

RADICALS GET WRIT TO PREVENT DEPORTATIONS

Woman Heads Group Which Obtained the Papers

New York, Feb. 13. — Writs of habeas corpus, sought by a group of radicals in an effort to prevent deportation of forty-nine of the fifty-four aliens brought to Ellis Island from the west, were issued here last night by Federal Judge Knox. The writs are returnable to-day.

meeting yesterday which was attended by Scott Nearing, John Reed, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, and the Rev. Norman Thomas and Seymour Steadman, counsel for Nearing at his trial on charges of obstructing the selective service act.

German Armistice Conference Postponed

London, Feb. 13.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says the German armistice commission has been informed that the armistice conference has been postponed indefinitely.

BOARD TO VOTE ON ABANDONMENT OF TEACHERS CLASS

Girls Desiring Training May Be Given Special Course of One Year

Action on the recommendation of Dr. F. E. Downes, city school superintendent, to abandon the teachers' training school after this year, will be taken probably at the next meeting of the board of directors.

MAGNELLI CHARGES ARE CLOSELY GUARDED

Bihl and Robert Stucker, Magnelli and Schmehl.

Reed Objects

Solicitor Fox also read sections of the Clark act which prohibit officers from accepting, demanding, or receiving any money as a reward for their services other than the salary provided by Council.

Police Raid Chicago Headquarters of I. W. W.

Chicago, Feb. 13. — The police yesterday raided the once busy general headquarters of the I. W. W. and arrested twenty-nine idlers who were "not working."

McAndrews Says His Speech Was Misconstrued

Washington, Feb. 13.—Colonel J. R. McAndrews, of the army general staff, said last night that his statement in New York Monday regarding demobilization of the soldiers in service in the United States had been erroneously construed to mean that there would be no further discharge for several months of such soldiers.

POSILAM REAL TREAT FOR SKIN THAT ITCHES

Only those who have itched and scratched and still itched continually mean that the aggravation it means when the aggravation itched by the soothing, penetrating, antiseptic influence of Posilam, and what relief to be rid of any eruptions of the skin which has entailed prolonged embarrassment!

DARTING, PIERCING SCIATIC PAINS

Give way before the penetrating effects of Sloan's Lini-ment

GOVERNOR LAUDS PARTY'S POLICY

Expresses Hope For Return of National Republican Administration Next Year

Williamsport, Feb. 13. — The twenty-seventh annual banquet of the Young Men's Republican Club of Williamsport last night was a notable event on account of the presence of Governor William C. Sproul, who responded to the toast "The Republican Party."

GOVERNOR HAS CAPITOL PLANS

Continued from First Page.

tion of approaches to the Memorial Bridge. The park terrace and coping will be built when the city does it work in Third and Walnut streets.

Meanwhile Arnold W. Brunner is making studies for the first of the two office buildings, which is to be located on a line with the east wing, virtually on the line of the old South alley thoroughfare, and outlining the proposed formal entrance to the park at Third and State streets.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

August Scheihas, 438 South Fifteenth street, another employe at the bakery corroborated Banks' Chief Messrs. Mayor Keister and Chief Wetzel were called to tell about the hearing at the Mayor's office when the charges were brought against the two officers.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

STATE METHOD IS NOW EXPLAINED

Officer of State Board of Public Charities Discusses Free Service System

The method of estimating the amount of free treatment given by hospitals to patients, upon which the state appropriation to the hospitals is based by the present Legislature, was explained yesterday by S. E. Gill, assistant general agent of the State Board of Charities, located in Pittsburgh. There has been some misapprehension of the matter by hospital authorities and others.

GOVERNOR HAS CAPITOL PLANS

Continued from First Page.

tion of approaches to the Memorial Bridge. The park terrace and coping will be built when the city does it work in Third and Walnut streets.

Meanwhile Arnold W. Brunner is making studies for the first of the two office buildings, which is to be located on a line with the east wing, virtually on the line of the old South alley thoroughfare, and outlining the proposed formal entrance to the park at Third and State streets.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

August Scheihas, 438 South Fifteenth street, another employe at the bakery corroborated Banks' Chief Messrs. Mayor Keister and Chief Wetzel were called to tell about the hearing at the Mayor's office when the charges were brought against the two officers.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

BOARD TO VOTE ON ABANDONMENT OF TEACHERS CLASS

Girls Desiring Training May Be Given Special Course of One Year

Action on the recommendation of Dr. F. E. Downes, city school superintendent, to abandon the teachers' training school after this year, will be taken probably at the next meeting of the board of directors.

MAGNELLI CHARGES ARE CLOSELY GUARDED

Bihl and Robert Stucker, Magnelli and Schmehl.

Reed Objects

Solicitor Fox also read sections of the Clark act which prohibit officers from accepting, demanding, or receiving any money as a reward for their services other than the salary provided by Council.

Police Raid Chicago Headquarters of I. W. W.

Chicago, Feb. 13. — The police yesterday raided the once busy general headquarters of the I. W. W. and arrested twenty-nine idlers who were "not working."

McAndrews Says His Speech Was Misconstrued

Washington, Feb. 13.—Colonel J. R. McAndrews, of the army general staff, said last night that his statement in New York Monday regarding demobilization of the soldiers in service in the United States had been erroneously construed to mean that there would be no further discharge for several months of such soldiers.

POSILAM REAL TREAT FOR SKIN THAT ITCHES

Only those who have itched and scratched and still itched continually mean that the aggravation it means when the aggravation itched by the soothing, penetrating, antiseptic influence of Posilam, and what relief to be rid of any eruptions of the skin which has entailed prolonged embarrassment!

DARTING, PIERCING SCIATIC PAINS

Give way before the penetrating effects of Sloan's Lini-ment

GOVERNOR LAUDS PARTY'S POLICY

Expresses Hope For Return of National Republican Administration Next Year

Williamsport, Feb. 13. — The twenty-seventh annual banquet of the Young Men's Republican Club of Williamsport last night was a notable event on account of the presence of Governor William C. Sproul, who responded to the toast "The Republican Party."

GOVERNOR HAS CAPITOL PLANS

Continued from First Page.

tion of approaches to the Memorial Bridge. The park terrace and coping will be built when the city does it work in Third and Walnut streets.

Meanwhile Arnold W. Brunner is making studies for the first of the two office buildings, which is to be located on a line with the east wing, virtually on the line of the old South alley thoroughfare, and outlining the proposed formal entrance to the park at Third and State streets.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

August Scheihas, 438 South Fifteenth street, another employe at the bakery corroborated Banks' Chief Messrs. Mayor Keister and Chief Wetzel were called to tell about the hearing at the Mayor's office when the charges were brought against the two officers.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

STATE METHOD IS NOW EXPLAINED

Officer of State Board of Public Charities Discusses Free Service System

The method of estimating the amount of free treatment given by hospitals to patients, upon which the state appropriation to the hospitals is based by the present Legislature, was explained yesterday by S. E. Gill, assistant general agent of the State Board of Charities, located in Pittsburgh. There has been some misapprehension of the matter by hospital authorities and others.

GOVERNOR HAS CAPITOL PLANS

Continued from First Page.

tion of approaches to the Memorial Bridge. The park terrace and coping will be built when the city does it work in Third and Walnut streets.

Meanwhile Arnold W. Brunner is making studies for the first of the two office buildings, which is to be located on a line with the east wing, virtually on the line of the old South alley thoroughfare, and outlining the proposed formal entrance to the park at Third and State streets.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

August Scheihas, 438 South Fifteenth street, another employe at the bakery corroborated Banks' Chief Messrs. Mayor Keister and Chief Wetzel were called to tell about the hearing at the Mayor's office when the charges were brought against the two officers.

Patrolman John F. Hicks was the last witness called for the city. He said that one night last summer his wife called him and when he looked out the window from his bedroom, he saw two officers riding up the street on a horse. He said he couldn't tell whether they were city or state police.

Magnelli and Schmehl denied they had been riding around on the two horses, that they made any demand of money from Moyer and that they made any statements to Banks and Scheihas about using horses. Both admitted accepting the money, but said they refused it a number of times, and finally took it to buy cigars and coffee as Moyer suggested.

He admitted that they said it would cost several dollars for cleaning Schmehl's suit. Schmehl said he found only one horse, told Magnelli about it, and the two returned it.

Mr. Stucker addressed council and declared he did not think either of the men had violated the Clark act. He said that if they had accepted the money and used it to have clothes cleaned they had committed no offense as the city would not pay the expense for this work, and the officers could not be expected to do so.

Magnelli had testified that he reported the next morning to Lieutenant Page that he had accepted the money and nothing was done about it. Mr. Stucker also called this to the attention of the commissioners. Lieutenant Page is ill and could not be present at the hearing.

Mr. Moyer, owner of the horse which was returned, who gave the officers the money, said in part: "When the officers came into the house Magnelli remarked that it would cost Schmehl $5 to get his suit cleaned, and I said 'I guess it will.' After the second horse came up to the house and was tied it away he went in again and they hinted again about leaving their clothes. I gave them each thirty-five cents to get rid of them. Testimony had the amount fixed at thirty cents."

He also said he could not understand why there was a halter on the horse the patrolman returned, when he had tied the animal in the stable with a rope the night before.

Mr. Banks was recalled to tell about the remarks of Schmehl and Magnelli, made early on the morning the horse was returned, after they left the Moyer house at Twentieth and Brookwood streets.

"Schmehl and 'Mag' came into the bakery," Banks began, "and Schmehl said, 'What do you think of this cheap?' He only gave us thirty cents and 'Mag' gave him the hint, he wouldn't give any more." Magnelli said Schmehl ought to have been riding a cow, he fell off the horse he was riding. They both said they had two horses and were riding from box to box ringing in."

February Furniture Sales

Usually mean considerable saving when outfitting your home, but our February Furniture Sale this year has outclassed any previous sale we have ever held both in volume of sales and in the quality and low prices maintained.

9-piece Jacobean Dining Suite, William and Mary design—Includes genuine leather seat chairs, 60-inch buffet. February Sale Price $175.00

3-piece Cane Suite, mahogany frames, blue damask upholstery. February Sale Price $150.00

4-piece walnut and Mahogany Suite, with panel Bed (no posts). February Sale Price, (single or as a suite) $120.00

3-piece Mahogany Frame Living Room Suite, upholstered in genuine blue or brown Spanish leather or tapestry. $150.00 value. February Sale Price $95.00

The C. F. Hoover Furniture Co. 1417 N. Third St. Between Calder and Reily Sts.

20,000 SATISFIED PATIENTS

I find in going over my record that I have fitted over two thousand patients since I established an office in Harrisburg 20 years ago.

R. D. Pratt, Eyesight Specialist, 26 NORTH THIRD STREET

Dives Pomeroy & Stewart

$2.00 Roman Stripe Couch Covers: $1.75

Wash Boilers: Special Tin boilers with metallic bottom and wood handles.

Table Damask In the Friday Sale 75c mercerized table damask. Special Friday only, yard, 59c

Bed Spreads Crochet bed spreads in double bed size; with slight mill imperfections. Perfect spreads of the same quality are $3.50. Special Friday only $2.49

Women's Slippers and Common Sense Shoes, $1.00 $2.50 black kidskin shoes, in button and lace style, with turn or stitched soles; sizes 2 1/2, 3 and 3 1/2. Special Friday only, $1.50

Boys' Shoes Reduced $2.50 tan calf and gun metal button shoes, full toe lasts, heavy stitched soles. Special Friday only $1.95

Men's $3.50 Shoes