Belgian Capital Is Freed of Invaders Now Retiring

Paris, Nov. 16.—Belgian advance guards entered Brussels this morning. The German troops in accordance with the armistice, began moving out of the Belgian capital yesterday and now are nine miles away, according to the correspondent of the Midi on the Belgian front.

Amersfoort, Holland, Nov. 15.—William Hohenzollern has not been interned by the Netherlands government, being regarded by it as a distinguished foreigner who has sought refuge in Holland and has a claim to protection. He therefore, is presumably free to go where he likes, but the fact that his suite actually has been interned restricts his movements.

Count Von Bentinck explains that the former emperor had ceased to be a soldier when they indicated. Nothing is known at the castle concerning the former emperor's future movements or as to the whereabouts of the former empress. The former emperor was seen on Wednesday strolling about the castle grounds with Count Von Bentinck and the count's son. He wore a gray military overcoat. In the afternoon he was shown over the castle of Zuylenstein, a mile away, and the residence of Count Von Bentinck's brother.

The members of the former emperor's suite on Wednesday surrendered their swords to Dutch officers. They previously had surrendered their other arms and the formalities completed the act of internment.

Internal disturbances still prevail in countries torn by the war. In the streets of Munich cries of "the counter revolution is coming" and "here are the Prussians" preceded a week. For two days the greatest disorder prevailed. Railroad trains and street cars ceased running and telegraph and telephone communication was interrupted. Order finally was restored yesterday.

A dispatch from Berne, quoting the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, says the German warship Wiesbaden supposed to have been sunk during the Jutland battle May 31-June 1, 1916, refused to surrender to the revolutionists and tried to escape to neutral waters. It was torpedoed by revolutionary battleships and the entire crew of 330

Foe Completely Exhausted

PARIS, Nov. 16.—"Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in his message to the German army, said the threat of famine caused the acceptance of the armistice," says Marcel Hutin, of the Echo de Paris. "Although food difficulties played a part in the defeat of Germany, the determining cause of the German collapse was the fact that the enemy's army was on the brink of disaster."
"The first words the German plenipotentiaries said to Marshal Foch were, in substance: 'Germany's army is at your mercy, Marshal. Our reserves of men and munitions are completely exhausted, making it impossible for us to continue the war.'"

With the American Armies in Eastern France, Nov. 16.—Officials and civilians in villages in German occupied territory are sending many messages to headquarters here, urging that American troops start toward the Rhine as soon as possible. It is feared that after the Germans move back there will be trouble caused by stragglers.
Most of these messages have been sent with French and Italian soldiers who have been released from German prisons. The prisoners of war are reaching the American lines in large numbers.

BREAD MADE OF WHOLE WHEAT IS ON MARKET

Food Administration to Lift Mixed Victory Flour From Bakers

The first bread made of wheat flour unmixed with substitutes, made its appearance in Harrisburg stores this morning. It was purchased by householders who have been restive under the regulations making necessary for them to eat war bread.
That the bread had a ready sale is attested by numerous householders who hastened to purchase a plentiful supply. It is understood that only one local baker has turned out the nearly all wheat loaf, but the others will follow suit within a few days.
An announcement of the food administration through the local administrator, Donald McCormick, giving the bakers, wholesale and retail flour supplies, that their substitute stocks would be a loss to them now that householders no longer buy wheat flour, was made this morning.

To Lift Victory Flour
Bakers who have been compelled to carry a line of substitutes, have been informed that the Flour Bureau of the Grain Corporation of the federal food administration, located at 42 Broadway, New York, will permit them any amount of cereal substitutes, the dealers have in wholesale lots. The grain corporation also will buy up surplus stocks of Victory mixed flour.

For those who have small quantities of substitutes on hand, the suggestion is made that they dispose of it by continuing to mix it with wheat flour when they mix their bread and pastry dough. One local baker said he would follow this plan, using substitutes in such small quantities that they could not be detected in the taste of his products. It is likely, it was said, that nearly all local bakers will follow this plan.
One baker said this morning that the substitutes used in the making of bread, are secured only at a greater cost than wheat flour and that the better bread which follows the elimination of the substitutes will be made at a smaller cost to the baker.
It was said at the office of the food administration in the Dauphin building this morning that the reason the restrictions were lifted on wheat flour was because the daily feeding shortage had become acute, and it was more desirable to give humans the benefit of the pure wheat flour, and relieve the daily food shortage by the use of the substitutes than to continue the stringent wheat restrictions until January 1, as was at first intended by the federal food administration.

Prof. Fecher Has Written Hundreds of Compositions; Conducted Band Before President Lincoln and General Grant

Middleburg, Nov. 16.—Hats off to Professor Joseph H. Fecher, Selingrove, who holds the honor of being one of the oldest bandmasters in the United States! The writer of many hundreds of musical compositions, his work has received recognition from high musical authorities recently passed his eightieth birthday, and although his step is a bit more feeble than it was when he wore the blue of the Union Army, his brain is just as active in writing music. Should anyone question him as growing old, he cites the fact that he won a first prize for writing the best band composition in a contest in which musicians from the United States and Canada participated. The march he wrote was "The Red Ribbon Quickstep." Furthermore he is still writing and teaching music and sings tenor in the Trinity Lutheran Church at

How it feels to read letters from home with German snipers taking a shot every time you raise your head a little too high, to have bullets kicking dirt into your eyes while you lay face down in the mud, and to have the snipers who are lagging behind the main body of German troops just to harass you, so close you can hear them talking from their hiding place, is graphically described in the letter from Private F. WIESBADEN GOES DOWN IN FLIGHT TO SAFE WATERS

German Warship Followed by Revolutionary Battleships; Crew of 330 Is Lost

Berne, Nov. 16.—The German warship Wiesbaden refused to surrender to the revolutionists and tried to escape to neutral waters. It was pursued and torpedoed by revolutionary battleships and the entire crew of 330 men, including many cadets, perished, according to the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin.

The Wiesbaden was supposed to have been sunk during the Jutland battle, May 31-June 1, 1916. She was a light cruiser of 4,900 tons and was built in 1914.

London, Nov. 16.—Preliminary discussions concerning the handing over of the German fleet have been held at Rosyth between Admiral Sir David Beatty and delegates from the German soldiers' and sailors' council and the German Vice Admiral Maurer.

When the cruiser Koenigsberg, which brought the German delegates, was fifty miles off the Isle of May, on the Scottish coast, this afternoon it was met by British vessels which escorted it to Rosyth. The preliminaries so far have been carried out without a hitch and it is not expected the Germans will quibble over details. The discussions probably may end at to-day's meeting of the delegation.
American officers will be present at the surrender of the German high sea fleet. It has not yet been determined whether the United States will be represented at Constantinople.
