Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs.

This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—hore than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hourse and tight or may be persist-

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

looks out particularly to looks out particulary to look out the paying for help before entering battle, but he says he has taken more practical measures. He never goes up when he does not feel exactly fit, he never attempts anything he thinks the chances do not greatly favor and he has supreme confidence in his eye and his engines. He always flies at terrific speed, is on the other plane before it has had time to prepare for him, delivers his shot and gets out of the way as fast as he can. And he seldom misses. Nor has any bullet from a German yet penetrated his body or one of his planes.

"How can you distinguish an American or British plane from a German if you meet it at night?" he was asked.

"The form nearly always is easy to distinguish," said he, "buf I never let any of them get too near me." Wears the Most Remarkable Medals Fonck has been a particular objective of the Germans ever since his fame began to spread, but he has never worried about dyins on that account, because he knew he was more cautious than any one else One night he disposed of six German machines in fourteen minutes. When he came down he was a little sleepless for a while, he said.

The young aviator is determined not to be a subject for gossip. If any ill fortune should befall him he does not want it said that he had been going the pace. Women, especially, he avoids and he walks grimly through hotel and theater lobbies looking at neither side. As he wears the most remarkable medals in Europe it is rather difficult for him to avoid the attentions of the ladies, but he does it nevertheless. The night that I was with him there shone on his breast the Grand Cross of the Legion, the Medal Militaire and fifteen silver palms under a golden seagull, testifying to seventy-free of the aviation corps—a tribute to skill and valor hat any Frenchman would set his life against.—Loulsville Courier-Journal.
