BOLD ROBBERIES AT WAYNESBORO

Thief Takes Chickens, Oysters, Lard and Apples From Sidewalk Front of Stores

Waynesboro, Pa., Dec. 5.—Probably the nimble-fingered artist who transferred to his automobile a can of lard, gallon of oysters and a bushel of apples from the sidewalk in front of S. C. Reynolds' grocery store under a glaring electric light without anybody seeing him, is making a safe getaway, last week, is the same chap who made the successful raid on O. M. McClear's restaurant, not far from the Reynolds' grocery in West Main street, a few nights ago. At all events the executive was up to the same high standard of celerity and technique. In the latter raid the loot was two gallons of oysters, two dressed chickens and a big bag of cabbage that had been placed temporarily in the yard in the rear of the cafe.

BOY, WHO RAN AWAY TO WAR SENT HOME

Hammond, Ind.—Glenn Hansen, 15 years old, who, unlike the person who fights and runs away, is a boy who runs away to fight, is back at his home in Hammond, after having seen service on the battlefields of France. The youth brought with him the compliments of General Pershing, who found the boy after a long search and sent him back to Mr. and Mrs. William Hansen, his parents.

When he was 14 years old, the youth ran away and enlisted in the American cavalry. He ate his Christmas dinner last year on shipboard, he says, and has been in France ever since. He boasts that he has been on the front twelve times. The parents have sent a large sum of money during the last nine months in an attempt to find him.

TRAPPERS IGNORE FINES

Boston.—Prices for furs are so fantastically high that it is profitable for the trappers even to violate the law and pay their fines, which process falls out balance the profits on their captures, even when extremely heavy legal penalties are assessed. The number of poachers arrested during recent weeks breaks all records.

FARMER REFUSES TO PAY DOG TAX

Carlisle Court to Sacrifice of His Religious Beliefs

Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 5.—Sooner than pay a license fee of $1 for his dog, William Shughart, a farmer living in North Middleton township, near Carlisle, went to jail, declaring as he did that "The Lord will deliver me as he did Peter and Paul." Shughart, who is well to do, is a member of a peculiar religious sect and believes that going to jail for his beliefs is commendable. He was convicted in criminal court this week after a short trial, in which he declared that to pay more than 25 cents to a dog license was unrighteous and was sentenced to pay the costs, the fee and $25 fine, but refused to do so and delivered a sermon while waiting to be taken to jail. He claimed that the new dog tax law is unfair.

David Price, Carlisle, found guilty of the same charge, was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $5, Executor Fox and Attorney Pearson, of Harrisburg, were also present to make charges against two new Cumberland boys, Earl Guise and Howard Houck, who, it is claimed, entered their summer homes and took and destroyed property. They used a gun to shoot in the homes. One of the boys was previously before the court on another charge. A request for clemency was not allowed by Judge Sadler, who stated that something must be done to teach the boys of the section respect for law and order. They were sentenced to pay the costs, fines of $5 each and were ordered sent to the Glen Mills School.

St. Clair Jefferson and Kenneth Price, two young colored boys involved with William Belt in several robberies, were sentenced to pay the costs, fine $5 and to be committed to the Huntingdon Reformatory and the Belt boy is to pay $10 and to go to the same institution. The case of William Gardner, charged with assault and battery by George Musser was dismissed by a jury and the costs placed equally on both the defendant and the prosecutor. Both are from East Pennsboro and the fight occurred 45 years charges made by Musser's son, it is said, that Gardner was a pro-German.
