Typical Scene From "Queen of the Sea"

Even realism isn't enough these days, according to Annette Kellerman, the internationally famous woman swimmer.

"They wanted realism recently in a picture in which I was starred," she explains, "and so they stretched a cable from a tower on a point of land, across an arm of the sea, to the mainland opposite. Then they induced me to get out on the wire while some one chopped it near the tower end and I tumbled me into the eight-five feet of space between my starting point and the water. I did the stunt five times before the picture took."

"The other day I was witnessing a private showing of the production. A party of women were present who did not know me, and I overheard one of them remark, 'knowing, oh, that isn't real! It couldn't be! They must have used a dummy.' I didn't remain to see the rest of the picture. What was the use, after that?"

The thrilling dive which Miss Kellerman made is shown in the newest William Fox submarine spectacle, "Queen of the Sea," which is being shown at the Victoria today, Wednesday and Thursday.

In a letter to his grandmother he states that he was so sick it was all he could do to get on board the boat at Brest, and as soon as the ship's doctor saw him, he was sent to the hospital. In the ship's hospital he met an old friend who was on duty there.

His home in Harrisburg is at 508 South Thirteenth street. He enlisted in the Aviation Section in August, 1917, and was sent to Kelly Field, Texas for training. After six weeks training he was sent to France in October, 1917. He was at the front for eight months.

CENTRAL HIGH NOTES

Philonian Last Night
 The Philonians held their first meeting of the windy month last night. Milton G. Potts was the host at his home, 1513 North Second street. The "famous fifteen" followed the old adage, "Business Before Pleasure," and immediately went into a business session. New details of the big Philonian Dance, on April 21, were thrashed out, and several other important business matters were taken up. Although the "feed of the evening usually follows the business meeting, the order was reversed last night, and George Pulas, Arthur Hilber and several other members of the society presented a thrilling dramatic skit. Clyde Hocker furnished the music for the entrances and exits of the players, adding a great deal to the effect of the show. A "big feed" followed this entertainment, and the following members were present to enjoy it: Clyde Hocker, Stewart Wagner, Robert Crist, William McBride, Stanley Perrin, Gilchrist Bringer, Carl Stoner, Arthur Hilber, Fred Snyder, Alton Smith, Lewis Rimmer, George Pulas, Richard Quigley, Harold Connor and Milton Potts.

Thursday is the regular night for the Demosthenian meetings, but spurred on by their victory last Friday, have a mighty good chance to bring home two more laurels from up the state.

Preliminary Debate
 The two school teams will meet in a preliminary debate on Wednesday evening in the assembly hall. This debate was thought to be a wise move, in order to give the two teams a little experience from the platform before they meet their opponents on Friday night. The faculty of the school will be the only persons admitted at this time. All interested persons, however, are invited to attend the triangle debate between Central High and Reading High School on Friday evening, March 14.
