

WILSON FREES 2 NAMED BY HUGHES IN AIR SCANDAL

Accused of Doing Business With Concerns in Which They Were Interested

Washington, Dec. 4.—Lieutenant Colonel J. C. Vincent and George W. Mixer, army officers named by Charles E. Hughes in his report on the aircraft investigation as having been guilty of transacting business with private concerns in which they were financially interested, have been pardoned by President Wilson. This announcement was made last night at the White House.

"It was announced at the executive office to-day that the President had pardoned Lieutenant Colonel George W. Mixer and Lieutenant Colonel J. C. Vincent, whom the recent report on aircraft production showed to be technically guilty because of a breach of statutes because they entirely concurred in the views of the attorney general with regard to these two cases. He believed that the two gentlemen concerned were entirely innocent of any improper or selfish intentions, that their guilt was only technical, and that their services to the government, which have been of the highest value and of the most disinterested sort, deserve a most cordial recognition."

No action against Colonel Vincent or Colonel Mixer has been taken by the department of justice, and the granting of full pardons to them was recommended to the President by Attorney General Gregory, who took up their cases in separate letters to the President. These letters were made public to-night.

Colonel Vincent was vice-president of the Packard Motor Car Company and was one of the designers of the Liberty motor.

Mr. Hughes' report said Colonel Mixer owned twenty-five shares of stock of the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Corporation, valued at $2,500, while he acted for the government in supervising inspection and production at the company's plant.

SOLDIERS ARRESTED

Five negro soldiers who started a free-for-all fight on a New Cumberland street car last night, were arrested and sent to the guardhouse at Marsh Run to await punishment. Five others escaped arrest while state police were being summoned.

"Because Tonall Helped Others, I Bought It. Because It Benefited Me, I Recommended Tonall."

Mrs. Gertrude Schupp, of Millwood, Lancaster county, Pa., says: "I am a widow and make my living at dressmaking. I was troubled with my stomach and could not eat much, had difficulty with bloating. I used one bottle of Tonall and began to feel good almost immediately. I will continue to use it as I feel sure it will bring me around all right. I bought Tonall because it helped others, and as it benefited me I recommend it for all stomach ailments." Tonall is sold at the Gorgas Drug Store, Harrisburg; at the Hershey Drug Store, Hershey, and Martz' at Steelton.

Aged Resident Has Narrow Escape

"I was at my work, my limbs became numb, I got dizzy and faint, my ears seemed stopped up. I had been troubled with gas on my stomach and severe bloating after meals. Doctors failed to help me. One dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, recommended by the corner druggist, proved a life-saver to me. I am continuing with it with splendid results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

AIR RAIDS WERE SILLY, SON OF EX-KAISER SAYS

Asserts Commanders of Submarines Went Much Too Far; Diplomats Err

Oosterland, Holland, Dec. 4.—Frederick William Hohenzollern, the former German Crown Prince, is living a very simple life now. He strolls about the island of Wieringen, chats with peasants, and is learning the Dutch language from a small boy who speaks English. He says he is interested, although in reality not interested, as all the other commands, which have been permitted to leave Holland. He does not expect his wife to come to Holland; she will remain in Berlin to superintend the education of the children.

Made Terms of Treaty Hard
When the Brest-Litovsk treaty was mentioned, he said its terms were hard because in Russia the Germans were confronted by the Bolsheviks. "The air raids on London and other towns and the big gun used against Paris were useless militarily and, in fact, silly," said Frederick William. "Orders to submarine commanders were read differently by various officers, who went much too far. Regarding air raids, I suggested two years ago an international agreement limiting air activities to the actual war zone, but my opinion was entirely disregarded. I was again told my job was to command my armies."

Compelled to Send Telegram
German diplomats, he declared, had made "awful" mistakes, being unable to see the viewpoint of the countries where they were stationed and misreading opinion in other countries. Referring to the notorious Kaiser telegram during the Boer war, he said:

"My father was made to send this telegram by his political advisers." Speaking of the beginning of the war, Frederick William asserted: "Contrary to all statements hitherto made abroad, I never desired war, and thought the moment quite inopportune. I was never consulted, and the report about a Crown Council being held in Berlin to decide on the war I deny on my oath. I was enjoying a stay at a watering place when mobilization was ordered."

"My father also, I am sure, did not desire war. If Germany had sought the best opportunity for making war she would have chosen the period either of the Boer war or the Russo-Japanese war."

Certain England Would Enter
"From the beginning I was certain that England would enter the conflict. This view was not shared by Prince Henry and the other members of my family. "People have credited me with warlike intentions. But I was only a soldier with a desire to see the army kept thoroughly efficient, and I worked hard to bring this about. People blamed me with the failure at Verdun. But I refused twice to attack here with the troops at my disposal. On the third occasion my attack was successful for the first three days, but I was not properly supported."

Thought Verdun Attack Mistake
"I thought that the Verdun attack was a mistake. We should have attacked to the eastward of Verdun, where there would have been great probability of success." "The excuse for the failure was rather bitter regarding the work of the general staff, which he asserted was responsible for numerous mistakes, including the attack in March, 1918, which he was ordered to make, contrary to his own view, and was compelled to obey. He declared that Ludendorff was the mainspring of Germany's warlike activities, while Von Hindenburg was a mere figure-head."

Discounted Yankee Strength
Ludendorff and his staff continually underestimated the enemy's forces and never believed that America's contribution of soldiers was as great as it actually proved to be. "Frederick William declared himself to be an admirer of President Wilson, but he felt assured, would bring about a peace of justice for the German people, and concluded: "Any humiliation of a nation containing seventy million people would only lead to a feeling of revenge. Such a nation cannot be crushed. The armistice terms are very severe and almost impossible of execution, as the Entente powers are taking away a large portion of the means of transport."

Dr. Andrew B. Gloninger Dies Suddenly in Office

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 4.—Dr. Andrew B. Gloninger, a prominent surgeon of this city and head of the Lebanon Sanitorium, was found dead in his office at Ninth and Cumberland streets, last evening. It is thought heart trouble caused death. Dr. W. H. Hilsinger had an appointment with Dr. Gloninger about 6:30 o'clock and upon going to his office found him lying prostrate on a couch. Medical aid was immediately administered, but all efforts proved fruitless. Dr. Gloninger was 55 years old and is survived by his wife and one son, Andrew, Jr., of New York.

Dr. Andrew B. Gloninger was well known in Harrisburg, where he had many friends. Prior to the Spanish War he was a member of the Governor's Troop, National Guard of Pennsylvania, serving as Hospital Steward in the Cavalry command for several years. In the Spanish War service he was a major on the medical staff of the Fourth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and was with the command in Porto Rico, under Colonel D. B. Case.

PENROSE TO ACT FOR PROTECTION

Senator Will Present Bills to Look After Industries of the Keystone State

According to a Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia Press, Senator Penrose will present important bills early in the new session. The Press says: "It is my thought that soon after March 4—assuming that Congress will be called in extra session—we will proceed to enact new tariff schedules, even though we realize that the President is very likely to veto the bill," said Senator Penrose, who is slated to be the next chairman of the finance committee. "Much will depend upon the state of public finances," said Mr. Penrose. "We do not even now, with the revenue bill before the committee, know anything about the financial conditions of the Treasury, and we have summoned Secretary McAdoo to appear to-morrow and enlighten us."

"But I think there will be a general disposition among the Republicans to enact a new tariff law not only to raise revenue and protect the home market, but to provide employment for the soldiers who will be returning to civil life. By that time the necessity of a protective tariff will be more apparent to the people."

Senator Penrose to-day declined to discuss the movement to depose him further than to say that he thought there was nothing in it and that he felt sure he would be made chairman of the finance committee. Inquiry among members of the Senate developed the fact that the Progressives, led by Senator Borah, who initiated the movement against Penrose, have made little headway.

It has not proved a popular movement in the Senate, because those who might not care for Penrose for chairman of the principal committee, fear to break the rule of seniority, lest it react upon them or their friends. This fact deters the Democrats from giving any encouragement to the revolution started by Borah and Norris, of Nebraska. They realize that if the seniority rule is broken it may embarrass them if they again secure control of that body. One thing that Penrose's friends put forward in his behalf is the fact that he has fully qualified for the chairmanship. Dur-

FLEEING BARON BEARS TALE OF SOVIET HORROR

Says British Torpedo Boats Could Stop Bolshevik Flood of Terror

Berlin, Dec. 4.—If a few British torpedo boats or light cruisers, with even a small landing force, could reach Revel this week they could dam the Bolshevik flood which has been murdering, burning and plundering Estonia and Livonia, according to a declaration made to the correspondent by Baron Aexkuell, of Estonia, who escaped from that country on Thursday in disguise.

Baron Aexkuell reports that German forces had begun to evacuate Narva, when they were attacked and defeated by Russian troops. Last Tuesday White Guards commanded by former Russian officers, under the leadership of Count Kel-

U. S. Completes Deal to Buy Chesapeake and Delaware Canal

Washington, Dec. 4.—The long-pending negotiation for purchase by the government of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal have at last culminated in an agreement, and the waterway will soon become a part of the great inland waterways system which extends from Boston to Beaufort, N. C.

The price to be paid for the canal is $2,514,000, which is the amount several times recommended by the board of government engineers. Senator Willard Saulsbury, of Delaware, yesterday made the announcement of the completion of the bargain between the government and the owners.
