

Steelton Negroes Are Convicted of Robbery; All Are Sent to Prison

Arrested by Steelton police on charges of robbing one man and attempting to hold up another, four colored men and woman were convicted at the closing session of criminal court late Saturday afternoon, despite their efforts to prove alibis. They were: Henry Hammel, 25; Della Hopkins, 23, who first told the police she was Hammel's wife; Edward Shields, 21, and Irene Rose, 24, who first said she was Shields' wife. President Judge George Kunkel, when the four were called for sentence, declared that robberies and pickpocket work must stop in Dauphin county. Hammel and Shields each were given not less than five nor more than seven years, and the two women were given from two to three years. They were living at 817 South Third street, Steelton, the borough police testified, and when the house was searched two loaded revolvers were found in the kitchen. The witness who found these brought them into court loaded just as when he first picked them up. Attorneys and jury members appeared much relieved when they obeyed orders from the court to take the cartridges from both magazines. The four were charged with robbing John Buonic of $25 and a gold watch at Second and Hoffer streets on the night of December 2. Buonic said the two men grabbed him and, pointing revolvers at him, ordered him to stop, then rifled his pockets. The two women were near the men at the time. Buonic said he was next night Hamel; attempted to rob George Hill, colored, the latter testified. Hammel pointed a revolver at him, but he jumped away and the witness from the woman when it was fired went past his ear. Shields was coming toward him when Hammel fired, Hill said, but he escaped. The defendants on the witness stand admitted they were not married. Hammel said he had a wife and a 5-year-old child living in Richmond. District Attorney Michael E. Stroup showed him a letter from her and he seemed surprised when it was handed to him to read. Irene Rose, who first said she was the wife of Shields, told the court on the witness stand her legal husband is in France.

A man should never do the work that a machine can do for him. During the war thousands of merchants learned the value of using labor-saving cash registers. Other thousands have yet to find out that it pays to do things quickly by machinery instead of slowly by hand.

While merchants were learning this great lesson of the war we were just as busy investigating, with the result that we have gathered together many new ideas that will help merchants make more money. We want all merchants to know and benefit from these new ideas. For this reason we recently called our Eastern Sales Force together in a big convention in New York City.

Over 250 of our agents and salesmen got together. They had a fine educational program. They discussed new store methods, and exchanged the new ideas we have been so busy gathering during the past year. These ideas can be of great profit to you, and you owe it to your business to call on our representatives as soon as they get back home.

Our agents and salesmen are better informed, and therefore can be of greater service to you than ever before. So get in touch with them as soon as you can, and let them tell you what they have learned. Do it now. The National Cash Register Company Dayton, Ohio Offices in all the principal cities of the world
