TEACHERS WILL HELP ORPHANS

Conference Adopts Schaeffer Suggestion to Gather Data Through Schools

Plans for the immediate care and placing of from forty thousand to fifty thousand children who have become either orphans or half orphans since the recent epidemic of influenza invaded the state will be outlined by a committee which will make a careful study of the various counties throughout the Commonwealth.

It was decided at the conference yesterday to conduct this investigation by means of a special questionnaire which will be sent to every school teacher in the ten thousand one-room schools throughout the rural districts of the state.

The distressing epidemic of influenza, said Dr. Royer, has left in its wake throughout the state in the way of orphan children, in Schuylkill county alone it has been estimated that more than three thousand children are now orphans; the data is not yet complete, but in 1918, say how many of these children are without father and mother.

GREATEST WHEAT ACREAGE SOWN

State Report Shows Remarkable Amount of Land Is Planted With the Grain

Pennsylvania has sown 1,568,270 acres in wheat, an increase of over 117,600 acres more than the acreage in wheat in 1917, according to the annual crop survey of the State Department of Agriculture, issued by L. H. Wibbe, the statistician, who says, "The acreage is probably the largest ever sown in this state."

The corn production is given as 63,597,435 bushels, an average of 38.2 bushels per acre, against 62,200,583 last year, drought being blamed for the decline. The buckwheat crop went away ahead of last year, being 6,191,600 bushels, or 18.8 bushels per acre.
