

TWO CUT WAY TO $75,000 WORTH OF SHORE FURS

Salesman of Firm and Porter of Building Taken For the Crime

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 24.—Two men were arrested last night in connection with the robbery early yesterday of furs valued at more than $75,000 from the Boardwalk store of Cohen & Gettleman. They are Harry Goff, a salesman employed by the firm, and Francis Goodman, a porter in the building.

The robbers gained entrance to the building by first entering a photograph studio next door and then cutting a hole through the wall. In addition to valuable furs on display in the store and in the workshop in the second floor, about $35,000 worth were taken from a safe which a member of the firm said he forgot to lock last night.

First Full Rehearsal of Moorhead Vaudeville Show Held Last Night

Harrisburg had a case of real musical warfare last night when arpeggios, flats, sharps, crescendos and half notes battled for mastery of the field. And to the hearer sitting on No Man's Land there was a weird combination of impressions.

CHRISTMAS ON "HILL" TIME ON "HILL L"

Departments Close Early For the Holiday; James Auter as Santa Claus

The state of Pennsylvania officially began to observe Christmas shortly after noon today. Most of the offices of the state government closed during the afternoon as the majority of the people occupying them live away from Harrisburg, started for their homes. The Capitol will be closed tomorrow except for the Health and State Police Departments, where men remain constantly on duty, and but little business will be transacted on the remaining days of the week. All hearings and meetings have been scheduled for next week.

Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh will spend the last Christmas of his term in the Executive Mansion, and tomorrow morning will follow the traditional duty of the Governor and distribute candy to the children of Harrisburg who may call to pay their respects. This custom was inaugurated by Daniel H. Hastings when governor in the middle of the nineties and the actual handing out of the gifts will be done by James M. Auter, the Governor's messenger, who has officiated at this ceremony every year since it began.

Money in Bales.—The State Highway Department turned in almost $100,000 to the State Treasury, representing payments for automobile licenses, the bulk of the checks or notes or money orders being for less than $15 and the whole making a bale which a man could not carry. It was one of the banner payments of any day. Shipments of automobile licenses for the last few days have been close to the record. The revenue for licenses for 1919 thus far received is almost $1,000,000.

Warning on Trees.—State Fire Marshal Howard E. Butz has issued a Christmas time warning against fire hazards in holiday season, especially on Christmas trees. "Adopt stringent precautions against the possibilities of casualties by fires. Avoid carelessness in handling Christmas tree decorations. Flammable decorations should not be used. See to it that decorations of nonflammable nature are used, says the warning. It is suggested that wiring for trees be done by competent electricians and that trees be securely fastened to the floors, while the warning is given to see that candles are handled by grown-up persons and not by children. Marshal Butz commends the activity of the people of the state in cleaning up on fire prevention day and urges the people of the state in handling packing material used for holiday goods and the prompt disposal of waste and rubbish.

Oleo Licenses Climb.—Oleomargarine licenses for 1919 will run close to 5,700, according to estimates made at the State Capitol and the coming year may see them go to 6,000. Dairy and Food Commissioner James Fout has issued 1,400 more licenses in 1918 than in the whole of 1917. Many of the licenses have been issued for small communities, whereas ten years ago the bulk of the licenses were in cities and industrial centers.

Grooms to Return.—Col. John C. Groome, head of the military police in France, is said by Philadelphia newspapers to be on his way home to this country on a furlough. Another interesting thing is that the members of the First Troop, who were scattered throughout the army by orders from Washington and the identity of the oldest military organization in the country thereby almost lost, will be regrouped under Colonel Groome as a part of military police forces. The splitting up of the cavalry is a sore point with many Pennsylvanians.

Miner Gets War Cross.—Colonel Asher Miner, former Luzerne county legislator and commander of the old Ninth Pennsylvania, has been given the distinguished service cross for gallantry in action with the 109th Artillery in France. He lost a leg in action and is on his way home.

Typhoid Fever at Huntingdon

The State Department of Health received word to-day of what appears to be a threatened epidemic of typhoid fever in Huntingdon and also cases of smallpox at Clearfield in Clearfield county and Rochester in Beaver county.

Dr. E. Franklin Royer, Acting Commissioner of Health, has sent one of the department's sanitary engineers to Huntingdon to make a thorough investigation of the water supply which has long been considered dangerous as the Huntingdon authorities depend entirely upon chemical treatment of the water. The State Department of Health has warned all the citizens of Huntingdon to boil all water until the source of infection has been discovered.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Visit Local Industrial Plants

Junior members of the Harrisburg Y. M. C. A., under the guidance of Arch Dinsmore, director, visited the candy factory of D. Bacon and Company, and the ice cream plant of the Hershey Creamery Company in South Cameron street to-day. After inspecting the plants they sampled the products of each and pronounced them excellent. Thursday morning the third educational trip of the holiday series will be held when the boys will visit the Swift and Company neat packing plant in North Seventh street.

HIT BY AUTO
George Casey was slightly bruised about the body last night, when the automobile of Harold Barnett, 240 Mattis street, Middletown, figured in a collision with the automobile of William B. Benedict, 1400 Green street, at Sixth and North streets.

TO USE CHIMES
Electrical chimes will be played as the accompaniment to the carol singing on Allison Hill to-morrow morning. John F. Dare will furnish a truck to transport the singers and William A. Fenical, 220 South Fifteenth street will be the director.

Better Homes

OUR returning soldiers and sailors, used to life in the open air and to rigid Army sanitary standards, will not be content with cramped or unhygienic homes.

These men will insist on spacious rooms, with plenty of air and light, wide verandas, roomy sleeping porches and sun parlors, and modern bathing and sanitary facilities.

Houses that do not meet the above requirements will have to be remodeled. Shacks and tenements must go.

Many thousands of new, sanitary dwellings are imperatively needed.

Now that Federal building restrictions have been removed, there will be a most unusual demand for all kinds of building material.

The sooner you begin the better, for while we have a good stock of lumber on hand there will be a great need for lumber.

No matter what you are going to build—come and see us.
