dress the marshal said: Aroused to Noble Task

Aroused to Noble Task
"It is not without deep emotion that I look back upon the time which I spent last year in the United States. This people, by the intensity of its affection for France, caused one to sense the strength which it somehow felt, but which it did not yet know how to employ. It seemed that by its great love this people felt itself already doing something noble and comforting to the allied armies. It made no mistake, for that love enabled France, overwhelmed by the defection of the verwhelmed by the defection of the ussian armies and by the great and Russian armies and by the great and weakening trials of the spring of 1917, to keep intact its confidence and its courage.

"While in the midst of the American crowds I was living hours which I number among the sweetest of my life. I had divined the need for sacrifices on their part awakened in the soul of this generous people by the heroism of our soldiers and the justice of our cause. In order that France might live in prosperity, that Belgium might restablish herself, that liberty might reign and that right might be reinstated, America arose and resolved to throw into the fight her last man and her last dollar.

'History does not record a more marvelous achievement than that of millions of men voluntarily breaking away from their peaceful pursuits to cross the seas, where lurked death; to come thousands of miles from their country and give up their lives for a noble cause, a great ideal. And as if the sacrifice was not completed by sending the husbands and sons, we have seen the wives, the fathers and the mothers escorting across the seas that phalanx of warriors to alleviate our sufferings and dress our wounds. We have seen them unsparingly giving their gold and the treasures of their hearts, kneeling on the graves of our sons and adopting our orphans. neeling on the gravian adopting our orphans,

San Francisco.—Relative to the san Francisco. Teach a amouncement by California brewery interests, that large amounts of capital invested in the brewery industry in the United States will be taken to the Orient and there devoted to a vast expansion of the brewery business, the foreign trade department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce states that while it has no specific knowledge as to the proposed movement it considers it quite possible that there will be a general movement of brewery capital to China, Japan and other Far Eastern countries.

China, Japan and other Far Eastern countries.

This authority also states that the matter of transferring American brewery capital to Mexico, from which to supply the South and Central American and West Indian trade has been discussed. Others well informed on the general situation say that while it is doubtless a fact that the brewers of the United States are looking for foreign fields of operation the matter is given publicity at this time for the purpose of finite encing the Legislature against ratification of the Federal Prohibition amendment. It is said that the liquor interests hope to defeat ratification in California, even though they know that the lamendment will be ratified by the required number of states, for the purpose of laying the foundation for a campaign of nonndation for a campaign of non-orcement after the federal endment becomes law. is said that the liquor people

l ,in case of nonratification in ifornia, call for lax enforcement und that the state never ratified the amendment.

As for any apprehension of consequences from the withdrawal of brewery capital from the United States, attention is called to the fact that a great cry was raised about a similar eventuality when fine State of Washington went dry in 1914. Relative to what has actually aken place in this latter connection, Franklin Hishborn, of the California Anti-Saloon League, has declared that although great brewery interests left Washington and came to California, nevertheless Washington benefited greatly by the departure of the brewery capital.

Neither California nor the nation need feel apprehension he continued, as to any harmful consequences from the departure of brewery capital to foreign lands. China is, however, very properly alarmed at the prospective invasion of the brewery battalians. Representatives of the Chinese Republic were present at the recent international dry conference at Columbus, Ohio, and made most earnest protestations against the threafence dexploitation of China by the brewery interests atd wanted all possible steps taken to prevent the consummation of the brewery plans.

Belgian Soldier Asks Aid of Stamp Collectors

Interned in Holland, Alex de Rocker, a Belgian soldier, has been passing his time by collecting canceled stamps of various countries. After wishing "Monsieur I'Editeur" of the Harrisburg Telegraph and the paper's employes a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, he makes known his request and promises to send a war keepsake of the Belgian soldiers in return for some nice stamps for his collection. He writes in part:
"As a Belgian soldier interned in Holland, I am taking the liberty to send you a little request. Having much time to spend here in the camp, I should like very much to make a collection of used postage stamps from all countries of the world.
"I should be very happy if you would be so kind as to publish the fact. I will send a war keepsake of the Belgian söldiers in exchange for some nice stamps for collection. I hope that you also will like to help me to pass some hours pleasantly."

The address of Alex. de Rocker is 5e. Belgian Line Regiment, Harderweigh, Interned in Holland, Alex de Rocker,
