Prominent among the speakers was G. S. Heberling, superintendent of the William T. Carter, Jr. Re-public of Reddington. He affirmed that a comprehensive study of the situation would do much to clear away the fog of misunderstanding at present holding back the necessary progress in the state. It will enable the commission to reach conclusions just to every child. He cited Min-nesota, Missouri and other states as having children's commissions. David J. Terry, of the Children's Service Bureau of Pittsburgh, back-ed up Mr. Heberling's suggestion.

the opening address of the mental hygiene session. He gave what he termed "four most excellent reasons why the stata should provide ade-quate care for mental defectives." These are: "First--they are the most helpess of all unfortunates, and are not per-sonally responsible for their con-dition. They cannot care for them-selves and must be cared for by oth-ers: "Second--If not properly cared for to the states have found that it pays to transtate subsidies for special

Americans Oppose Pool The financial drafting commis-sion is dealing with another subject highly important to the business world. This commission will have to meet the insistent demand of some of the European nations for the pooling of all the credits, debts and resources of the nations, a pro-position which seems certain to be strongly resisted by the American representatives. Of scarcely secondary importance in this commission's task of obtain-ing information as to the financial resources, present and prospective of the enemy countries in order that the commission of reparation may
