Unquestionably one of the master writers of thrilling detective and mystery stories of to-day is Arthur B. Reeve, the creatic of the famous Craig Kennedy stories. And one of the most mysterious and powerful men on the stage to-day is Houdini, the man whose marvelous powers baffe all attempts to imprison him. Houdini is well known to Harrisburgers. He has appeared here and attracted huge throngs, and his work in this gripping motion picture, written by Arthur B. Reeve, is as mysterious and weird as his past stage performances.

Houdini has escaped from paper bags, zinc-lined boxes, packing cases,

Beautiful Ethel Clayton, in her latest picture being shown at the Rest Small amount of discussion. The play is a picture of the famous stage play, "Leah Kleschna," There are emotional moments and yet the picture has a decidedly uplighting tendency and is anything but morbid. In her screen career Miss Clayton has done much important work, but this production, represents her best. The role is fitted to her splendid talents. Supporting her are Theodore Roberts and Elliott Dexter.

On the Monday program of this popular playhouse is the splendid partricic picture, "Her Country First," starring Vivian Martin, and a laughable comedy, "The Romance of Brass Tacks." Mary Pickford appears Christmas Day and until next Saturaday evening in "Johanna Enlists," and exquisite little romance of wartime.

However much she might aspire to working magic, realized it was unlawful to be more than a Sorceress, at most a Wizardess.

Instreation.

Next morning, when he looked at his work again, Tip saw he had forgotten to give the dummy a neck, by means of which he might fasten the pumpkin-head to the body. So he went again to the forest, which was not far away, and chopped from a tree several pieces of wood with which to complete his work. When he returned he fastened a crosspiece to the upper end of the body, making a hole through the center to hold upright the neck. The bit of wood which formed this neck was also sharpened at the upper end, and when all was ready Tip put on the pumpkin-head, pressing it well down onto the neck, and found that it fitted very well. The head could be turned to one side or the other, as he pleased, and the hinges of the arms and legs allowed him to place the dummy in any position he discred.

Whether or not Ty Cobb quits baseball, one thing is certain, the profession owes him all praise and gratitude. "Outside of Detroit," remarked a famous pitcher the other day, "there won't be a whole lot of grief among the big leaguers. But regardless of whether they like Cobb or don't like him, there isn't a man in the American league to-day that doesn't owe something to Ty Cobb. "Cobb's advent into baseball marked a new era in the game. Cobb's baseball was new baseball. He was continually pulling something to make his opponents look like dubs and a greater part of the time he was getting away with it.

"The result was that players who were continually playing against Cobb were continually trying harder, playing better baseball to stop Cobb. It made better ball players of them. An infielder, pitcher or catcher who caught Cobb napping off a base got more satisfaction out of it thin he did all the rest of his putouts of the game The minut Cobb steeped to the plate every man was on his toes. "I really believe that Cobb has been "responsible for the superiority of play in the American league over the National league during the past ten years.

"It doesn't make any difference what these fellows think of Cobb they all owe him something."

"You must devote a great deal of thought to your speeches." "I do," repiled Senator Sorghum. "Some of those to which I give least thought before they are delivered make methink hardest afterward." Though the big buschall leagues are at odds on a number of other matters, they agreed on one point coint that probably will mean considerable satisfaction to the fams. That is a retention of the plan for distributing a portion of the world's series money among the second, third and fourth clubs in each clout, according to the order in which they finish. The scheme worked out so well last year that it will be continued in 1919, and the action will be approved by the fans everywhere, as the system serves to keep the players hustling right up to the finish and provides a better brand of baseball during the closing weeks of the season.

Mary didn't know what to buy for John-

¶ She had been puzzling over his gift, for days.

¶ She wanted to get him something that she knew would give him real genuine pleasure.

¶ She had racked her brain in vain.

¶ John seemed to have everything he could possibly want.

With Christmas a few days off, and no gifts for him, increased Mary's worry.

¶ Yesterday she went in to John's den to straighten things up a bit.

¶ For some reason or other she opened John's cigar humidor, and lo, and behold, it was practically empty—three cigars comprised its contents.

¶ And Mary's problem was solved.

With a face wreathed in smiles she went to the telephone, called up a cigar store, and ordered a box of King Oscars.

¶ She knew they would please John — because John had been smoking them for many years - and she had heard him comment on their goodness, on many occasions.

Madam, if you are puzzled as Mary was or if you have already bought him a gift, and are undecided as to whether or not he is going to be thoroughly pleased—take pattern after Mary.

¶ Go or phone to the nearest dealer's — get a box of King Oscar Cigars — and his Christmas will be truly merry.
