SLUMS IN CITY NOT IN NEW CODE

[Continued from First Page.] Bills in Legislation "We have a bill for zoning law for second class cities which has been introduced by the Pittsburgh representative of the Pennsylvania Housing and Town-Planning Association. This bill will give authority to district cities and regulate dwellings. Cities of the first class now have this provision. Philadelphia's has been in active operation and their report is now nearly ready. Much interest and attention will be focused on their findings and regulations covering height, volume and area. The second bill is on homestead exemption. The purpose of the commission will be to study and gather data for the purpose of preparing a report to help to decide whether or not a city should provide means to build small houses with sufficient land on which to raise vegetables. The great affect of the home gardens on the conservation of food while fighting the Hun has shown clearly the advantage of a self-supporting home. "The third bill," continued Mr. Farquhar, "is most important and will prevent the duplication of present slum areas in future years as the development of the city has caused in the past. Provisions of the bill covers cities, boroughs and first class townships only. Requiring minimum light, ventilation, sanitation, privacy and safety from fire." As to the effect this will have on existing buildings, John Elmer, secretary of the Philadelphia Housing Association, states that while it will raise the standards of existing buildings, only practical improvements are sought. Better standards are provided for dwellings to be hereafter erected. J. Horace McFarland, a member of the United States Commission on

HEIR TO MILLION ON MISSING LIST

[Continued from First Page.] he, as well as several other claimants, will put in their claims for the Tolman millions amassed by running sixty-two loan brokerage offices throughout the country. Out in Germantown, living in two back rooms is another of the claimants, Mrs. Mabel Vera Tolman Vincelle, wife of a worker at the Midvale Steel Company, who says she is the daughter of the millionaire loan broker, who died in February, 1918, and left his fortune intact. Mrs. Vincelle may be the "Aunt Mabel" whom the sailor claimant mentioned in correspondence with local lawyers. The sailor says he read in some newspaper a short time ago of the Tolman millions. On inquiry he got in touch with Philip Hermann, a Philadelphia lawyer, with offices in the Lincoln building, who told him to come to the city, where he might establish his claim. But the sailor had no money. He applied to the Red Cross, at Camp Farragut, for some money to come east, telling the Red Cross field director that "he was the guy who's the heir to the Tolman millions." They got in touch with the service division of the local Red Cross. Meanwhile, the sailor had made out a power of attorney to Hermann, the lawyer. The local Red Cross members began making inquiries. Hermann saw what a big job looking after an heir to a $6,500,000 estate was, and he went for success, and assistance, to Attorney Hurlburt, from the firm of the Graham & Gillilan, with offices in the West End Trust Building. The sailor wrote to Attorney Hermann that he was coming to Philadelphia, having received money enough to make the trip. That was last Saturday a week ago. The local Red Cross, however, got busy, and when the Red Cross field director of charge of him and, according to lawyer Hermann, had his power of attorney cancelled. The sailor went to the lawyer's offices in the West End Building accompanied by a Red Cross worker. The matter was fully discussed as to the proper ones to look after the youth's affairs. Hermann said the Red Cross worker promised to bring the sailor in the next day, according to the lawyers, Monday a week ago, but since then the youth hasn't appeared. The last time the Philadelphia lawyers heard concerning his whereabouts was that he had shown up in New York.

Dr. Prugh Speaks at W. C. T. U. Meeting

Dr. Prugh, state chairman of the Prohibition party was the speaker at the meeting of the Harrisburg W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon in the Fourth Street Church of God. The meeting was called to order by the newly elected president, Mrs. E. J. Ronemus, who introduced the speaker. Mrs. G. M. Steinmetz gave a detailed report of the work of the press committee and Mrs. C. E. King, of the social committee. Caps and aprons were completed and will be worn by the women of the Union in the Victory parade which will be held in the near future. Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. De Gray presented plans for the ratification parade, to be carried out when the Pennsylvania Senate ratifies Prohibition amendment. A vigorous protest was voiced by the union against the present movement in the President's inauguration to shelve the good old Sunday laws. A unanimous vote was made to join in the monster petition of American women to the Versailles Peace Conference for the international protection of women; one request being the fixing of standard of "war causality" for those women whose lives are wrecked by the brutal Hun army. Quite a number of new names were proposed for membership.

DEAR FOLKS:

I AM going to write several letters to you—in which I will tell you some things that I know you are interested in. You and I agree, I am sure, that life is very much easier for us if we can keep happy. We all surely understand that our greatest happiness comes when we allow our hearts to lead us—when we do as much for others, if not more, than we do for ourselves. We all know, in our home life, for instance, that happiness flies out of the window if all the members of the family are not harmonious. We all know that quarrels, bickerings, or misunderstandings in our family or social circles do not get us anywhere, so far as the joy of living is concerned. On the other hand, life is very rosy indeed if we are thoughtful and kind to one another in the family circle, and if we are considerate of the feelings of all others with whom we come in personal contact. I have always believed that our business life should be as happy as our home and social life. I have never been able to understand why so many of us change our natures when we go to our offices or stores or shops. Why should we keep out of our daily toil those elements that give us so much pleasure away from our work? He read one of my TALKS which I write daily for the New York Evening Mail and he liked the HEART in it. While he was in New York one day several weeks ago, I was introduced to him and he questioned me a great deal about my views as to the human side of business. He did not laugh at me as others have done in days gone by. He listened very attentively and sympathetically. He told me that he also believed, as sincerely as I do, that life is worth while only if one can so live it as to give the greatest service to the greatest number. The upshot of our meeting was that I was invited to go through his plant in Chicago—to mingle with his workers—and to find out for myself whether the ideals that I have been writing and talking about for so many years existed there; and if I did find that they existed, then he would give me free rein to write what I pleased and to print what I wrote in the daily newspapers of the country. I used to think that business was a thing wholly apart from our family and social environment; but as I grew older I learned differently. In spots here and there I have found men who practiced in their business affairs those nice things of life that won the loyalty and devotion of their associate workers—that made the workers happy and proud—that made the businesses themselves very successful. But I have always had difficulty in persuading big businessmen to go to the public with Heart messages
