BURLESON CUTS COST OF TELEPHONE TALK

New Rates Establish Night Service Charge; Prevent Phone Swindlers Using Lines to Converse Without Paying For Connection Established; Many Heavy Reductions

Washington, Dec. 16.—Effective on January 21, long distance and toll telephone rates are to undergo sweeping reductions, according to an announcement made by Postmaster General Burleson last night.

NEW PHONE RATES

Re-establish the night rate discontinued a number of years ago. Make the night rate one-half the day rate from 8.30 to midnight.

Permit a New Yorker to talk to San Francisco for $1, as against the present rate of $16. Abolish the three-minute rate in short-distance talking.

Reduce the smallest toll rate for short-distance calls from 10 cents to 5 cents. Discontinue the practice of obtaining free service by fraud.

Establish a station-to-station service rate to a basis that will yield the Government a return for the extra expense involved in establishing the connection.
