

PEACE CONGRESS FEELS IMPELLED TO PUSH TREATY

Sentiment in America, England, Australia and Canada Demands Troops' Return

Paris, Feb. 15.—Some of the entente powers are planning, as soon as the Russian problem now before the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference is disposed of and a few more hearings are accorded representatives of small nations, to take up the larger problem of a treaty of peace.

The French government is fully aware of this feeling and expresses its sympathy with the motives that impel it, but there are fears of dangerous complications in the realization of the necessary fruits of victory if there is undue haste in the conclusion of a treaty of peace.

Answering French objections that long time may be consumed in arranging the boundaries of new states carved out of the enemy countries, advocates of immediate peace declare that such readjustments are necessary and proceed after the signature of the peace treaty.

Supreme Council, makes of such territories.

Figuring Peace How Must Pay The same powers hold there should be no delay because of indemnities. It is impossible to ascertain the exact detail of the damage inflicted during the war, and they argue that lump sums should be agreed upon and placed in the peace treaty on the basis of the fairly comprehensive examinations already made by agents of the entente powers.

No feasible plan for settling the Russian question has developed during the two days of hearing given the subject by the Supreme War Council. The effort will be resumed today, but the weight of opinion in the council seems opposed to any plan involving the use of force or an extension of present military activities, even if the Prinkipo conference fails.

from abandoned streets in the Capitol Park zone. Mr. Lynch calls attention to the increasing number of streets going out of guarantee which must be kept in repair now by the city, and said that to continue this work it will be necessary to increase the working force and to increase the amount of materials. Because of the constant use of highways by automobiles Mr. Lynch recommends passage of legislation which will direct the return of part of the state auto license fees to third class cities.

The cost of maintenance work during the year was $1.99 a square yard, cost of sweeping streets and removing snow, 0.89 mile. Heavy snows during the winter of 1918 kept large forces busy and it is estimated that about 60,000 cubic yards of snow were removed. Mention is made of the help given by many residents on Snow Removal Day, February 4, 1918.

Municipal Garage

The purchase of a motor driven apparatus for cleaning inlets, manholes and silt basins is recommended to replace the horse-drawn equipment now in use.

As much public work as possible will be done, Mr. Lynch asserts as the means of giving work to the unemployed. One of the items which will soon be started will be the widening of North Third street.

Improvements which were made last year included resurfacing of last street, east side of Fifth to west side of Cowden; Dock street bridge approach and the concrete bridge across Asylum run in North Cameron street.

ERZBERGER BITTER OVER ALLIED TERMS

(Continued from First Page.) cording to a German wireless dispatch picked up here. Erzberger pointed out, according to the message, that the arrangements made by the Entente called for a beginning of the negotiations on February 12 and that the German delegates were at Spa to commence work.

He said it would be necessary in connection with placing the German commercial fleet at the disposal of the Allies, to reach an agreement regarding the amount and price of foodstuffs to be supplied Germany, and concerning the manner of payment, according to the message. He declared that, as these matters were not settled, it was impossible to give instructions to the commercial fleet for "however anxious the German government is to fulfill its engagements, it is its solemn duty not to place the merchant fleet under foreign control, and the purpose for which such a significant and painful measure was agreed upon had been assured.

Ready to Disarm Although disarmament question was not raised, Mathias Erzberger, one of the German commissioners, volunteered a statement that the German army consisted of only 300,000 men, 40 per cent of whom were of doubtful value. He said that the German army consisted of only 100,000 men, and that it was inadequate to maintain order in the country.

Apart from the conference, Erzberger made a number of declarations, saying particularly that the political future of Germany was fixed by the League of Nations. He asserted that Germany would henceforth be a new country adding that it would be genuinely democratic and would loyally adhere to the League of Nations on the principle of political and economic equality. He said that Germany was ready to agree to disarmament on land and sea and in the air.

Germany Made Mistake Erzberger admitted that Germany made a mistake in 1871 when she did not consult the people of Alsace and Lorraine as to their fate. He asserted that the same mistake would not be made this time in annexing Germans without calling a plebiscite.

FRANCE HONORS WORK OF BISHOP

Louis XIV. and in appreciation of the aid extended by the French. Bishop Entenailles The Frenchmen arrived from Washington about 11 o'clock this morning and were entertained by Bishop and Mrs. Darlington at luncheon at 12 o'clock. A number of friends of the Darlingtons, besides prominent clergy of the city, six officers and six members of the Middle-town, who acted as the escort of honor, and state officials were present at the luncheon.

At 2 o'clock the French visitors were escorted to the Capitol, where Governor Sprout, Lieutenant Governor Beidelman, John S. Spangler, speaker of the House of Representatives, and other state officials met them. The ceremonies started at 2:30 with these state officials participating. Responding to the speeches of the French High Commissioners, Bishop Darlington spoke in part as follows:

"Permit me to acknowledge your much appreciated but overpartial words of praise for such efforts as I have gladly made to aid the United States and her Allies and especially the French Republic in their heroic actions of all wars. I heartily thank the French government through you, its representatives, for bestowing this honor upon me, both a clergyman and a layman. I am deeply honored that the decoration of the Legion of Honor had been awarded me, that it would either be sent by mail or conferred upon me in my own home.

"Messieurs, I appreciate the honor of your selection of the State Capitol as the place, and the presence of the elected and legislative branches of the Commonwealth. It shows that you chose the place because you were aware that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was the home of Lafayette, and that he spent the whole time he spent in America and with the American Army, and that it was in York, a city near by, that he was largely instrumental in winning an insurrection against his beloved commander and friend, General Washington. Ninety-four years ago General Lafayette spent several days in this city, and the prevailing name of Dauphin in honor of the son of the reigning French monarch, Louis XIV. and in appreciation of the aid extended to us by the French.

"Permit me to express my remembrance to-day that my grandnephew, Maria Wiley Darlington, born in 1800 in Pennsylvania and dying in New York City in 1900, was selected by the ladies of the Hudson River Valley to dance the cotillon with General Lafayette on his second visit to this country at a reception given him at Newburgh.

"Having been for many years a member of the Huguenot Society of America on account of my descent from Jacques Reynaud, first free holder of New Rochelle, whose house is still pointed out to many visitors in that suburb of New York City, I am glad to proclaim General Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, as also a Huguenot descendant of a member of the Pennsylvania Society, whose ancestors left France at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. It was as a child of France coming to rescue his ancestral home and to re-establish liberty that he said at Lafayette's tomb: 'Lafayette, we are here.'

"Having read recently in the press the public expression of opinion uttered by another recent Pennsylvania recipient of this honor, I wish to state in your august presence that I think he altogether misrepresents the sentiment of the American people in regard to the League of Nations and its part in forming the League of Nations. As a strong and intimate friend of President Roosevelt for many years, I cordially join with Ex-President Wilson and Mr. Taft in supporting President Wilson's efforts for the formation of the League of Nations, conscious that if the present draft of its constitution is not satisfactory it can be amended or amended again, until it is as nearly perfect as the human mind can make anything. Untiresome occasions will require new adjustments which can be made when they arrive. The fourteen points of President Roosevelt, while stated with some what more clearness than those of President Wilson, are not more comprehensive, and agree in substance. The League of Nations, I think he would have few modifications to add to the present draft. He, our great American leader, was not fighting President Wilson, but the fruits of victory which are not to be lost by pacifists at home and German intrigue abroad. Holding no official position, he could speak more plainly and directly than any President in office, and his position do. We already have a League of Nations. As a strong and intimate friend of the League of Nations, I am glad to suggest to Miss Parkhurst to Minister Lloyd George, which has won the greatest victory of the ages. The new League, formed by the same great nations that have won the war, will carry on the cause and prevent any one nation settling down to rest again. Differing entirely from Mr. Beck, I agree with my friend, President Taft, and Henry VanDyke and the others of the League to Endeavor League, who are pleading for this country to explain to all citizens how a League, once estab-

ly established, will make future wars little to be feared.

My valued friend, Stephane Lauzanne, of the Paris Matins, has listed nearly a hundred wars waged by wild Germanic tribes east of the Rhine against the French on the west, and he seems to fear that this must continue forever, and Prime Minister Clemenceau seems to agree with him, but M. Bourgeois seems more hopeful. Ex-President Taft puts it vividly when he said to me last week, 'The League of Nations has knocked Germany down once with its big club in November, and the League of Nations will use a big club ready to use again when necessary. This echoes the 'big stick' of Mr. Roosevelt and shows them agreed. It is for the sake of the peace of France, Belgium, Italy and England that we must have a strong League of Nations. Some Democrats as well as Republicans in this country have been misled and called to fight again in Europe or in Asia. It is not very likely that this will occur and the policing of this continent will naturally be assigned to this country and a part of Europe to that nearest at hand.

"Having given my all to this war, with my three sons, two brothers, two nephews and eleven cousins volunteered in the war, and having been an officer of the New York militia for nearly thirty years, I wish to see the United States Army and navy, and our state troops also, to be ready, should a similar crisis arise, and civilization and liberty be again threatened by any robber nation anywhere, to beat the drums of Hun and protect women and little children.

"It is better to fight American battles on foreign shores than have invaders ravage our own shores and cities. We came once on your appeal in the name of Lafayette and I wish to assure the French government and people that we are ready to come again if you call to us in your hour of need.

The amphictyonic council of Greater New York, the first democratic assembly formed between rival governments for offensive and defensive purposes, but the first League of Nations is due to France. To Henry of Navarre who became Henry the IV and who not alone united in harmony Roman Catholics and Huguenots but proposed a League of Nations for the peace of Europe in a League of Nations. The 'Grand Edict' offered by him to Queen Elizabeth of England in 1596 A. D. embraced six hereditary kingdoms, England, France, Spain, Sweden, Lombardy and Denmark; five elective kingdoms the empire, Hungary, Bohemia, Poland and the papacy; and the papacy itself. The liberalizing assembly formed between rival governments for offensive and defensive purposes, but the first League of Nations is due to France.

"I was pleased to be asked to receive the delegation from Alsace and Lorraine when they landed in New York in 1917, and to receive a cablegram of thanks from your illustrious President Poincaré through Prime Minister Ribot and Consul General Liebert, New York, and your regards gratefully acknowledged to his kindness by sending me his framed and signed photograph through the consulate. It was also my privilege to introduce the sale of the Verdun medals in America and to receive from the mayor and several other dignitaries of the city a personal letter of thanks. Mon-sieur Ribot, Minister of Navy on the twenty-fifth of April sent me a most appreciative cablegram. My children who are also proud of their father's blood, and I receive a letter these as well as complimentary comments on my fugitive verses which have been printed on this side and have received approval in the French press.

"There is a new tie which binds us together now. In the Revolutionary war French soldiers died here in America for us and in our ceremonies on the day when we decorate the resting places of our revolutionary ancestors the tricolor is placed on their graves, which will remain ours forever. They contain all that is left of soldiers born in France who came to our aid. So thousands of Americans boys have died in France saying to the Hun 'You shall not pass.' Many parents and wives like President Roosevelt and his wife will prefer that their dead shall rest where they fell. In your soil and kindly keepings shall rest until the final assize of our dearest and our best. And when the final dissolution shall take place and flesh and blood has returned to earth again your battle front will contain forever all that is left of our choicest and bravest sons."

BORAH DECLINES SEAT AT DINNER

other member of the committees has advised the President in connection, and that it was understood all the others would accept. On receiving the Idaho senator's letter to-day, Secretary Tumulty immediately transmitted it by wireless to President Wilson aboard the transport George Washington on his way home from France. Senator Borah is one of a group of senators, including some Democrats, as well as Republicans, who oppose any sort of internationalization.

Dinner Arranged for February 26

The President's dinner to which the members of the committees of both houses dealing with foreign affairs will be invited, by wireless to George Washington on his way home from France. Senator Borah is one of a group of senators, including some Democrats, as well as Republicans, who oppose any sort of internationalization.

Senator Borah's letter follows: "I greatly appreciate your note honoring me with an invitation to meet the President February 26 to discuss the League of Nations. It is one of the most vital concerns of the whole country. Meetings at the White House, according to a long standing custom, are always regarded as strictly confidential upon the part of the guests.

Receipt to Make a Gray Hair Remedy A. L. Paulson, M. D., who has practiced medicine in New York City for many years, gave out the following recipe for a home-made gray hair remedy: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the following simple remedy that you can make at home: "Merely get a small box of Orest powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 4 ounces of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Directions for mixing and use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box. "It is safe; it does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

This meeting, I take it, would be regarded as especially confidential, otherwise the President would have spoken according to his custom to the open Senate.

Differences Fundamental The differences between the President and myself on this question are fundamental. I am sure no suggestion of mine would modify in the slightest the view of the President, and nothing could induce me to support a proposed constitution or anything like it.

"I feel, therefore, that it would not be fair to the President to accept his confidence or receive from him confidential information concerning this subject. Neither in my view of the subject, could I accept information which I would not feel perfectly free to transmit to my colleagues or use in public debate. After much reflection, I beg, therefore, to be excused from attending the meeting.

Means to Affront to Wilson In writing this note and in taking this course I mean no personal disrespect to or disregard the President. I simply find myself in such disagreement with him and feel so intensely about this matter that I cannot do other than candidly advise him of the fact."

Senator Borah said he planned to address the Senate Thursday. Several Republican members of the Senate committee stated privately to-day that they would not regard themselves bound by confidential information which they received from the President's invitation with reluctance.

Yardman Criticizes Wilson

Discussion of the League of Nations developed unexpectedly in the Senate to-day. Senator Yardman, of Mississippi, Democrat, declared the league was unconstitutional and criticized President Wilson for asking Congress to remain silent on the subject until he returned to Washington.

The purpose of the reception is to extend the hospitality of the city to the state officials who will make Harrisburg their home during their terms in office. The Heroic Sacrifices of France

Never in the world's history has any nation ever sacrificed so heroically of its blood and treasure than has France in the present world conflict. Her great peasant population has suffered and bled for democracy with undying fortitude. America, also, owes these people a great debt of gratitude for a perfect remedy for stomach, liver and intestinal disorders, which, it is reported, has already saved many American lives and prevented thousands of surgical operations. Geo. H. Mayr, for years a leading Chicago chemist, imports and sells it in this country under the name of Mary's Wonderful Remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. H. C. Kennedy and Clark's Medicine Store.

There's a mighty good reason why BRICKER'S O. K. BREAD has been the household word for twelve years.

Not only is BRICKER'S O. K. BREAD O. K.'d at the bakery before you get it—but it is likewise O. K.'d when you serve it on the table.

It tastes good — there's no question about that. It is easily digested—that's certain. It is nourishing—because it is made of the best flour—all wheat flour.
