WAVE OF CRIME STIRS OHIOANS TO STERN DUTY

Fourteen Murders and Scores of Holdups Challenge Authorities of Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Dec. 28.—In an effort to check the epidemic of crime that has resulted in fourteen murders and scores of holdups and robberies in the past three months, American Protective League operatives patroled the streets last night armed with clubs.

A "shoot to kill squad" of sixty-seven regular policemen has been detailed to night duty in an effort to run down the bandits and robbers.

Member of Old Eighth Infantry Band Serenaded by Fellow Musicians

Jerauld recently returned to Harrisburg with the old Eighth Regiment band, of which he is a member, and in honor of his return the New Cumberland band called at his home last evening and surprised him with a serenade.

Then the band was invited in, and the serenading continued under the leadership of Jerauld himself, on which condition only the band consented to play.

After a pleasant evening, refreshments were served, a feature of which was a large red, white and blue cake, which was sent to "Bud" by one of his close friends.

MARRY IN PARSONAGE

With Choir and Organist

The choir of Derry Street United Brethren Church will sing two anthems by Berthold Tours at the services to-morrow. The morning selection is to be the writer's well known "Gloria in Excelsis," which is rivaled in beauty by the Schilling setting of the exhortation to praise. The evening composition will be Tours' setting of the hymn, "Now the Day Is Over," which has furnished the text for many meritorious works.

Charles Heinroth, the eminent American organist, is to give his recital in Messiah Lutheran Church, Sixth and Forster streets, on the evening of Thursday, January 16. The fine, new organ in this beautiful place of worship will, under the masterful playing of the Pittsburgh musician, have its first real test, although it has responded since its installation last spring to the touch and interpretation of some of the city's foremost players, notably Alfred C. Kuschwa, organist and choirmaster of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Although Joseph D. Brodeur, organist and choirmaster at St. Patrick's Cathedral, has been in the city since the latter days of October, his work has not been known outside the cathedral until now. The stately music given on Christmas Day thrilled the worshipers in the State street edifice and was the occasion for much favorable comment. Mr. Brodeur came here from Worcester, Mass., where he had been a leading figure in the musical life of that great musical community. The music given on Christmas Day is to be repeated insofar as is consistent with the demands of the liturgy of the church to-morrow forenoon at 10.30 o'clock. Mr. Brodeur also directed the Christmas music in St. James' Church, Steelton.

The Harrisburg Association of Organists will hold its monthly meeting in the Harrisburg Conservatory of Music Hall next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The members have been urged to be present.

The members of the congregation of the Fourth Feformed Church missed the splendid singing of Jacob Schnader, their bass soloist, on Christmas morning. Mr. Schnader was taken ill on Monday and was ordered by his physician to remain in bed because of threatened pneumonia. The musical program was an excellent tribute to the ability of Miss Irene Bressler, the organist and directress of the choir, who had as additional singers on the occasion, Mrs. Gobin Vallerchamp, soprano, and Frank Entry, tenor. The selection of Christmas hymns was very happily made.

At St. Stephen's Episcopal Church to-morrow the music is to be out of the ordinary. An augmented choir is to sing at both services. Several additional tenor and bass voices have been pressed into service.

One may find musical enjoyment by going to Christ Lutheran Church to-morrow evening, at which time a notable program of Christmas music is to be sung. Miss Katherine Dubbs, whose voice has pleased the congregation on many occasions, is to be the soprano soloist and the other parts are to be in quite capable hands.

One of the best numbers on the program at St. Stephen's Church to-morrow is to be J. Christopher Marks' "Te Deum Laudamus."

Harrisburg musical talent was called upon to assist in the Christmas music at Trinity Episcopal Church, Steelton, on the forenoon of Christmas Day. The service abounded in beautiful settings of glorias and the various responses.

If You Buy Here You Will Have Sold Yourself

The old idea in conducting a retail store was never to let a customer escape. Every salesperson viewed her day's total with pride.

What a short sighted policy. My staff is instructed along entirely different lines. We realize that customers resent being unduly urged. They may make a purchase under such conditions but will never return. How much more profitable in the long run to build a stable clientele which will return season after season.

We are operating with an eye to the future. We are glad to display our goods, glad to have you try them on, glad to suggest and to advise. But if you see nothing you want; walk out. Perhaps next time you'll purchase. We never urge a customer to buy. If she purchases here it's because she found exactly what she sought.
