With the American Army at the front, Nov. 12.—The American Army is marking time until orders come from Marshal Foch for the next move. The roads near the front are filled with the panoply of the war that has ended. The soldiers are wondering when they will get home. All day yesterday there were many explosions behind the German lines, indicating that the enemy was blowing up ammunition dumps. Very few German soldiers were seen along the front line, giving rise to the belief that plans already are under way for the retreat back to their own border.

(It is not probable that the Germans were destroying ammunition dumps after the armistice terms. Because of the congested cables it is probable that portions of this dispatch were cut the morning of Nov. 11 and in some unaccountable manner were delivered with and as part of the dispatch of Nov. 10.)

Must Go Home Through Liege

The German command will have a difficult task, it is believed, to accomplish this in time, because since the Americans have cut the Meuse-Louvy line at Sedan, the Germans have but one main line over which to return to Germany. This line runs through Liege.

The terms of the armistice forbid American airplanes from going over the German lines, and inasmuch as no prisoners are being taken, it is virtually impossible to get any information as to the movements of the German Army.

Wonderful Change on War Front

The hours since the cessation of hostilities have wrought a wonderful change on the front. Silence prevails. Ambulances are parked along the road. Laughing groups of American and French soldiers are rejoicing over their success. It is taken for granted that war cannot start again.

Only one thing goes on as it did before—the work of the German prisoners who are repairing the damage German guns and mines have done to the roads of France.

Celebrations Continue

The celebrations over the signing of the armistice in the towns in this part of France continue with unabated joy. The villages are illuminated for the first time in four years.

Paris, Nov. 13.—With dawn of Monday there was no hint of the cessation of hostilities. East of the Meuse, regardless of the situation, the American second army attacked in force

GERMANY MUST OBEY DETAILS OF THE ARMISTICE

London, Nov. 13.—The Allied high command has sent to the German high command by French wireless a message that there can be no modification of the conditions of the armistice, including the annexes, at this time.

It is added that a supplementary period of 24 hours for the execution of the armistice has been added to the fourteen days stipulated in the original text, so as to permit the text to reach German headquarters at the desired time.

Three Cents For the Soldiers in France!

WOULD you believe it possible that any citizen of Harrisburg could so little appreciate the sacrifices and the hardships and all that has been done for their country by the American soldiers over there as to contribute THREE CENTS to the support of the seven welfare organizations which are administering to our fighting forces?

Another contributor gave ten cents, less than the price of admission to a movie show, and still others seemed to think they had been most generous when they gave $1.00.

Were it not that Harrisburg has demonstrated its loyalty and its patriotism and its devotion to our soldiers in all the war activities, the conviction would be forced home that there is mighty little patriotism in this community.

But it is not so. The three-cent citizen and the ten-cent-citizen is a rare exception to the rule, when as is evident, one stops to consider what our fighters have done and how they have protected our men, women and children from the awful conditions which are now prevailing in Russia, Germany and elsewhere in the combat area.

However, the thousands of loyal, patriotic men and women and children of Harrisburg are going to answer the call for the big fund that is necessary to keep our boys in comfort until they come back. Those who have lent so indulgent a hand to throw a few pennies to the soldiers as they might to the beggar on the sidewalk, must settle with their own consciences. We leave them to their thoughts which may be no more pleasant than those which now concern the late Kaiser and his group.

Of course, those who are giving of their penny are not in the class to which this story applies. Those who are poor in this world's goods and who have given all that they can afford to give are rich in comparison with those who have large revenues and large wages and who give millions where they should give hundreds.

Former Kaiser Styles Himself Count and Plans to Buy Holland Estate

London, Nov. 13.—Holland will permit William Hohenzollern to remain on Dutch soil on the same terms as the other high officers of the German army. He has taken the name of Count William Hohenzollern and is expected to buy an estate and remain in Holland, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Telegraph of Amsterdam says he was allowed to take only his personal property from his estate, the nonpersonal property which was brought to Holland being confiscated, as is usual in internment cases. Recent dispatches have stated that the former emperor had taken a carload of archives with him into Holland.

Wilhelm Says He Didn't Flee From Falling Empire

London, Nov. 13.—A published statement, which the former German emperor wished to be regarded as his reason for going to Holland, says that the journey was not a flight, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Daily Telegraph. His departure from Germany was actuated by a desire to facilitate the work of the new government by ridding them of any embarrassment his presence in Germany might cause, such as an attempt to make him the center of a royalist agitation.

WALTER SHAFFER, SHOT DOWN BY ENEMY, IS FOUND IN HUN CAMP

Dauphin Aviator Reported Lost in Air Battle Located by Red Cross in Unnamed Prison Cantonment

HAD SERVED LONG IN FRENCH FLYING CORPS

Official word to the effect that Walter J. Shaffer, the Dauphin aviator, is a prisoner in a German prison camp, was received from the Bureau of Communication of the American Red Cross last night by Miss Helen R. Leib, of the local chapter's Home Service Section. Immediately after the receipt of the news, Miss Leib attempted to get into communication with the parents of the flyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Shaffer, Dauphin.

The proud possessor of a French War Cross, Shaffer is widely known throughout Pennsylvania. He wrote a series of remarkably interesting letters descriptive of the life of an aviator overseas, which were published in the Harrisburg Telegraph. They were eagerly read by thousands and were later used in a metropolitan daily.

Shaffer held the rank of adjutant, the highest noncommissioned rank in the French Army. He won high honors by bringing down a balloon and two planes in action. The thrilling story of these exploits was recounted in a recent letter published in this paper.

He was a member of the French Flying Corps and was one of the Americans who were moved by the atrocities of the Hun and his Allies, to offer their services to nearly-exhausted France, before America entered the war.

Several weeks ago members of his squad informed his parents that his plane had been shot down by an anti-aircraft fire while he was attacking a balloon. It was not known whether he had been killed or taken prisoner. No details as to his condition have been received.

BETTER HOUSING CONDITIONS MAY COME WITH PEACE

Building Operations Expected to Pick Up in Short Time

Now that Germany has been defeated, housing and building interests hereabouts are looking into the future for scarcely since the great war started has the building fraternity of Harrisburg been able to make any headway in construction matters, particularly in reference to houses, causing thereby as it did almost everywhere else, the most embarrassing and cramped living conditions in the history of the city.

Peace having released the embargo on building materials imposed by the war, and having released also an appreciable quantity of labor which is sure to seek more peaceful lines of occupation than has been its wont since the opening of hostilities, forward-looking builders of this city see a bright future ahead for their war-delayed plans of some construction. Apropos the building outlook, John E. Gipple, president of the Harrisburg Real Estate Board, had this to say to-day:

"The housing situation in Harrisburg has been worse for over a year and will continue to be for some time to come, but with the war now over and the government probably removing the embargo on building materials, I am sure that the builders of this city will do all they can to meet the housing needs."

Vast and intricate matters of labor, materials and the cost of the latter, enter into any resulting forecast. Mr. Gipple pointed out who gave it as his view in reference to the last named item, that cost of materials

"The Heart Breaker" Begins Today

BEGINNING to-day, the Telegraph begins the publication of Mrs. Virginia Terhune Van de Water's new serial, "The Heart Breaker"—a real American love story which gives a fine picture of life in a small town.

This serial should be read for its fidelity to human nature by every intelligent woman. It sets forth the experiences, difficulties and trials of two sisters whom the deaths of their parents made orphans early in life.

One sister has more attractive qualities, while the other, though not so beautiful, is blessed with many degrees more of common sense. Their experiences are told in a faithful, human way that should appeal to lovers of all that is good in romance.
