland Valley Borough

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 12.—In the greatest demonstration in the history of this section, nearly 15,000 persons yesterday afternoon joined in a monster celebration held at Carlisle under the auspices of the Cumberland County Council of National Defense and Chamber of Commerce. A parade two and one-half miles long, with about 5,000 marchers in line, was a feature. To-night a great service of thanksgiving and meeting of ratification will be held. Last evening towns throughout the county held celebrations.

A committee of community leaders meeting at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon made plans for the affair. The parade was scheduled for 3 o'clock and in the meantime the preliminary work with lines composed of men in service. The men of the War Department Hospital under Major Bachmeyer and those of the Dickinson College, S. T. C. A., headed by Lieutenant Furby, turned out. They constituted the first division.

The Red Cross, Canteen Service, Council of National Defense and various organizations were in line in the second division. Local and visiting fire companies had a division to themselves, as had the schoolchildren, and the girls carried mother and fathers, wives and relatives of men in service. The men of the War Department Hospital under Major Bachmeyer and those of the Dickinson College, S. T. C. A., headed by Lieutenant Furby, turned out. They constituted the first division.

The populace swarmed to the main streets. Shops turned back and joined the throngs. A shop holiday automatically resulted.

The parade moved promptly at 2 o'clock. It was over a mile long and exceeded any patriotic pageant ever seen in Waynesboro.
