

ENGINEER SEES NO SIGNAL SET TO STOP DEATH

Saw No Warning Light Until Within Few Car Lengths of Coach, He Says

Batavia, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Officials of the New York Central Railway today were continuing their investigation to place the blame for the wreck at South Byron yesterday at which twenty-one persons were killed.

Thirteen bodies remained unidentified at Batavia yesterday. Undertakers this morning, John Friedley, engineer of the Southwestern Limited, which crashed into the rear sleepers of the Wolverine Limited, maintains that no block signal was set against his train and that he saw no warning light until he was within a few car lengths of the Wolverine, which had stopped to take on an extra engine for a steep grade. In this statement he is supported by his fireman.

J. R. Dinan, superintendent of the western division, said: "The flagman claims that he went about twenty-five car lengths to the rear of his train to signal the second train. Torpedoes also were put on the track. The statement of engineer Friedley differs materially from that of the flagman. He admits, however, that the signals were set at danger when he went to look at them after the accident."

Superintendent Everitt, of Syracuse, said Engineer Friedley was "one of our most reliable employees." The night was clear, Mr. Everitt added, and the engineer should have been able to see for a mile.

Engineer in Similar Wreck It is recalled to-day that Engineer Friedley was in a similar wreck twenty years ago. His train on that occasion plowed into another at Bergen, the next station on the Central east of Byron, and several persons were killed.

The list of identified dead this morning was: Franklin E. Leonard, Bear Lake, Mich.; S. D. Harvey, address unknown; Ballard Jones, New York city; Captain J. Staud-Jimenez, New York city, (identification doubtful); Thomas F. Cummins, New York city.

George F. Bigby, New York city; Patrick Dougherty, New York city; Mrs. Jennie Levine, New York city.

But Three Escape From Car The three persons seriously injured in the wreck are in Batavia Hospital. Physicians hold out little hope for the recovery of Miss Flora Dougherty of Flint, Mich., but Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lichterman, of New York city, will recover it was said. These three were the only ones to escape alive from the last sleeping car on the Wolverine, crushed under the second coach which had buckled under the tremendous impact.

One of the remarkable features of the wreck was the fact that none of the passengers in this second coach from the end of the Wolverine was injured. The roof of the car was lifted high in the air by the force of the collision and then it dropped through the roof of the ill-fated last car, but all of the passengers escaped except for bruises and shock.

An army nurse whose name was not learned culmed the people in this car and they made their way to the ground by ladders.

The woman first listed as Miss Flora Doherty, of Flint, Mich., died at the Batavia Hospital at noon today, making the twenty-second death. Her identification is not positive and there is reason to believe she is Mrs. Flora Dougherty, wife of Patrick Dougherty, of New York, who was killed.

SMALL FIRE AT CAMP "Y" The heating system in the Y. M. C. A. building at the Aviation Depot at Middletown was put out of service last evening when fire broke out in the boiler room of the hut. The flames were extinguished by soldiers at the depot and only slight damage resulted because of their efficiency in fighting the blaze.

BOYS CONFESS TO THE THEFT OF 19 AUTOMOBILES

Used Machines to Ride Between This City and Lebanon

The four boys arrested Saturday night on the charge of conducting automobile robberies on a wholesale scale during the past few months, were arraigned before Mayor Keister to-day, and held for juvenile court. The boys, three of whom are 15 years old, while the fourth is 16, confessed to stealing twenty-one automobiles to go "joy-riding," to Lebanon.

They are Arthur Blough, aged 15, 1836 State street; Clyde Kaufman, aged 16, 1919 Briggs street; Marlin Longenecker, aged 15, 1844 State street, and Erb Runkle, aged 15, 1924 State street.

The Blough and Kaufman boys were arrested at Lebanon Saturday night, where they went in two automobiles stolen from this city, and were brought back to Harrisburg by Detective Shuler. At police headquarters they implicated Longenecker and Runkle, who were placed under arrest and ordered to appear for a hearing to-day.

The motor cars stolen Saturday night were those of Frank B. Musser, 222 South Thirteenth street, and M. L. Mumma, 1730 Market street. The boys confessed they had been making a regular practice of stealing automobiles and after spending the evening "joy-riding," abandoning them on the road near Harrisburg. The motor cars of Bernard Schmidt, John C. Orr and William C. Alexander, were among those stolen. It is estimated the boys' activities cost the automobile owners and police in all $1,000 before they were rounded up.

WORLD PEACE BOARD GETS DOWN TO WORK

after came Robert Lansing, the American Secretary of State, accompanied by his military aids, who was followed by Mr. Frazier, counselor of the American embassy, now attached to the person of Colonel House.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and was greeted with cries of "Vive Wilson." With the President and his wife was Admiral Grayson, the President's physician.

As he alighted, President Wilson lifted his hat to Mrs. Wilson, who drove away with Admiral Grayson. The President wore a dark suit and overcoat and a silk hat, and carried a large leather portfolio.

As Mr. Wilson entered the vestibule of the foreign office Stephen Pichon, the French Foreign Minister, greeted him and escorted him into his private office, where the conference was held.

Clemenceau in Serious Mood M. Clemenceau, the French Prime Minister, followed. He was alone and bore a serious mien. Signor Orlando, Italian Premier, came soon afterward, accompanied by Signor Sonnino, his foreign minister.

The last to arrive were David Lloyd George, British Prime Minister, and Arthur J. Balfour, British Foreign Secretary, who motored up the French front line, carrying a large dispatch case.

Others who arrived were M. Leygues, French Minister of Commerce, and M. Loucheur, Minister of Industrial Reconstruction. The conference opened at 3 o'clock. The meeting was mainly for the purpose of setting new terms for prolonging the armistice, which expires January 17, and for determining the number and composition of the delegations of the various countries for the session, which will be a congress which is about to open. As a result of the council it is expected that formal notices will be issued convoking the conference, assigning delegations for each country and fixing of the hours of meeting. Yesterday's council ushered in the long awaited meeting of the peace delegates.

The Wilsons Go to Church President Wilson, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret Wilson yesterday attended services in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in the Avenue George V. The Rev. Charles H. Brent, former bishop of the Philippine Islands, officiated. A large crowd outside the church cheered President Wilson as he was leaving the edifice.

President Wilson went to the headquarters of the American mission at 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and remained in conference with the American peace delegates for nearly two hours. President Wilson also had a conference on Saturday with H. P. Davison, of the American Red Cross, to discuss a plan for the internationalization of the Red Cross. Numerous questions relating to the proposal to put the organization under one head for reasons of efficiency were discussed.

Premier Orlando, of Italy, left for Rome yesterday. He will return Thursday or Friday.

Ready to Help Poland America has informed the allied governments that it is ready to send an American expeditionary corps to Poland. This force, the newspaper dailies would be able to at least double the support given by two Polish divisions to be sent from the western front and enable the Poles to victoriously resist the Bolsheviks.

The newspaper says it is "indispensable that the two Polish divisions now in France should be sent to Poland and be supported by a certain number of allied detachments which would be able to occupy the railroad from Danzig to Thorn, thus maintaining communications with the west."

To Link Africa and Arabia In outlining some of the chief territorial problems before the peace conference the Matin says that Great Britain, in addition to her colonial claims, will seek to link up her African colonies with India by a protectorate over consenting Arab states.

After the principle of the League of Nations had been discussed, according to the Echo de Paris, the future internationalization of the Rhine will be taken up.

Wilson Selects Experts President Wilson has selected five men connected with the American mission recognized experts in international law, to draw up a tentative plan for a league of nations which he would compare with his own idea. Out of the whole, it was hoped to frame some concrete proposition representing the best ideas of the American delegation. These men have not finished their work.

Bryan Plan Figures in Peace When the present peace congress gets under way, it probably will be found that much of the structure of the second Hague conference will be utilized, and that with this will be coupled the plan of William J. Bryan calling for a year's investigation of disputes before a declaration of war. This latter feature is one of the definite things that Mr. Wilson is understood to have in mind. American international lawyers are convinced that the great battle of wits will come in the discussion of whatever machinery is proposed to lessen the probability of war. Not all of them believe the result of this peace congress will make war impossible, but they do believe that China will not be represented by Japan, but will have her own delegation.

Efforts of the French press to bring to the fore the question of the status of Entente and American troops in Russia and the advisability of sending such troops into Poland to check the Bolshevik advance, it is understood, have been without success so far. The United States, it is said, will not consent to accept in principle or as a military policy the task of using American forces in Poland at all or in Russia in larger numbers than already are employed.

Geneva, Jan. 13.—The necessity that Germany and Austria, for their own sakes, maintain order while the peace conference is in session, is emphasized by Gustave Ador, president of the Swiss Federation, in an interview at the Neues Tagblatt, of Vienna.

One very important point for the Allies, Mr. Ador said, is the order and tranquility reign in both Germany and Austria; also that the revolution be over, as revolutionary tendencies are grave obstacles to negotiations. Only a stable, solid government could exercise a favorable influence with the Allies concerning the fate of Germany and Austria.

President Ador recalled that in 1871 Germany refused to negotiate until a regularly constituted national assembly met at Bordeaux.

President Wilson and his commissioners are working on the theory that Great Britain, France, Italy and the rest of the world want some new machinery which will prevent war.

The business of the negotiations which begin to-day is to find a common ground upon which all can agree for such a purpose. Upon the further part of the States is said to be unconcerned, further, that to expect that covenants shall be fulfilled and that details of the work shall be in agreement with the principles already announced.

Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "rupture." Why? Because a rupture is a disease which is not detected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction, paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment. But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD, when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply, inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture can't come down. Write your name to-day to PLAPAO CO., Block 672, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.
