Tableaux Show Close Relationship Between Parent and Child

Captain E. J. Stackpole told fathers and sons of Harrisburg assembled in their second annual banquet in the Chestnut Street Auditorium last night how it felt to be wounded in action. "It feels as though someone had pounded me in the middle of the back with a big mallet," he related. "There was no pain and no other sensation, merely an awful wallow in the middle of the back and down I went." Captain Stackpole narrated his experiences in France, telling many interesting incidents.

The program of last night's festivities was designed to bring the father and son into closer relations. The principal or thumship were brought out in addresses and companionship was urged as an invaluable asset. Speakers emphasized the value of the father as an ideal for his son's emulation. Tableaux showing the comradeship of the parent and the child were posed. Arthur D. B. Dinsmore, boys work secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A. talked on "Boys." Mr. Dinsmore's talk was illustrated by lantern slides. Boys who were treated by lantern slides. Boys who were treated by lantern slides.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 18.—A strike of copper miners in the Butte field ended last night with the decision of the I. W.
