Local Distributor of Studebaker Cars Says Sedan Is Proving Very Popular

With the passing of the beautiful autumn days and the close approach of the holidays, there comes a nip and tangle in the air that speaks much to the seasoned motorists," says M. L. Mumma, local distributor of Studebaker cars.

one these days wants to take the time to put up shades curtains when the weather looks bad when it becomes cold and stormy.

"The growing popularity of the sedan and the fact that it may yet dominate motordom is of course due to the combinations of utility, comfort, convenience and splendid appointments which the better cars of this type now offer.

PRE-WAR PRICES ON MITCHELLS

Maker Announces Radical Reductions, but Doubts if Low Prices Can Last

"One of the first industries in the country to accommodate itself to war conditions, the automobile business bids fair to lead the field in peace-time readjustment," says Vice-President R. C. Rueschaw, of the Mitchell Motors Company, Inc., of Racine, Wis.

"Not only were automobile manufacturers quick to adapt themselves to the economic changes brought on by the war, but the swinging over of vast factories from automobile to munitions production was accomplished in an almost miraculously short time. Similarly, now that peace is with us and we can return to automobile building, no time is being lost in changing over."

"In the Mitchell plant where we were on practically 100 per cent. war work, with plant government trucks as our chief product, we are getting back to peacetime production as rapidly as circumstances will permit. Of course, aside from such government contracts as remain to be filled, the conversion of a plant so large to peacetime work is not the work of a day, but we are sparing no effort to make the conversion period as short one.

"In a way, the devoting of our plant to munitions work was one of the best things that could have happened to us," Mr. Rueschaw continues. "It not only made it possible for us to hold our organization intact, but mixed with the common spirit of doing their best to win the war, every man drew nearer to us and to his fellows until we now have a more closely knit body than ever before."
