BUSY TIMES AT WAYNESBORO

Industries of Town Will Not Be Affected by Cancellation of War Orders

Waynesboro, Pa., Nov. 15.—Industrial Waynesboro will remain on the map and will not lose any of its prestige as a manufacturing center by reason of the ending of the war and cutting out of munition orders. Heads of the leading factories interviewed here to-day said that though some government contracts had been canceled, yet they were not important enough to make any serious effect on the general volume of production.

The Emerson-Brantingham Company's eastern factory here which has been 50 per cent busy on making combat wagons or caissons, for the past year, as also fabricating steel plates used in ship building, will continue to operate. The demand for its regular lines of agricultural machinery is heavy. The factory is running on full time with 550 men.

Frick Company, makers of ice and refrigerating machinery, and also gas tractors and agricultural machinery, has had no cancellations as yet. They have been making refrigerating machinery for outfitting merchant cargo vessels under the Emergency Fleet Corporation. It is expected that this activity will be kept going, as a large foreign trade is anticipated in the general work of rehabilitation over there. The factory has been handicapped in meeting the ordinary trade by reason of the government demands. The plant employs 800 men and expects to go

ENOLA GOES OVER TOP IN DRIVE

Railroad Town to Celebrate Victory at Home and Abroad

Enola has made good as usual. To-night the town will celebrate with a big parade the fact that it went over the top in the War Campaign Fund drive with over $1,000 subscribed. The quota was $750. The parade to-night will also be in celebration of the signing of the armistice. It is planned to have five divisions in line, a woman's division, a division for the schools, one for lodges and trades, one for bicycles, motorcycles and automobiles, and finally one for the firemen.

The celebration is in charge of the Community Council of Enola, which locally represents the Public Council of National Defense, and the Public Safety Committee of Pennsylvania. The officers of the local council are: George H. Horning, chairman; J. H. Hull, secretary; S. G. Hepford, treasurer; W. H. Fordney, publicity; J. H. Kinter, B. Miller and the Rev. C. D. Rishel.

The parade will be in charge of George H. Horning, who will act as chief marshal. His aids will be the other members of the Community Council. The first division of the parade, the women's division, will be in charge of P. B. Bingham, president of the Women's War Relief of Enola. The division will be composed of the Women's War Relief, the Community Corps, and all other women who want to participate. The second division will be composed of the schoolchildren, and will be in charge of J. H. Kinter, president of the Enola Pentecost League.

The parade will form at 7:30 o'clock in Altoona avenue. The route of march follows: Summit street, Brick Church road, York street, coming marching return to Cumberland road, Altoona avenue, York street, Wyoming avenue, Dauphin avenue, Enola road, Cumberland road, to Altoona avenue and disbands.

New Bloomfield Officer Gets War Cross in France
New Bloomfield, Pa., Nov. 15.—Captain Bernheisel, a short time after being commissioned a captain and recommended for the Croix de Guerre for bravery in action, was removed to a base hospital and assigned to the hospital command. How the accident happened and the extent of his injuries are not known. Captain Bernheisel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bernheisel of New Bloomfield, and is twenty-seven years old. He went to the first officers training camp at Plattsburg and was commissioned a second lieutenant. He was ordered to report to Camp Devens following his commission, but before he could even unpack his equipment he was sent overseas. A short time afterwards he was made a lieutenant and assigned to the section of the One Hundred and Second Field Artillery which had to do with the bringing of munitions to the big guns at the front. A short time after his commission to a captain he was placed in charge of a battery that had to smash the German defenses in the Argonne Forest region. Captain Bernheisel graduated from the University of Maryland in 1915. For several years he was the crack quarterback of Maine's football team. He is a graduate of the New Bloomfield High school and of the Lock Haven State Normal school.
