The steamer was making her maiden voyage. The crew say that the U-boat crew claimed to have sunk on the same day a British transport on the way to Archangel with three thousand soldiers.

Captain T. F. Mead Dies of His Wounds

Captain Theodore F. Mead, U. S. M. C., serving in France with the One Hundred and Fourth Field Artillery, died October 30 from wounds received in action, according to reports here. Captain Mead was widely known here, having married Miss Ruth Fahnestock, daughter of William Fahnestock, Mr. Fahnestock some years ago conducted an extensive drygoods business in Market street. Captain Mead's home was in Hthaca, N. Y. He was a graduate of Cornell University and went to France with the Twenty-seventh division composed of troops of the old New York National Guard. When the guard was sent to the Mexican border about a year before the United States entered the European war, Captain Mead went with it in the First New York Field Artillery. Immediately after the declaration of war he went to Camp Wadsworth with the guard. He took part with the Twenty-seventh division in some of the hardest fighting of the war. Later he fought in the march on Valenciennes and the Scheldt. It is presumed that in these operations he received his wounds.

Extremists Nearly Negligible in Germany

DEMAND IS FOR RULING BODY

Soldiers' Colors Fly Everywhere in Country

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Reports of tests of strength between the conservative elements and the independent and "Bolshevik" Socialists in various places in Germany continue to indicate that as far as mere numbers go, the extremists are almost negligible.

The elections to the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council in Dresden on Sunday show that the extremists polled only 4,300 votes against 55,400 for the old Socialists. Both groups of the independents won three or four seats in the council of fifty.

HUNS SPEAK IN SCORN OF NAVY

Firth of Forth, Scotland, Nov. 26.—Germany's navy has been raised for all time, in the opinion of a German lieutenant on one of the warships surrendered to the Allies. He said yesterday: "Now we have only a dishonorable record. No one will want to serve in a disgraced service." Inspection of the German vessels is proceeding. They are in a deplorable state, having been apparently neglected for a long time. The German sailors present a miserable appearance, their clothes being dirty and nondescript.

The elections to the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council in Dresden on Sunday show that the extremists polled only 4,300 votes against 55,400 for the old Socialists.

The program of missionary work throughout the world, which will involve an expenditure of $115,000,000, will be visualized by transporting almost 600 native villages from the various foreign fields to the buildings of the Ohio State Exposition grounds.

Whitney Ball Wounded. Lieutenant Whitney Ball, son of William H. Ball, secretary to the Governor, and well known to many Harrisburgers, was wounded and promoted at the battles around Montauk in France. He was second lieutenant of the Three Hundred and Twelfth Machine Gun Battalion. He is now in a hospital in France.

Wrong Address Given. Through the giving of a fictitious address to the federal authorities during the raid Saturday night, the house at 1926 Kensington street was printed in the newspapers as one of the places raided. The house was not visited by the authorities.

To Hold Meeting. The Warrior Eagle Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold special Thanksgiving service to-morrow. A feature will be music by an orchestra. The program will be followed by refreshments. Important messages will be read from the Great Incochine and the Great Sachem, bearing upon the collection of dues for the soldiers' fund.

Cavalry Leader Who May Be Korniloff of Germany. Events are marching so fast in the German revolution, which has broken out anew, that the arrival of Field Marshal von Mackensen in Berlin and his popularity, both with the soldiers and civilians, may make him the "man of the hour" for the foes of the Soviets. He is the one German high field commander undefeated in the war, and many say in him the Korniloff of Germany in the present crisis.

MORE ARRESTS THREATENED IN VICE CLEANUP

Proprietor of Crystal Hotel Had Been Missed in First Raid

The history of the famous "Bucket of Blood," 1219 North Seventh street, from which dozens of negroes of all ages were taken in the federal raid Saturday night, were aired during a hearing of the inmates before United States Commissioner Wolfe in the deputy marshal's office in the post office building, this afternoon. Four others of the raided places were to receive hearings this afternoon.

The "Bucket of Blood" has figured in police records more than any other harbor of disorderly characters in the city, with the possible exception of 12 and 14 Cowden street. This house is the habitat of negroes, Mexicans, and whites of all ages. Negro "boaters," it is said, make the house their headquarters when they pass through the town. Whites found derelict on the streets, are often lured to the house and robbed. The house has been a sore spot to the police department for years, and has caused endless trouble to the authorities.

With the arrest of four more as a result of the investigation of Federal authorities, and the threat that more arrests will follow, the extent of the anti-vice crusade in Harrisburg was apparent to-day.

Kameron Hemawel, proprietor of the Crystal hotel, Aberdeen and Market streets, Guerneville C. Smith, night clerk at the Crystal; Ross Rowles, proprietor of a candy store at 401 Walnut street, and Warren Ebron, 628 Forster Street, were the latest arrests, and were held under $1,000 bail each for hearings before United States Commissioner Wolfe.

It has been learned that the Crystal hotel was scheduled to be raided Saturday night, when the Federal dragnet captured the inmates of a score of disorderly houses. Through the lack of sufficient State Police to handle the place, it escaped the clutches of the law that night. Federal officials furnished the newspapers the name of the hotel among the list of raided places, thinking it had been raided, according to schedule, and it was printed accordingly. The proprietor, it is said, informed the Federal authorities yesterday that they would bring a libel suit against the papers that printed his name. The authorities immediately placed him under arrest.

Suspected Runner. Ebron was held when an examination by Federal officers gave them ground to suspect that he has been acting in the capacity of a "runner" for Pearl Wilson, under bail for conducting a place at 1008 North Seventh street. The female government investigator brought the charge against Ebron, saying that while she was taking her meals at the Senate, Ebron offered to take her to a place "where she could make lots of money over Saturday and Sunday." After they started, he became frightened when he saw a soldier apparently following them, and backed out of the agreement. The soldier was a witness for the government.

Ross Rowles, held under $200 bail, was charged with acting as a solicitor for the Alva hotel, the proprietor of which was held under $1,000 bail for court on the charge of conducting a disorderly house. It is said that persons entering his candy store at Fourth and Walnut streets could secure directions to a "safe place."

All the arrests which have been made, and those which are to follow, are made under the direction of the Secretary and Department of War, who by an act of Congress are given the right to make such arrests as they see fit. The act gives jurisdiction for drastic action within ten miles of any army camp, and is much broader than local laws. Marsh Run and Middletown, where military detachments are located, are within ten miles of Harrisburg.

Held Under Bail. Anesta Guist, proprietor of the Alva hotel, was held under $1,000 bail for the United States District Court in Sunbury next January, on the charge of running a disorderly house. His night clerk, Frank Long, and waitress, Margaret Phillips, were held under $500 on the charge of aiding and abetting disorderliness. The case of Margaret Welsh, cashier, was taken under advisement. The testimony showed that the soldier investigator employed by the government, and the female investigator, secured a room and liquor even though they admitted they were not married.

Mrs. Anderson, proprietress at 1123 State street, Elsie Staley, inmate, Dimko Stephano, Minoff Trika, Milton K. Shumkruff, Joe Antoff, and William Shoemaker, were held for court after preliminary hearings last evening.

The case of Mrs. Myra Schultz, proprietress at 51 Susquehanna street, Middletown, will be heard Friday morning at 9 o'clock, instead of last night, as originally planned. Mabel Stewart, arrested at 1123 State street, Saturday evening, was discharged, no charge being brought against her. Investigation proved that one of the women arrested, who gave her address as 1101 Capital street was lying, as 1101 Capital street is the residence of law abiding citizens.

To Fill Jury Wheel. President Judge George Kunkel and the jury commissioners decided to-day that the jury wheel will be refilled December 5, when about 900 names will be placed in it, to be used in drawing juries for court sessions next year. The first juries will be drawn December 10, after the wheel has been filled. Jurors will be drawn at that time for the January sessions of Criminal Court and Common Pleas court.

APPEALS ARE HEARD. Appeals from assessment of properties by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company were heard to-day by the Board of Taxes and Appeals. Representatives of the company asked to have exempted from taxes bank houses at Seventh and Maclay streets and 501 Market street, the cattle pens in North Seventh street, above Maclay, a small plot of ground near the freight station at Maclay street, a tract near Dock street bridge and another building for storage purposes. The board decided to refer the appeals to a city solicitor for opinions, because of legal points which were raised in the discussion.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy we have found for constipation. We cannot say too much for it." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mr. Winfield S. Taylor, 342 Penn St., Burlington, N. J.)

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy for constipation because it acts gently and does not gripe and strain. Its freedom from all habit-forming properties and its positive effect make it the ideal remedy for the family medicine-chest.

This is even further borne out by the fact that at the exclusive Shoreham only one cigarette (a 25c brand) outsells Fatima.
