"When a Girl Marries"

By ANN LISLE
A New, Romantic Serial Dealing with the Absorbing Problems of a Girl Wife

Chapter CX
You were out to dinner with Anthony Norreys!
Jim's voice choked and spluttered in his throat, and with sudden rage he drew away from my arm and hurled himself to his feet.

COMMITTEES TO PLAN CHAMBER'S WORK FOR YEAR

Will Hold Informal Reception For State Officials Tuesday

The wide scope of the work to be accomplished by the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce during the year was evidenced this morning with the announcement of the meetings of five committees, which will outline their programs the first part of next week.

The informal reception to Governor Sproul, Lieutenant Governor Beideman, state officials and legislators, will be held in the Pennsylvania Hotel, Friday evening, February 18, it was also announced. The function will take the form of a friendly get-together, at which time the businessmen's organization will welcome the visiting dignitaries and state officials to the city. The function will be very informal, and a spirit of good fellowship will prevail.

The committees on conventions, and publicity will hold a joint meeting Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the Chamber offices. As the result of the co-operation of these committees, it is expected that many conventions will be brought to the city this year. They will work together to bring notable gatherings here, advertising the exceptional facilities of Harrisburg.

Tuesday evening the committee on public affairs will hold its second meeting in the Chamber offices. David E. Tracy is chairman. Plans already tentatively outlined for the year will be gone over and put in working order.

The historical committee will meet Wednesday evening in the Chamber offices. E. M. Noyes, chairman, has outlined a definite plan for the year's work, which he will submit to the members of the committee. Among the things to be undertaken by the committee is the compilation of a history of Harrisburg's participation in the war.

A full attendance is expected at all these meetings, the chairman announced.

Smith, Philadelphia, Acquitted of Charge in Fifth Ward Case

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—Thomas B. Smith, Mayor of Philadelphia, the last of the principal figures to be tried in the fifth ward political row which resulted in the killing of a policeman at the primary election in September, 1917, was last night acquitted by a jury of the charges of misdemeanor in office and conspiracy to violate an election law which prohibits city officeholders from taking an active part in politics.

The Mayor was on trial nine days and the jury was out less than two hours in considering its verdict. Surrounded by friends and members of his cabinet, the Mayor shook hands with the jurors and wanted to address them, but the court said it was not necessary.

Troop 8 Boy Scouts Trims Crescent A. C.

The basketball team representing Troop No. 8, Boy Scouts, took on the Crescent A. C. last evening and trounced them to the tune of 31 to 13, on the Shimmell gym floor. The team work and passing of Troop No. 8 was a big improvement over their last game and the prospects now for a successful season are much better. Tuesday evening Troop No. 8 will play Troop No. 1, of Middletown, on the Shimmell floor and a large attendance of basketball fans no doubt will attend this game.

Burchfield, after being absent on account of sickness for the last two games, got back into harness and led the team in scoring, tallying 17 points. Unger's floor work was very interesting, seemingly he was all over the floor, scoring 11 points for his team. Nisley and McCleaster starred for the Crescent A. C.

Dr. J. G. Becht to Address Rotary Club

Dr. J. George Becht, of the State Department of Education, recently returned from France, will speak before the Rotary Club at its noon luncheon on Monday, Enl N. Hershey, its president, announced today. Walter Shaffer, Dauphin aviator, who served during the war with the French Flying Corps has been invited to address the members.

Troops Arrive in Glasgow to Keep Strikers Orderly

Glasgow, Feb. 1.—Thousands of troops have arrived here and sentries, with fixed bayonets, are stationed at strategic points about the city. Everything is quiet this morning. Walter Shaffer, Dauphin aviator, who served during the war with the French Flying Corps has been invited to address the members.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD WILL BE TAKEN TO NEW YORK

William Reid, the 15-year-old New York City boy who was arrested here on the charge of stealing almost $1,000 from the Aetna Life Insurance Company office in New York, where he was employed, is being held by the police department until the New York authorities can secure the extradition papers. Word was received from New York this morning that the papers are being secured.

A. building, Second and Locust streets, will be staged to-night when men from the Central Iron and Steel Company plant will be entertained. A special program has been prepared. Ashton D. Peace will be in charge.

With Choir and Organist

One of the most striking of the Shelley's anthems is his "Saviour, When Night Involves the Skies." This number begins with a most effective solo for baritone, followed by trio, quartet and chorus parts. A sudden change of key is unusually dramatic toward the close of the first stanza of the anthem and again at the ending of the composition, a rare combination that loses none of its fervor in its musical investiture. The anthem is to be sung at Pine Street Presbyterian Church to-morrow evening, when Elmer Hobbs Ley, baritone, will sing the solo.

Another Shelley number that has found much favor with Harrisburg is "Christian, the Morn Breaks Sweetly O'er Thee." The splendid choir of Salem Reformed Church will sing this anthem at the morning service. In the evening the Lieberich arrangement of "Nearer My God to Thee," which is one of the best-liked numbers sung by this choir, will be rendered. Charles Casel, basso, sang in this particular selection many times while a member of Salem choir and it is, therefore, well remembered. There is a most melodious bass solo (written originally for contralto voice) in the composition.

Men and women who had occasion to pass St. Patrick's Cathedral, in State street, last Sunday afternoon, will remember the player at the keys of the big Austin organ. The strains of Dubois' "In Paradisum," Widor's "Toccata," from his fifth symphony, Guilmant's "Pastorale," parts of "Largo," from Dvorak's "New World Symphony" and many other famous works could be heard as some of the more venturesome passed through the doors of the beautiful place of worship and lingered as the organist, Prof. Joseph D. Brodeur, the now organist and choir-master of the cathedral, passed from one number to another. Many who thought to tarry but a little while found themselves delightfully inspired for the more than an hour Mr. Brodeur's rehearsal continued.

The organ recitals which precede the Sunday afternoon meetings in Fahnstok Hall every Sunday afternoon are meeting with favor by men of the city. To-morrow afternoon William E. Bretz, organist of Zion Lutheran Church, will play. A feature of the meeting will be the singing of the Zion Lutheran quartet under the direction of Mrs. E. J. Decevee. The same quartet will sing at the big Lutheran mass meeting in the Chestnut street auditorium to-morrow night.

"I never knew we had the good organists we have in Harrisburg theaters," remarked a music lover who chanced to hear the organ in a local theater several days ago. Professor McBride at the Victoria, for instance, is a very able player, and Miss Marion M. Merchant and Besse W. Corke at the Regent theater play with skill and taste. Harold Booth, at the Colonial theater, has received much praise for his excellent work. Mrs. Merchant at the Regent now is planning a special program for the massive production, "Sporting Life" to be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Railroading Under Fire Has Its Difficulties

Private Maurice E. Flurie, Company E, Fourteenth Engineers, writing from the St. Michel Sector to his cousin, Mrs. Sam Freedman, 306 North Second street, tells that on the day the armistice was signed, he was a fireman on an engine that was hauling a train loaded with wounded soldiers back from the front lines.

In part he says: "Railroading over here was quite different from railroading at home. Old Jerry would shell our road all the time and would blow our track almost as fast as our section men could fix it, but that never stopped us. We went on with our work just the same, for we knew our boys in the lines needed food and ammunition. We kept them well supplied at all times, but we found some difficulties for our boys were advancing so fast."

Advertising Club Will Bring Big Speaker Here

A speaker of national prominence in advertising will be secured to speak at the next meeting of the Advertising Club of Harrisburg, to be held in the Penn-Harris Hotel February 22, it was decided at the meeting last night. A discussion on the subject of advertising which developed at last night's meeting showed conclusively that the club will be an active agency in the city as well as a source of benefit to the members.
