

SAFEGUARDS FOR GIRL MESSENGERS

Meeting For Discussion Will Be Held in Philadelphia on Monday

Whether the employment of women and girls as messengers for telegraph companies should be subject to regulation in Pennsylvania to prevent their being sent to improper places will be considered by the Industrial Board of the Department of Labor and Industry at a public hearing in Room 496, City Hall, Philadelphia, Monday morning, January 13, at 11 o'clock. The hearing will be attended by representatives of civic organizations and by representatives of telegraph companies.

Compensation Meeting—The Workmen's Compensation Board will meet in its offices at the Hartje Building, Pittsburgh, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 14, 15, 16.

Match Buckwheat—Pennsylvania farmers not only came back to their own as the leading buckwheat producers of the nation, but clipped all other production records with the 1918 harvest. The 1918 production is estimated by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at 6,191,600 bushels and New York state, which captured first honors in 1917, is shown to have produced but 725,000 bushels in 1918. This gives Pennsylvania a lead of almost a million and a half bushels over New York and the total production is one-third of the entire amount of buckwheat grown in the country. In 1917 New York, by a margin of about 60,000 bushels, captured the honors as the leading buckwheat producing state, but in addition to increasing its crops during the past year the Pennsylvania farmers made a special drive in buckwheat. The total production of the United States is estimated at about 17,000,000 bushels.

Money in Bristles—With the big increase in hog raising in Pennsylvania and the unusually large number of butchering, comes the word from prominent brush manufacturers of the country asking the farmers to save all the bristles, which have a market value of from two to three dollars a ton.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Patton has taken up the matter of selling hog bristles to the brush manufacturers and he now urges all farmers to make every effort to save the long back bristles at butchering time. Farmers having any supply on hand can get in touch with the Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg and will be furnished with names of firms that will purchase the bristles. The bristles that are most valuable are the back from the neck all along the back and averaging from two and three-fourths to four inches long. Nearly all countries save the product of hog bristles and the devastation of the war has practically killed the market in Russia where most of the bristles were secured. White bristles are much in demand and Secretary Patton urges farmers to save all long bristles, keeping the butts as much as possible one way. Farmers are urged to combine in gathering in order to make large quantities for delivery and sale. One brush manufacturer states that some years ago he purchased in Pennsylvania what were known as "country bristles" and they were very satisfactory.

Many Auto Licenses—State licenses were issued last year by the Highway Department for the operation in Pennsylvania of 363,981 motor driven vehicles of the pneumatic tire type and 31,165 of the solid tire type. The total receipts for the year amounted to $4,048,183.50.

New Rates Filed—The Public Service Commission was today notified of a new schedule of rates to be put into effect in Port Allegheny, McClean county, January 15 by the Commercial Union Telephone Company. The Edgeworth Water Company, operating in Edgeworth and Leetsdale, and the township of Lett, has filed notification of an increase of rates February 1.

Former Army Camouflage Artist to Remain Here

Sergeant Carrol V. Davish is a busy man these days. He has just returned from a period of training at Columbus barracks, Ohio, and is kept busy greeting the many friends who formed during his recent stay in Harrisburg. Davish made himself widely known here last winter and during the summer, as the official camouflage artist of the Harrisburg recruiting station, at 225 Market street. He turned out numerous signs, and cartoons during that time, and attracted wide attention with his patriotic appeals to the youth of the city to join the army. He drew his cartoons for newspapers, theaters, and stores, and was throughout the length and breadth of the twenty-two counties which comprised the Harrisburg recruiting district. Sergeant Davish has announced that he will open headquarters in a basement at 327 Market street and conduct a sign painting and decorating business. Before his enlistment into the army as an artist, he is in the same business in Lancaster, but his stay in Harrisburg as a recruiting officer decided him to remain here when he got his discharge.

The Enormous Crowds--

Were a revelation to all of us. The store was packed to its utmost---every salesman and saleslady doing double duty---vestibule, sidewalk and street crowded with anxious shoppers was the situation we met on the first three days of this great sale.

The Crowds Were as Good Natured As the Bargains Are Real

Those of you who were compelled to wait outside for hours were amply repaid after getting into the store.

While we regret any inconvenience caused when we were compelled to close our doors, we were powerless to do otherwise, as the entire store was PACKED and JAMMED ALL DAY.

Our stocks are so vast that the assortments are almost as good as on the opening day of the sale.

We wish we had time and space enough to enumerate the prices to give you an idea of the GREAT REDUCTIONS. To do this would require an entire newspaper and a supplement. The reductions will astonish you, but you can better realize their importance by studying the list of standard goods below, all of which are included.
