

AUSTRIA WANTS AMERICAN HELP IN ITS STRESS

Plea For Yanks to Maintain Order Widespread in Troubled Land

Vienna, Dec. 2.—On all sides in the former Austrian empire one hears the plea that American troops be sent to the centers of population to keep order. Such a step, it is held, would work against the tendencies to unrest caused by the countless political and boundary disputes among the numerous races, and help prevent any trend towards Bolshevism that disorderly conditions might act to promote. It is urged by Jewish residents arriving here from Przemysl and Lemberg that the presence of American soldiers would be sufficient protection against such antisemitic outbreaks as have occurred recently at these places.

Rulers Abandon Estates The word Bolshevism is loosely used here, but the only authentic example of outbreaks taking on this complexion appears to be furnished during the riot that took place in the northwestern Hungary, where the former ruling classes, the Magyar country gentlemen, have virtually abandoned their estates. It is reported that efforts by the Czechs to take possession of this territory was followed by an uprising of the peasants and also by outbreaks against the Jews.

Representatives of the Gottschee group explained that they wished the protection of America against the Jugo-Slavs so that they might declare a republic. They said they were friendly to the Jugo-Slavs but their own rights of freedom and note they felt they had a right to their town political freedom and wished to exist in the interior of Jugoslavia just as San Marino did in Italy.

These people claim that Jugo-Slav soldiers arrested the mayor of Gottschee and are persecuting the political leaders of the region. They will clear their own rights in Bohemia, whence it emigrated six hundred years ago and occupied Gottschee, but that it always retained the use of the German language and that now, if the people are to be forced to abandon it, if they remain, they prefer to abandon their homes. They claim there are 20,000 of their people among the population of New York, Cleveland and San Francisco.

Dr. Paul Samassa, author of a work on the race struggle of the Hapsburg empire, expresses the opinion that the peoples of that empire never will be brought together again.

TEUTONS SILENT AS YANKEE ARMY ENTERS

but their forgetfulness was corrected promptly by some older person. News of the entry of the American Expeditionary Force into the city was greeted with a silence that was broken only by the sound of the marching columns. At several places in the city and in the country districts German arms with rifles were seen acting as civilian guards. They had been placed there by the German authorities to maintain order.

A number of released Allied soldiers appeared within the American line as it advanced. Some of them had been set free by the retreating Germans while others had been permitted to escape.

KATHRYNE FRICK, WARD OF STATE, NINETEEN TODAY

Blind, Deaf and Dumb, She Has Reached Fine Mental Development

KATHRYNE MARY FRICK

Today is the nineteenth birthday of Miss Kathryn Frick, the blind, deaf and dumb girl, who has been a ward of the state for the past ten years at the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, at Mount Airy. During these ten years Miss Frick has learned to speak and to read and write, and is developed mentally almost as perfectly as a normal girl of the same age.

Although Miss Frick can understand her teachers by reading their lips with her hands, and can speak and understand her friends at the school by the sign language performed on her own palm so she can feel it, it is still necessary for a teacher to help her understand strangers. She will soon be able to read anyone's lips by feeling them with her sensitive finger tips.

When asked if she was going to have a birthday party, Miss Frick laughed and said, "No, she was too old for that." Though she may consider herself too old for parties, she is by no means a back number, and when she was asked what she thought of the ending of the war, her face lighted and her words tumbled over each other as she told how she put her hand out of the window and felt the whistles blowing on peace day.

She jumped up and down with joy and waved a handkerchief out of the window, just as any other girl might do. She seemed just as interested as anyone in the fact that the vibrations made by the noise of the celebration could be felt and she thought it was very interesting.

Miss Frick spent yesterday afternoon reading "Pilgrim's Progress" with her fingers, and to-day she will have her lessons and do her usual work, she can use a typewriter and a sewing machine, and her education in general knowledge is constantly progressing. Miss Mabel Whitman is her teacher. Another blind girl, Grace Pearl, is her constant companion.

Interment of Mackensen's 170,000 Men Is Ordered by the Hungarian Government

Copenhagen, Dec. 2.—The Hungarian government has decided to intern the whole of Field Marshal von Mackensen's army of 170,000 men, in accordance with the demand of the French government, it is reported from Budapest by way of Berlin.

Von Mackensen has required a large army to keep Germans in submission since his conquest of that country in October and November of 1916. When it became apparent that the surrender of Germany was imminent, von Mackensen hastily reorganized his army, including 60,000,000 marks in gold and stocks of provisions, but he sought to withdraw his army he was blocked by the Hungarians, who had yielded to Italy before the armistice with Germany was signed.

The armistice with Italy provided that Austro-Hungarian territory should not be used for the movement of German military forces. Since that time, von Mackensen and German officials have sought to make arrangements to bring the German Army of occupation in Rumania through Germany without the armistice. It was reported that several thousand of his troops had been disarmed in Hungary and allowed to go to Germany before the demand for Hungary was made.

Von Mackensen ranked next to Ludendorff and von Hindenburg in military fame in Germany. He is in his sixty-ninth year. He has the reputation of being one of the most ruthless and merciless of German generals in the discipline of his own men as well as in the treatment of enemies. Americans who interviewed him before his country entered the United States was unbounded.
