You Can Qualify

This Is the Important Point

That Should Interest You

THE School of Commerce

ORGANIZED 1884

AND

Harrisburg Business College

ORGANIZED 1885

Offers to Fathers and Mothers the opportunity to choose wisely in the selection of "the" School that they would have their Sons or Daughters attend.

At opportunity's door, you are confronted with the question, "Can you qualify?" Your answer will get you in or keep you out. The training you receive at the School of Commerce will make sure of your "getting in."

Many an opportunity will present itself during the great reconstruction era upon which we are now entering. You can do and get paid for only as much as you are able to do.

If you are ambitious—you've got your eye on the top-most rung of the ladder of success. If your ambition is backed by determination you will want to put your foot where your eye of ambition is now focused.

We can help you climb the ladder, help you get to the top quickly. And our training will help you stay there.

To emphasize the fact that the demand for trained men and women will be in great demand now and in the future—a well-known national writer says "There are three problems that confront the United States during the great reconstruction days that are now with us—first, to feed the world; second, to finance the world, and third, to supply the world with materials." Now in order to accomplish this great work it will take many trained minds in all lines of work—and the trained man or woman will be given the preference. Now is the time for you to make up your mind and enroll with the School of Commerce and fit yourself for one of the good positions that will surely be awaiting you.

A Strong Faculty Makes an Efficient School

A diploma from the School of Commerce stands for something more than the mere completion of a course of study: it means EFFICIENT INSTRUCTION by a corps of EXPERT TEACHERS who are specialists in the particular subjects taught by them. The principal of each department is assisted by instructors who supplement the classwork with individual instruction to all students requiring it. With this combination of class and individual instruction, the best and quickest results are obtained.

The Difference in Schools

Here is where the prospective student will learn, after investigation, what makes the SCHOOL OF COMMERCE superior in its field. The difference in schools to a very great extent is the difference in TEACHERS. Equipment is of importance; pleasant rooms and cheerful surroundings are very desirable—but competent, experienced, zealous teachers are indispensable to the highest success of the student. The SCHOOL OF COMMERCE has the largest and best business school faculty in Central Pennsylvania. The principals have been at the head of their departments for a number of years and students profit greatly by their experience. No earnest student can fail at this school.

In Choosing a School

Too much thought cannot be given to this matter. The first point to be considered is QUALITY OF INSTRUCTION. Inferior instruction is a most expensive commodity; it is worse than worthless; many a bright future has been spoiled by it. Upon the rock foundation of high-grade instruction, the SCHOOL OF COMMERCE makes its stand. Only such schools as attain the highest efficiency are designated by the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools as worthy of using its emblem—the SEAL OF EXCELLENCY. The School of Commerce has been given that right.
