

ALMOST 40,000 INSPECTIONS

Extensive Work by the State Department of Labor Last Year

Inspectors of the Department of Labor and Industry made 39,134 detailed inspections during the year 1918 for the elimination of dangerous conditions in factories and mills...

Acting Commissioner Walter Mc-Nicola, in announcing to-day those figures from the annual report of John H. Walker, acting chief clerk of the Bureau of Inspection of the Department of Labor and Industry, said that all accident reports received at the Bureau of Statistics and Information are sent to the Bureau of Inspection where they are classified and placed in the hands of local inspectors where the accidents occurred.
