able to contribute are to be sent through the mails in the next few days and it is the hope of the officers of the association that the response will be in proportion to the aid given other deserving charities on the city. Persons desiring to contribute and whose names may be omitted from the mailing list, may send their checks to the Visiting Nurse Association, 210 Arcade building. The officers are: Mrs. A. P. L. Dull, honorary president; Mrs. W. Orville Hickok, 3d, president; Mrs. Henry B. McCormick, vice-president; Mrs. Paul A. Kunkel, secretary, and Mrs. E. K. Gross, treasurer.

The increased number of invalids created by last fall's influenza epidemic, together with the increased number of other persons in need of free nursing as the result of the normal growth of the city are responsible for a considerable increase in the number of calls upon the facilities of the organization which has been faithfully serving Harrisburg for the last twenty years.

The nurses are called to every part of the city and in a vast number of cases the patients are unable to pay. It is therefore essential to the success of the work that the contributing membership shall be vastly increased in 1919 and that the old members shall contribute to the full extent that they have in the past. There is, of course, especial need for large contributions, but a gift of one dollar admits a contributor to membership.

COMMITTEE PLANS TO IMPROVE MAIL

A. R. Michener, of Harrisburg Telegraph, on Committee of Circulation Managers

Plans for improving the distribution of daily newspapers by mail were discussed by members of the Inter-State Circulation Managers' Association at the Penn-Harris yesterday.

J. D. Hardy, chief clerk of District No. 9, Railway Mail Service, was the principal speaker and pointed out how the newspapers and mail service may co-operate to give patrons prompt service.

Several suggestions for proposed changes in certain regulations and a number of plans for obtaining improved mail service were placed in the hands of a committee, which will place them before the Post Office Department. This committee includes A. R. Michener, Harrisburg Telegraph; L. P. Rutherford, Philadelphia Record; and F. E. Kain, York Gazette.

Yesterday's convention was the most successful yet held by the Inter-State Association and it was announced by President A. E. MacKinnon, Philadelphia, that the Inter-State is now the largest sectional organization in existence. Daily newspapers from four states, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, and the District of Columbia were represented.

NEW GUARD TO GET ARMORY PAY

Adjutant General Beary Arranging For Reconstituted Militia

Steps for the reconstruction of the National Guard of Pennsylvania were taken by Adjutant General Frank D. Beary who has just returned from Washington.

Beary was in the Federal building where he appeared before congressional committees in regard to militia legislation. The plan is to have the regiments and other organizations bear the numbers of their respective units and the Federal government to supply the equipment.

From what has been learned here the legislation to pay members of the new guard for armory drills is under way and will become effective when the units are reorganized. The strength of the new guard reaches 200 men for each representative in Congress. This would make 7600 men in the new guard.

It is expected that many of the men who served in France will be members of the new guard together with men who were in the army units which did not have the fortune to get overseas service. The Reserve Militia which now numbers about 3200 men will also contribute quite a few men.

WILLIAM BOYER MEMORIAL DAY

People of Halifax Will Honor Donor of $30,000 High School Building

Halifax, Pa., Feb. 28.—Public schools will observe Boyer Memorial Day with appropriate exercises this evening in honor of the late William Harris Boyer, of New York, who donated to the town its beautiful $30,000 High School building.

THE manager of the Em- ployment Bureau

all departments of the Wilson & Company plant.

He made no mistake in choosing the manager of the Men's Employment Bureau, who is a man of big frame, big heart, big character and with a big idea of his duty toward his company and toward his fellow man.

Among the number who applied for jobs while I was in the manager's office was a soldier in uniform. His appearance and manner and conversation indicated that he was a refined, educated man. The manager told him that he guessed he had made a mistake in applying to him for a job—that evidently he wanted an office position, or, perhaps, wanted to go on the road as a salesman—that he employed men only who were willing to work with their hands. Mark what this soldier said:

"No, I don't want an easy job. I want to work with my hands. I 'found myself' overseas. Living in trenches and going 'over the top' made a different man of me. That hard work gave me health and strength. I never felt better in my life. I want to keep my body as healthy and as strong as it is now. I want a job that requires the use of my hands, arms, legs, shoulders, feet. I can use my head, too, in doing manual labor. I want very much to work for this company. I hear everybody speak so well of the organization. I will appreciate it greatly if you will give me an opportunity to work as a laborer. I'll take my chance on working my way up. The president of your company got to the top by starting at the bottom of the ladder. Maybe I can climb to the top, too, if I am not too particular about the kind of work I start to do."

Dear Folks

THE manager said to him: "You are all right, my lad; you've got the right stuff in you. Come here next Monday and I will start you to work. We want men of your grit."

He came to work the following Monday.

He has already made a hit with his fellow workmen.

They like him a lot and are very proud of him.

They are true-blue Americans and think a soldier who was in fight over there is the kind of pal they want to tie up to.

They think very often of their fellow workers who went overseas but will never come back.

I want to tell you, folks, that it does a fellow a lot of good to get next to the hearts of real people.

The Heart in the Wilson & Company organization shows everywhere. It does not play hide-and-seek. It comes right out in the open. There is no difficulty in tagging it.

I am going to give you in my next week letter a very human story about a little slip of a girl—25 years old—who is the inspiring leader in the ranks of over 1,100 women workers in the Wilson & Company plant.

Sincerely, William C. Freeman,
131 E. 23rd St., New York City, where all of the men laborers in the Wilson & Company plant, Chicago, are employed, invited me to sit in his office all of one morning and look over the men who applied for jobs. I accepted his invitation and I had a most interesting experience. I will tell you about it.

In the first place, I heard practically every man say: "I want to work here, boss, because Wilson & Company treat men right and you give them a chance to get higher up in the ranks when they make good!"

In the second place, I noticed, with great personal satisfaction, that the manager treated every applicant for a job with as much courtesy as if he were receiving him in his own home.

In the third place, I got the surprise of my life when I saw men, who had been told by the manager that he could not give them anything to do just then, leave the office with a smile and a thank you.

I wondered why men could smile and say thank you after being told that there was nothing for them to do. So I asked one of them what there was to smile about and why he said thank you, and he said, in effect, this:

"Oh, the boss, there, is always kind to everybody and I like to give me a job if he could. I am coming back again until I get a job with this company. I want to work here because I am sure of getting a square deal."

And he went away happy; so did the others.

However, men keep on applying for work in the Wilson & Company plant in spite of the fact that they know the company is always full up with laborers who never want to leave their jobs.

The manager is the type that Mr. Wilson selects to deal with his army of workers. He won't have a man unless love for his fellows is thoroughly developed in him — unless he is a good judge of human nature — unless he has the quality of selecting workers who will keep up the good fellowship and the loyal spirit that exists so markedly in Office Closed.—The office of Frank R. Shattuck, chairman of the State Board of election for moving pictures, was closed to-day because of the death at Atlantic City of the chairman. Mr. Shattuck was well known to many Harrisburgers as he had frequently been here as counsel in cases and on business of the board. While the headquarters were in Philadelphia he maintained a close connection with affairs here.

Model Arrives.—The model of the Memorial bridge made by Arnold W. Brunner for the Legislature reached the Capitol last night from New York and is being assembled under direction of Superintendent George A. Shreiner. The model is sixteen feet long and came in three sections. It will not be ready for public view until Monday.

Beideman to Attend.—Lieutenant-Governor Edward E. Beideman will not attend the Terranin Club dinner in Philadelphia to-morrow, but will remain here for the Dauphin county bar dinner. He is to speak at Scranton on Monday.

Sprout His Own Governor Sprout made another of his anti-Bolshevik speeches in Pittsburgh last night, declaring that law and order will be preserved and that persons who want trouble can find it. The Governor, Mr. Beideman and Secretary Baker were given a notable reception at Syria Temple by the Western Pennsylvania Shriners.
