hereafter. Formal notices have been posted informing the men that the five More than twenty breweries of arge size, in the State will be turned into ice manufacturing plants, bespite this, the shortage of ice will be great. A prominent ice manufacturer attending the sessions of he Association of Ice Manufacturer, of Pennyllyania made this fore.

the Association of Ice Manufacturers of Pennsylvania made this forecast in an interview last evening.

The manufacturer presented the cheering news that in his belief there will be no advance in the price of ice this year. He emphasized that the association is not formed for the purpose of raising prices or of discussing them. "We are banded together for mutual protection: for the association is not formed for the purpose of raising prices or of discussing them. "We are banded together for mutual protection: for careful keeping in touch with all bills introduced into the State Legislature which will effect ou interests: for the perpetuation of the spirit of co-operation among the ice manufacturers of the Keystone State, and the conducting of an efficient campaign for lower fire and workmen's compensation rates.

The closing feature of the convention at which organization was effected, was the first annual banquet held in the Penn-Harris ballroom last night. "It will be the policy of this administration during the next four years to spend at least a hundred million dollars on good roads and other improvements," Lieutenant-Governor E. E. Beidleman told the banqueters. He opposed a flat 25 per cent. increase in teachers salaries, explaining that some teachers who are now receiving five and six thousand dollars a year don't need a flat raise, while the poor, struggling county teachers don't need a flat raise, while the poor, struggling county teachers on the care of fairly.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman followed with a brief talk. "I do not believe the present session of the Legislature will continue long," he said. "We haven't accomplished much and I don't believe we will because this is not the time for harassing. We want to work on reconstruction."

struction."

The, members of the association were so much delighted with the kindly treatment accorded them by the management and employes of the Penn-Harris and the people of Harrisburg, that they voted the Capital City their permanent annual meeting place. It is probable that semiannual meetings will be held in some other city of the State. Plans to this effect will be worked out later.
