DADS' BEAT SONS IN Y.M.C.A. GAMES

But Youngsters Are Close Seconds in Funny Contests at the Y. M. C. A. Gym

The first of two Father and Son week social events at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, a social evening, was a great success, and the week's observations will be brought to a close to-night with a dinner at 7 o'clock in Chestnut street hall.

The fun at the "Y" Saturday evening started off with a moving picture show in the assembly room of the boys' department on the second floor, the Pathoscope being used to present a bill that commenced with all manner of magic stunts, included a reel on wild animals being raised for circuses and wound up with a four-reel presentation of Cooper's Leatherstocking tale, "Adventures" teeming with Indians, deerstalker and all manner of thrills.

In the first line up eleven sons lined up against eleven "dads" in a game which Physical Director Miller and Chairman Frank B. Kann called "attention." "Dad" Nissley being captain. The superior discipline of the older men told in this game when they were not so quick on their feet and the "Dads" won out handily by a score of nine to five.

A cracker eating contest afforded much hilarity, each contestant, father and son, being provided with three dry crackers, oh, very dry—and the pair disposing of theirs first and announcing the fact by being able to whistle to be declared the winner. "Dad" and Milton Markley ran away with the race, while "Dad" and John McCullough came in a close second. "Don" and "Nissley" whistled third and the rest were still chewing at the close of the evening.

The newspaper race, from one end of the gym without taking a foot from the paper, was won by "Dad" Poose, Robert Quigley second and W. N. German, Jr., third. Dr. Kann was awarded first honors in the candle lighting contest, presenting a most dignified air as he banded himself on a milk bottle, with matches in one hand and a candle in the other. Another aspirant for honors in this contest was "Dad" Fritz, Democratic candidate for Senator.

The last contest was a shoe race, in which fathers and sons divested themselves of their shoes, which were heaped together at the far end of the gym, the father and son first to get their shoes on, laced and report to the judges to be the winners. A "Dad" won this contest also, with "Son" Wallace first for the boys.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS LEGISLATIVE BOARD MAY GO

Plans for the abolition of the legislative board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, are expected to be taken at a meeting of the organization which will take place within a short time. The Conductors' state legislative board has already been abolished and it is believed that the Trainmen will follow this precedent in accordance with recent circular letter issued by heads of the four big railroad brotherhoods.

State lodges have been well canvassed relative to the question and it is believed that delegates will be ready to act at this meeting, the exact date of which will be announced within several days.

Officials of the brotherhood tell members of the legislative board that they bring before state legislatures any legislation at this time. It is further urged that it is practically useless for them to any longer maintain expensive offices and office forces for this purpose.

At present railroads are not permitted to legislate against organized labor, and this has been the principal contention of these board, it is said.

fflany Engines Are Being Stored at Hollidaysburg

With a hundred or more freight locomotives stored at East Hollidaysburg yard, that section of Pennsylvania property has taken on the pre-war aspect, and other idle engines will likely be interned there until conditions grow more favorable.

The freight haulers at rest include engines of practically every type from little, obsolete six-wheeled engines to the latter-day L-1's. The storing of this kind of power began several weeks ago and the line of furloughed locomotives extends a quarter mile or more, on two and three tracks.

Not since 1915 has so many locomotives been idle and left to stand in the county capital store. The situation this winter is in direct contrast to that of last, when all kinds of motive power was pressed into use, while the Pennsylvania was compelled to borrow engines from other railways.

STEELTON FIRE IN ENHAUT RAGES FOR HOURS

Double Dwelling Burns to the Ground, While Six More Are Damaged

A fire of unknown origin yesterday morning destroyed completely the double frame dwelling owned by Fred Weuschinski, in Enhaut, and damaged six others in addition to badly damaging the school building. The building burned down completely was occupied by the families of Harry Spangler and John Lang.

The fire was first noticed a little after 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The Good Will Fire Company of Enhaut responded immediately to the alarm. The Oberlin Fire Company soon was called to its assistance but the best efforts of both companies failed to check the flames. In less than half an hour the flames had been carried by the winds to nearby buildings, where streams of water were being pumped from buckets. The chemicals of the fire companies were soon exhausted and difficulty was experienced in securing water.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the Steelton fire department was called to aid, and Chief Malehorn responded together with the Citizens, the West Side and the Hygienic companies. The Citizen company soon had chemicals playing upon the flames, while other firemen dammed a section of Booser's Run for a more adequate supply of water. In short time several heavy streams of water were being pumped on the flames and the fire extinguished. All the nearby buildings were saved from destruction, although the roof of the school house was destroyed and the Weuschinski property burned away completely. The damage is estimated at over five thousand dollars. The citizens of Enhaut have expressed their appreciation of the assistance of the Steelton companies.

There Are Two Kinds of Hats

A hat is like an egg -- it's either good or bad. There's no compromise.

In one hat you receive a lot of hat and trimming -- and no taste. The cost is little.

In the other hat you get decidedly less trimming plus the best of taste. You pay more. The first hat is a failure -- the second a success.

A painting by Whistler sold the other day for $200,000. And yet you can buy a painting of the same size in any department store for $4.98.

My hats are not exorbitant. In fact they're very reasonably priced. But remember, you're paying for the skill and taste of the designer -- not for the value of the trimming. For there won't be much trimming. But your friends will exclaim "How chic! -- that Parisian touch! Where did you get it?"
