By Associated Press London, Feb. 27.—Princess Patricia of Connaught and Commander Alexander R. M. Ramsay, R. N., were married at Westminster Abbey this noon. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Dean of Westminster and other noted ecclesiastics, in the presence of King George and Queen Mary, and a great assemblage of members of the royal family, distinguished officials of the British and foreign governments and friends and visitors from abroad. Ambassador and Mrs. John W. Davis were present. The Prince of Wales made a special visit from the continent to attend the ceremony.

Plain People Royal Guests In the fashionable audience in the great nave of the abbey today were seated for a number of the many friends of the princess among the plain people and also representatives of charitable organizations in which she was interested. Her gown was of a white brocaded tulle over silver lace, the outer gown being caught up with silver lovers knots. She carried a bouquet presented by the "Princess Pat" Canadian regiment and tied with the regimental colors.

Choir Leads Procession The procession was led by a choir, followed by the ushers. Then came Princess Patricia, with her bridesmaids. They were followed by the Earl of MacDuff, eldest son of the Duchess of Fife, and the Honorable Simon Ramsay, as pages, bearing the princess' train. MONARCHISTS PLOT TO SEIZE THE REINS OF GOVERNMENT IN BERLIN; ARMY OFFICERS HOLD WHIP HAND

Republic Is Bullied by New Group

READY FOR A COUP D'ETAT

Munitions and Men in Readiness to Spring New Revolution

By Associated Press London, Feb. 27.—The monarchists of Germany are contemplating an early coup d'etat in the opinion of the Mail's correspondent at Berlin, who says that the old officer class, with its general staff, has been gradually getting the whip hand there since January 13 and now holds the government in its power.

The threatened coup d'etat would be carried out in Berlin alone, he writes, "and would probably for a time be successful although it would certainly result in ruthless civil war and unscrupulously political murders. A large number of officers are said to be associated in the plot, which aims at the overthrow of the present government and the restoration of the old order of things."

A secret meeting of monarchist officers was held at Berlin on Feb. 16. It was summoned by Major Von Herringen, son of the former secretary of war. Thirty officers attended and each is said to have pledged himself to hold in his residence a quantity of munitions ready for an emergency and to assemble at a certain place when called upon. Every member of the plot has been requested to enlist as many officers loyal to the former government as possible. It is understood "the government has been warned of what is going on."

Republicans Bullied The correspondent says the organization of new bodies of troops by the government, for which alone can save it from the Spartans and other extremists, has been possible only by reason of the government yielding to the old officer class, which has already bullied the government into yielding at numerous political crimes and arbitrary acts which have been committed.

Margaret and Julius have been having troubles of their own, the attorney explains, and Margaret sued Julius for support. Because of this suit it is alleged Mrs. Lagyak, defending her son's actions, took exception to the prosecution against him and in doing so said some things which Mrs. Tormala didn't like. The suit will be listed for trial in common pleas court.

Counterfeit Quarter Turns Up in Harrisburg

A new counterfeit quarter, very hard to detect, has turned up in Harrisburg. The first of the quarters which Mrs. Tormala didn't like, was discovered by a Market street bank this afternoon.

"BILLY, BILLY, WHOSE GOAT ARE YOU?" QUERIES MR. WOLF

Anxious Appeal Made to Owner of Nice, White Goat to Come and Get His Pet and Take It Home

To get a man's "goat" may be sport for some, but to get his goat and not know what to do with it, is a horse of another color, mixed metaphorically speaking. So says J. H. Wolf, 1852 Walnut street, who since Sunday has been harboring, sheltering and feeding a goat which ambled peacefully into his back yard and has refused to leave. Mr. Wolf now objects to having been adopted by the animal and wants some one to come and take him away. It's a nice goat as goats go, and is willing to eat anything that Mr. Wolf gives it or innocently lets get in the goat's path. It will eat potatoes or potato peelings with equal relish, says he. Mr. Wolf is extremely anxious to have the owner call or anyone who wants to be the owner of the active young animal.

SALOONMEN WHO PAID FULL YEAR LICENSES LIFTED UNDER NEW ACT PERMITTING PAYMENT IN MONTHLY INSTALLMENT

Wholesale and retail liquor dealers in the city and county who have been delaying lifting their 1919 licenses and the payment of the tax for the whole year pending the final disposition of a bill permitting monthly payments of the fee, to-day kept the county treasurer's and prothonotary's office busy issuing the licenses when they learned that Gov. Spruill had signed the bill. The dealers have only until tomorrow to lift their licenses which go into effect March 1, 1919. Some of the proprietors made a payment for one month only, while others paid for four months, or until July 1. Only five dealers lifted their licenses before to-day and paid the full amount of the tax. County officials said they do not think that they have any authority to remit any of this money and intimated that the dealers must take action if they want any of the money back. No changes have been made in the annual tax which each dealer must pay. Provided the July 1 order prohibiting the sale of any intoxicants after that date, remains in effect, it will cut the revenue formerly received by the city, county, boroughs and townships to one-third the amount received in former years, but it is not believed officials will find cut in funds a serious shortage to meet.

HOLDERS OF WAR JOBS HAVE BIG TAXES TO MEET

Munitions Workers Hard Put to Find Money For Uncle Sam

ONE OLD JOKE EXPLODED

Big Plants Aid Employes by Giving Them Statements of Wages Earned

War workers who received high wages in munitions plants, railroads and at other highly paid occupations during the war are just beginning to learn the truth of the statement that those who "kept the home fires burning" have their share to do in the struggle. Scores of these workmen who made $45 to $70 a week during prosperity's crest and who are now working at the average wage, are hard pressed to meet the high income tax demanded by Uncle Sam. In many cases the worker spent his money as soon as he got it and put nothing away to meet the tax. The tax is six per cent, on all over $1,000 if the worker is single, and $2,000 if married. Thus if the unmarried munition worker made $1,800 he owes the government six per cent, of $800 or $48.

ONE JOKE EXPLODED

The oldest joke in the history of governments, "said an internal revenue collector to-day, "is that of the man who says: 'I'd be glad to pay the tax if I had the money to pay it on. When it comes to making good now, it's another story.'"

New York, Feb. 27.—News of the death to-day at his home in Holmesburg, near Philadelphia, of Colonel William Bender Wilson, famous as a Civil War telegrapher and railroad man, was received here to-day. He was 80 years old and was president of the Society of the United States Military Telegraph Corps. Born in Harrisburg, Pa., he had been a telegrapher since 1852. He was a Philadelphia City Councilman for several terms, and author of a number of books on military and railroad subjects. The Legislature of Pennsylvania years ago awarded him a gold medal for patriotic services. William B. Wilson came of a family long identified with Harrisburg. He was the son of Thomas Wilson, who was connected with the State government for years and related to a number of families prominent in Dauphin and Cumberland counties. The Wilsons while there were several times, among them the late Mrs. Thomas Elder; Mrs. Hutchison, mother of the late Colonel Joseph B. Hutchison, and the Misses Sue and Jennie Wilson. Mr. Wilson's services as a railroad telegrapher were recognized by an act of the Legislature and conferring of military rank. His historical writings on the Pennsylvania railroad won him quite a reputation.

WAVE OF CRIME ON INCREASE IN CITY; NEW BUNCO GAMES

Police Nab Two Former Soldiers Charged With Highway Robbery; Girl Works New Scheme on Merchants

Two men charged with holding up and robbing the chauffeur and stealing the automobile of City Detective George Shuler, were arrested at the passenger station platform of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Duncannon this morning. The theft of the Shuler automobile was one of the two such thefts reported to police headquarters last evening in the fast increasing crime wave that has struck this city. Several sharpers have appeared in the city and police officials to-day issued warnings against them.

The two men charged with the theft of the Shuler automobile gave their names as Joe Morgan and Roy A. Dillon. They claim that they are discharged soldiers and came to this city from Colorado and at the time of their arrest were carrying large caliber revolvers. They will be given a hearing on the charge of highway robbery at police court this afternoon.

Robbed in Car Last night after they had been taken from Third and Market streets by City Detectives Shuler and Speer, they held him up at the point of revolvers, robbed him of all the money he had and made off with the automobile. After they had gotten away, Challenger went to a nearby farmhouse and phoned to the police station. City Detectives Shuler and Speer made a search in another car and after some time located the automobile near Halifax. It was brought to this city early this morning in a slightly damaged condition.

Girl Is Film-Flamed

Local grocers were warned to be on the lookout against the wiles of a young woman bunco worker whose name is already known to one merchant out of a considerable sum. According to the merchant's story, the young woman hangs around the neighborhood of the store where she intends to push her activities, until she has learned the name of a good customer who runs a charge account. This she sometimes manages to do by purchasing some article in the store and observing the other customer while doing so. When she has learned the name of a profitable customer, it is said, she calls upon the grocer at his home after working hours, and asks him to advance her a sum of money, saying that she is a member of the household which does much business with the grocer. She tells him, it is said, that her mother wishes to pay a bill but is temporarily embarrassed for money. She asks him to lend her the needed sum, and charge it to their account. The grocer, when he complies, therefore has no way of knowing that he has been film-flamed until the account is settled. One merchant has reported this scheme.
