

FARM MANAGERS BEING TRAINED

Disabled Soldiers, Educated For Direction of Farms, Sure of Jobs

Washington, March 6.—A large percentage of men in the United States armies coming from farms or semi-rural environment have raised an interesting question in the training of disabled men by the federal board for vocational education, as to how the background of agricultural information of these individuals can best be utilized. The general impression is that when a man has lost his strength his usefulness on a farm is at an end. The federal board does not at all subscribe to this and the course which has been evolved on "farm management" is proving one of the most popular with those men who have taken retraining. The small percentage of profits of inefficient management, of idle and incompetent management, makes thousands of farmers not living on their places very desirous to secure farm managers capable of inducing farm management, and to meet this growing need the course in farm management for disabled soldiers has been evolved by the federal board for vocational education, and indications are that the demand for these well trained men will considerably exceed the supply. Disabled men taking training are allowed a support fund of $65 per month minimum, all expenses are paid and places found for the graduates. This training is mainly given in the land grant colleges of the various states.

CRIME SPREADS OVER ENGLAND

Result of Idle Hands Since the Signing of the Armistice

London, March 6.—Crime has been on the increase in England since the signing of the armistice and, in official quarters, particularly Scotland Yard, is attributed to a great extent to soldiers on leave. It is the natural result of idle hands, the officials say. Attendants at centers where leave men congregate seem to be of one opinion as to why soldiers now commit petty crimes. They say the bearing of the soldiers has changed since the hostilities ended. When they obtained a brief respite from the fighting they still felt that they were engaged, still had something to do and something to think about. People who are at Young Men's Christian Association and Red Cross centers say that now there is no interest for the soldiers at the front and little they can do in the cities, as few have much money. They are idle mentally and physically. There has been a tendency to blame overseas men for much of the crime, not Americans as comparatively few of them are on leave in England, but a Scotland Yard official has stated that the English troops are as much responsible as their colonial brothers.

American Tonnage Menace to British Coal Export Trade

London, March 6.—American tonnage is described as undoubtedly a distinct menace to British coal export trade in a statement made by Alexander Lee, chief of the coal prices department of the board of trade, before the coal commission investigating this subject. At present England is just beginning to feel the effects of American competition, he said, because until January it had been agreed that American coal should not be transported to Europe. American competition, added Mr. Lee, was feared in the Mediterranean particularly, and the British would have to consider altering the export regulations to meet the situation. The Americans were already underselling the British in South America.

SENIORITY TO RULE IN HOUSE

Republican Leaders Will Follow Plan in Naming Committees

Washington, March 6.—Republican organization of the next House of Representatives is being pushed forward by party leaders, composing the committee on committees, with practically a final decision that seniority of membership would continue to determine committee ranks. This action, taken in respect to the eleven principal committees, applied to chairmanships, as well as to other leading places. Before undertaking to consider the question of membership rank, the Republicans decided on the apportionment of places on the committees between the two parties. Because of their margin of control of the next House, the committee decided to increase the majority appointment by one member with a similar reduction of Democrats or minority membership. The principal committee, having twenty-one members would under the plan adopted, be divided between thirteen Republicans and eight Democrats, while practically the same ratio would obtain with the committee of smaller membership. A decision to make possible use of the committee on departmental expenditures for proposed investigation of war expenditures and other inquiries of department activities led to the membership apportionment

SERBIANS KILLED ON LEMON HILL

Bodies Left Exposed to Dogs and Wolves by the Bulgars

Nish, Serbia, March 6.—Cumulative evidence has been given the correspondent of The Associated Press by many Serbian mayors or prefects, of a studied attempt by Bulgarians during their occupation of Serbia, to exterminate part of the civilian population. In the town of Bela Planca the number who fell victims to Bulgar massacres is placed by the Chief of Police at three hundred. At the invitation of this official, the correspondent visited the scene where many of these murders were carried out. He saw heaps of human bones, skulls and fragments of clothing. No effort apparently had been made by Bulgars to give their victims burial and their bodies were left exposed to dogs and wolves. Among the Serbians killed here was a seventy-year-old monk. The Bulgars placed a special guard about this place of slaughter which is situated high up on Lemon Hill, and forbade any Serbian going near it under penalty of death.

Why Coal Prices Cannot Drop

The retail price of coal is made up of three elements — cost of mine, transportation and dealer's margins.

The cost of coal at the mine today, it is stated, is close to 10 per cent. higher than before the war. The transportation cost is about 55 per cent. higher. The advance in mining cost was necessary to take care of the higher wage scale and advanced cost of materials and supplies. Miners' wages will not be lowered by the operation — coal prices cannot materially change.

To Test Civil Service Status of Fire Chiefs

Philadelphia, March 6.—Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, president of the Firemen's Association, announces that the executive committee of the Civil Service Reform Association of Pennsylvania has accepted a request of the firemen's organization to unite in bringing proceedings to test the civil service status of fire chiefs in second and third class cities. "The withdrawal on February 23 of the appeal pending before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania," said the announcement, "from the decision of Judge Berger, of the Schuylkill county court, to the effect that fire chiefs did not come under the new civil service law for cities of the third class, as well as of the second class, has created a situation of disappointment among the firemen of the state."

Hid Four Years to Escape the Germans

Paris, March 6.—The adventures of two French stragglers, Sergeant Lesquere and Private Levesque, who becoming separated from their units after the battle of Charleroi, remained in hiding for more than four years in German occupied territory are told in the newspaper La Victoire. In the early days of the war, civilians helped the two soldiers but as the German domination became weightier, they took to the woods. They owe their lives to an old Belgian poacher and smuggler who, throughout all the years of their adventures, helped them with provisions. They are now in a French hospital recovering from the effects of their privations.
