

Best Shipping of Nipples to Save Her Babies

London, March 1. — The action of the Women's International League in sending 500,000 rubber nipples to Germany to save German babies and efforts to get money to send another half million has been the subject of considerable controversy in England.

man babies, by 1933 there would be no German soldiers fit to fight. Commenting on this statement the Evening Standard says: "There are crowds of people in this country, who while loving children, want to know if the first and most imperative duty of Great Britain is to raise up a German army for 1933. There are many in the areas upon which German children's fathers dropped bombs killing English children, and still many more in France and Belgium, whose childhood came face to face with these German children's fathers who would tell where the charitable thought of Great Britain as regards children might first be focused."

Motorcycle News

Heagy's Sporting Goods Store, local agents for the Harley-Davidson motorcycle, report the sales to date to be 21 new 1919 motorcycles and 17 sidecars.

Elmer Yeast, a well-known local motorcycle rider, has returned to his post at Camp Humphries, Va., after enjoying a short furlough at home. Mr. Yeast has complete charge of all motorcycles and repairs at this camp.

Ordnance Sergeant W. S. Townsend, the popular Harrisburg motorcyclist, who was stationed at Camp Ralston, N. J., has received his discharge from the U. S. Service and has again taken up his duties with Harvey C. Heagy's Sporting Goods Store, where he will be glad to welcome his many friends.

Several Harrisburg motorcycle riders played an important part in the election of State Senator last Tuesday when they were employed in rushing messages of importance from different parts of the State and city to political headquarters.

A local boy just returning from Mather Aviation Field, Sacramento, Cal., gives us the following account of how on January 2, a motorcycle dispatch rider saved the lives of a number of soldiers and a $10,000 aeroplane:

Jumping from the saddle of a motorcycle speeding at sixty miles an hour into the fuselage of an airplane running unplotted across the field, Private Nelson O. Neumeyer, a motorcycle dispatch rider with the 132d Aero Squadron, brought the aircraft to a stop. He thereby prevented the death or injury of a number of soldiers who were drilling on the field and saved the air machine from wrecking itself against the side of a hangar.

Private Neumeyer was cleaning his motorcycle near one of the field hangars when a Curtiss Liberty-motored plane espied skipping across the field with no one in it. At mile-a-minute speed the derelict plane was headed straight for a company of soldiers who were out drilling on the field with their backs toward it. The noise of an approaching aircraft would never have attracted their attention inasmuch as dozens of airplanes were soaring about at various elevations overhead.

Entirely unmindful of risking his own skin, the motorcycle soldier jumped on his machine and sped after the runaway aircraft. He tore over the field at sixty miles an hour until he caught up with the plane as it bounded over the field in "grass cutting" leaps. At last he succeeded in dropping behind the plane and sprang from the saddle into the fuselage of the air machine. In another instant he had shut off the powerful Liberty motor, applied the brakes, and brought the airplane to a stop within fifty feet of the backs of the company of soldiers, who continued to drill without knowing of the incident some hours later.

Back near the edge of the field from which the derelict plane started its mad dash was found the body of Cadet Flyer Walter Franzen with the top of his skull torn off. To all appearances he had landed on the field and been killed. After landing he had evidently gone in front of the aeroplane, started the motor, and was killed by being struck by the propeller. The machine then started across the field at full speed unplotted.

MAY LEVY NEW MUNITION TAX

Higher Courts Will Decide Upon Action Taken by Judge Thompson

Philadelphia, March 1. — War munition taxes amounting to about $10,000,000 will flow into government coffers if a decision by Judge Thompson in federal court to-day is upheld by higher courts.

He ruled manufacturers of war munitions are subject to a special tax of 12 1/2 per cent. profits from such munitions, regardless whether the work is in early stages or completed.

A test suit to determine whether manufacturers of parts of steel shells, which were turned over to other firms for completion were liable for the tax was filed by Worth Brothers Company, Coatesville, Pa., and Judge Thompson's opinion favored the government.

Worth Brothers Company contended while the rough steel forgings could be used for war munitions when they reached the last manufacturing process at the Worth plant they were still articles available in common commerce, and not subject to the munition tax therefore.

Train Stalled in Snow, Hit By Another; Two Persons Were Killed

Chicago, March 1. — Blizzards were reported yesterday in Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Southern South Dakota. The storm was working eastward and the weather bureau predicted zero weather for Chicago tonight or tomorrow.

In Minnesota a stock train stalled in the snow was struck by a passenger train, two persons being killed and a number injured.

Want Stern Judge to Remain on Bench in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, March 1. — Business men and residents of Philadelphia who have been terrorized by bandits, highwaymen and thieves of all kinds during the last few months, are urging that Judge Robert B. McCormick, of Lock Haven, be invited to remain on the bench of Quarter Sessions Court No. 2 for the next two months in order to keep in check the outlaws. This is the day of his scheduled sitting here.

The stiff sentences and his salutary lessons to criminals while serving here during the illness of Judge Breyer are said to have been the most potent factor in deterring outlaws. In the month at Judge McCormick has been here he has disposed of more than 600 criminal cases, which surpasses any record known in the Philadelphia courts.

Selden Trucks 1877--1919

THE TEST OF WAR SERVICE

To help the Allied Nations bring the World War to a successful end shipload after shipload of SELDEN TRUCKS was transported overseas—to England, to France, to Italy, to Russia, to Japan—and mile after mile of SELDEN TRUCKS were driven overland to army camps and industrial plants in this country.

Economy, speed, rugged construction, power, absolute dependability and endurance to the limit were the requirements of war service. Selden "In-Built Quality" met them all.
