FARM LIME NOT UP TO THE LAW

State Report Makes Criticisms Following the Analyses

Results of the 1918 inspection of lime sold in Pennsylvania for agricultural purposes were of such a character as to cause James W. Kellogg, the chief chemist of the department, to declare in a report to the secretary of agriculture that "nearly one half of the samples received contained less calcium oxide than guaranteed, thus indicating need of greater care in labelling and guaranteeing these products in order to comply with the requirements of the law." The deficiencies are reported to have been more numerous in the samples of hydrated lime than in the other classes.

Many shipments, says the report, "from which samples were secured for analysis were found not to be properly labelled." Dealers are urged to take precautions or they will get into trouble with the state inspectors.

The report also sets forth that "There seems to be, from the information secured at the time of selecting samples, no uniformity in the retail selling prices for the various grades of lime products sold in the state." The demand for lime for farming purposes has increased enormously since the outbreak of the war, owing to the cutting off of the supply of German potash.

Storm Moves Eastward, but Minus Its Rigors

Chicago, Feb. 14. — The storm accompanied by snow, wind and rain, which for twenty-four hours has demoralized wire communication and railroad traffic in the territory between the Missouri river and the Rocky Mountains, and from the Canadian border to Oklahoma, to-day was still in progress and moving eastward, though with decreasing severity.

While the snow fall, in most localities, was comparatively light, high winds, especially in Nebraska and Kansas, caused huge drifts which delayed rail traffic. All freight trains were annulled and only a few passenger trains were able to get through the drifts, after hours of delay.

The wet snow and high winds caused unusual difficulties for telegraph and telephone companies. Temperatures were well above zero and at most places above the freezing point.
