WEAKNESS REMAINS LONG AFTER Influenza

Reports Show That Strength, Energy and Ambition Return Very Slowly to Grippe Patients.

After an attack of influenza, doctors advise that nature be assisted in its building-up process by the use of a good tonic—one that will not only put strength and endurance into the body, but will also help to build up and strengthen the run-down cells of the brain. One of the most highly recommended remedies to put energy into both body and brain is Bio-feron—your physician knows the formula—it is printed below. There's iron in Bio-feron—the kind of iron that makes red blood corpuscles and creates vigor. There is lecithin also; probably the best brain invigorator known to science. Then there is good old reliable gentian, that brings back your lagging appetite. There are other ingredients that help to promote good health, as you can see by reading this formula, not forgetting kolo, that great agent that puts the power of endurance into weak people. Taken altogether Bio-feron is a splendid active tonic that will greatly help any weak, run-down person to regain normal strength, energy, ambition and endurance. Bio-feron is sold by all reliable druggists and is inexpensive. For weakness after influenza patients are advised to take two tablets after each meal and one at bed time—seven a day, until health, strength and vigor are fully restored. It will not fail to help you and if for any reason you are dissatisfied with results your druggist is authorized to return your money upon request—without any red tape of any kind.

Note to physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feron, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin Calcium Glycerophosphate, Iron Bismuthate, Manganese Peptonate, Ext. Nux. Vomica, Powdered Gentian, Phenolphthalein, Glycerin, Capsetum, Kolo.

Navy Gunners Clash With Mexican Guards
New York, Dec. 16.—In a clash on November 23 between the armed navy guard of the American steamship Monterey and Mexican customs guards at Tampico, Mex., a Mexican sailor was killed, a Mexican soldier mortally wounded and a brief gunner's mate, named Berry, in charge of the American guard, less seriously hurt. This was learned yesterday with the steamer's arrival here from Havana and Nassau, where she touched after leaving Tampico. Members of the armed guard and officers of the ship refused to discuss the incident, but details were learned from passengers on board at the time. The fight, passengers said, was brief, the Mexicans running away from the Americans, who opened fire, leaving their dead and wounded.

NEWS FLASHES OFF THE OCEAN CABLES

San Juan.—One hundred and fifty thousand school children want the United States to name a battleship for Porto Rico. A petition setting forth this fact has been sent to President Wilson.
Tokyo.—Former President Roosevelt has been elected an honorary member of the Japanese Red Cross and, with the special approval of the Emperor, will receive a Red Cross decoration.
San Juan.—Influenza is still epidemic on the island. Many thousands are sick and many deaths have been reported. Unless the situation improves, it will very seriously handicap the early opening of the cane harvest.

London.—One London banker estimates Germany will have to pay to the Allies for reparation and restitution about $7,500,000,000.
San Juan.—Plans for the opening of the new sugar season are under way and it is probable that three cents will commence grinding before the close of December.
Rome.—Italy's war damage is computed at $50,000,000 and the same amount in Italian lire. It is thought $50,000,000 will cover Serbia's loss.

SAYS COLD WEATHER BRINGS RETURN OF INFLUENZA
Public Must Be Careful To Avoid A Second Epidemic. Easier To Prevent Than Cure. What To Do.
"Encouraging reports of the fewer cases of influenza in this vicinity should not allow us to relax our vigilance to become careless in the belief that the danger is all over," says a well known authority. "With the coming of cold weather there is apt to be a return of this frightful epidemic and its seriousness will depend on the extent of the precautions, taken by the public, to prevent infection."
When the air is full of influenza germs, you may be constantly breathing them into your nose and throat, but your danger may be avoided and you may make yourself practically immune to infection if you destroy the germ before it actually begins work in your blood.
During the recent serious epidemic which hit Harrisburg so hard, most successful results were obtained by many through the simple breathing into the nose, throat and lungs of the medicated air of oil of Hyomei. Probably the best and most sensible precaution against influenza, Grippe, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis or Catarrh of the throat could be employed than to go down to the nearest drug store and get a complete Hyomei preparation consisting of a bottle of the pure Oil of Hyomei and a little vapovent hard rubber inhaler device into which a few drops of the oil are poured.
Carry this inhaler with you during the day and each half hour or so put it in your mouth and draw deep breaths of its pure healing germicidal air into the passages of your nose, throat and lungs to destroy any germs that may have found lodgment there. This simple precaution may save you a serious illness and its attendant suffering.
It is pleasant to use and not at all expensive as the inhaler will last a lifetime and further supplies of the Oil of Hyomei can be had at any drug store for a few cents.
Kindly use Hyomei in this way during the recent crisis and avoid danger. They should be used if it occurs the danger is by no means over, H. C. Kennedy.

MANY WOUNDED ARE REPORTED

City and Suburbs Pay Heavy Price on Field of Battle

Among the casualties reported by the War Department to-day is the name of Corporal Howard Clark Hitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hitz, 1317 North Front street, Harrisburg. He is officially reported as wounded, degree undetermined, but according to a letter recently received by the parents, he is out of the base hospital and is being sent to his regiment.

Corporal Hitz is a member of Company D, 112th Infantry. He was wounded October 1, in an engagement in the Argonne forest region. The wound was in the left side of the waist line, and was caused by a rifle shot which entered at the front of the body and came out in the rear. The last letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Hitz was dated November 13, and states that Corporal Hitz has almost entirely recovered from his wound.

Also officially reported wounded severely is Private Nester H. Elcheberger, son of Mrs. Anna Elcheberger, 248 Nectarine street. Private Elcheberger is in a Canadian hospital recovering from wounds in the ankle and knee, and has undergone three operations. In a letter to his mother dated November 16, he expresses the belief of his recovery. He had twice gone "over the top" but the third time he was wounded. He is a member of Company L, 128th Infantry.

Corporal William Augustus McWilliams, whose nearest relative is Mrs. Mary McWilliams, Penbrook, is reported as wounded, degree undetermined, in to-day's casualty list. Others from this vicinity reported to-day are: Private William Lewis, a wounded, degree undetermined, Hummelstadt; Sergeant Grover C. Sheckart, wounded severely; Sergeant John G. Ruhigler, wounded severely; Oberlieutenant Stanley Smecker, wounded severely; Lebanon; Private Edgar W. Harold, wounded severely; Duncannon, and Private Warren R. Sarver, wounded severely, Millersburg. The only casualty from this section listed as killed in action is Private Jackson L. Frey, whose nearest relative given is Martin Frey, R. F. D. No. 1, Chambersburg. Private Arthur D. Sipe, of Durham, and Private Charles L. Thomas, of Dillsburg, are reported as slightly wounded. Corporal Frank Luther Grove, of Carlisle, is reported in yesterday's list as wounded, degree undetermined.

Life's Problems Are Discussed

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow
There is an Armenian boy who wrote me not long ago. His letter was stiff and stilted in its unfamiliar use of English, and his ideas were badly conveyed, but somehow as I read that uneven scrawl I caught a sense of color and imagery. He told me that he longed to become a painter. His mind, I gathered, lived in dreams of pictures—the vivid, glowing conceptions of his fancy—but when he tried to transcribe them to canvas, his hand failed him. The result was only a futile daub. Yet he never doubted his ability to create masterpieces of art. It was simply his utter lack of training that stood in his way and balked him, for there was no one among his narrow list of acquaintances in this country who possessed any of the secrets of the painter's craft, and the nature of his work prevented him from seeking any of the schools or courses of instruction.

He was harnessed to an unconsoling job, he said, where the hours were long and where—naturally, if he was forever dreaming—he received no advancement and but very meagre pay. Now I may be mistaken, but I believe that boy is a genius. I have never seen any of his efforts at creation. I have only his letter to go on. But, as I say, there was something in that which arrested my attention—a something quite apart from its very commonplace form and composition, and which revealed itself through obscuring clouds. It was his vivid personality, for personality will always express itself, no matter what medium it chooses. If the great painter tries to write, if the great writer tries to paint, which revealed the divine fire as the crudest and faultiest character, but it will nevertheless carry a note of distinction, a certain individual twist, some hint of that quality which has made its creator eminent in another way. The intellectual force back of the cartoons John Barrymore used to draw was another expression of the art he has since shown in "Justice" and "Peter Ibbetson," and the same vivacity and magnetism that Caruso shows on the stage can be found in his rapid-fire sketches and caricatures. Thackeray was a satirist both with pen and pencil. Dickens, loving private theatricals, brought to his stage representations the same incoherent humor and broad humanity which distinguished his writing. With "Tribby" Du Maurier was an illuminative of himself in the pictures as in the text. George Coburn's writing, singing, dancing, composition, managing and producing is all stamped with the same trade-mark; and I have no doubt if he took up painting or sculpture it would be equally "peppy" and Colaneseque. But to return to my Armenian boy. A genius—let it be granted that he is one—a stranger in a strange land struggling with a new language, new customs, new ideas; poor and obliged to drudge at an unconsoling task for the sake of his mere daily bread, nursing in his soul dreams of beauty, yet through his want of skill unable to materialize them upon canvas; barred by conditions from the instruction he craves; without any sympathetic or comprehending associates; eating his heart out in lonely longing, or like a caged bird wildly beating his wings against the bars of the imprisoning wires. It seems a case to stir one to the deepest solicitude and pity. And yet on second thought, I wonder. Genius—the real article—seems to have a remarkable capability of looking out for itself. It does not lead itself kindly to the fostering hand; it seems to prefer to grow and develop in its own sweet way. Most people have an impression that genius must be wrapped in cotton wool and kept in a hot-house. On the contrary, like those sturdy Alpine flowers which bloom among the rocks and snow, it seems to thrive best on obstacles. Observation does not lead one to subscribe strongly to the theory of

The Model 90

Overland Thrift Car

Established Overland policy is apparent in the establishment of this new price at this time. That policy is now as it has been in the past—quantity production of a quality car—economies of large purchasing power and standardized factory methods—small per car profit. And the result is now as it has been in the past—the ruling sensible automobile value of the season. Aside from price, the Model 90 Overland Thrift Car is the sensible automobile to buy on its record. Over one hundred thousand of these cars are giving their owners service that is far more than merely satisfactory. It is affording them individual transportation at remarkably low cost—transportation of the utmost dependability and real comfort. And considered with the price, $985 f. o. b. Toledo, the intrinsic value is compelling. It establishes Overland, as heretofore, the ruling sensible automobile value of the season. Production cannot immediately be restored to normal. But we have not let price wait upon the lowering of costs through the increase in production. We have anticipated it, you have it now, and now is the time to buy. We also anticipate a demand for this car that we must necessarily fall short of fully supplying until we shall fully have restored normal factory conditions. Cars on hand are few. We are doing our utmost and will continue to do everything in our power to bring stocks of cars up to working requirements with the least possible delay. Shipments are already moving in fair quantity. Your purchase if made this season should have your attention now. We are ready—come in and see us.
